Dr. John Enck Heads PDA Animal Health, Diagnostic Bureau

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has announced several staffing changes, including the director of the state Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services, one of the most important programs to the productivity and safety of the state's livestock and pet industry, as well as human health.

John Enck Jr. VMD, of Dillsburg, has been named director of the Bureua of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services, replacing the retired Max Van Buskirk. Enk is to supervise the bureau and the state diagnostic laboratory, located adjacent to the state Agriculture Building in Harrisburg.

Enk is to also serve as executive director of the Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission, on which he has served since the commission started up in 1988. Over the years, he has served as vice chairman and chairman of the AHDC's Laboratory Design Committee, which was formed to address the building needs for the new diagnostic laboratory in Harrisburg.

The diagnostic laboratory and updated equipment was needed in order for Pennsylvania to earn national testing accreditation to be able to conduct instate testing associated with the exporting and importing of agricultural animals, and diagnose and help control animal diseases.

State Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes said, "Animal agriculture is the cornerstone of Pennsylvania's No. 1 industry. Dr. Enck brings a wealth of experience as a veterinarian and as a leader in the agricultural community, both on a state and national level. His familiarity with current animal health issues will be valuable as he begins his new position."

Hayes said that part of the goals set for the Bureau and the diagnostic laboratory are expansion of efforts to provide efficient, effective service to all Pennsylvanians and to animal health professionals.

"I am interest in developing even stronger relationships within the unique tripartite Pennsylvania Animal Diagnostic Laboratory System (PADLS), working cooperatively with the University

Governor Glendening Unveils Rural Legacy Areas

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

COMUS, Md. — Maryland Governor Parris Glendening unveiled the first Rural Legacy areas in the state at a news conference held at the Comus Inn here in Montgomery County. The Rural Legacy program is a land preservation initiative designed to protect agricultural land from the development encroaching into Maryland's rural areas. Rural Legacy is a component of the governor's Smart Growth plan to preserve some of the state's resources including open space land and to limit the adverse impacts of sprawl on agricultural lands and natural resources.

Surrounded by representatives from Montgomery, Frederick, and Washington counties who had jointly proposed the protected area, Governor Glendening said he is setting aside $8.25 million to purchase conservation easements that will create a corridor of protected natural land that spans the

When the horse moves, children riders with disabilities learn to evoke better control of their muscles. Warmth from the animal allows them a sense of comfort and puts them in touch. with nature.

A riding instructor, who walks with the handicapped on one side, helps them learn to interact in new and profound ways with the horse itself, the sidewalker, and the leader.

Farmers are having field days—days suitable to be in the fields—right on their own farms this week. After the storms of last week, field work progressed rapidly. According to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, corn planting was near completion by the begining of this week. That's slightly ahead of last year and the five-year average. Soybean planting was still behind the average. Adequate soil moisture and sunshine aided emergence of both the corn and soybean crops. Average corn height was six inches throughout the state.

Apple and peach conditions were rated mostly good to excellent. Reports indicate that a number of growers are experiencing an unusually heavy fruit crop.

The quality of hay cut was 83 percent good to excellent, 13 percent fair, and four percent poor. Lack of rain and cool weather slowed growth of pastures. Overall, the condition of pastures has gradually declined over the past few weeks.

As shown in the photos, barley harvest has progressed nicely with many fields completed and grain-runs good to excellent except where storms affected the stands. Monday afternoon, Mervin Leid was running Frank Weaver's custom combine for Allen Newswanger (no relation to the editor) along Hoover Avenue just south of Huyard Road between Ephrata and New Holland. Leid said this field was producing about 100 bushels per acre, better than most fields he had done. By the time rains came in mid-week, an estimated 70 percent of the barley had been harvested in southeastern counties. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

USDA-MO Dept. Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were narrowly mixed today. Beneficial rainfall in spring wheat growing areas and very light export demand pressured bids while rain delays in winter wheat harvest, offered some support. Corn bids were mostly steady in dull trading. Favorable growing weather in the Midwest and some scattered rains, weighed on bids. However, corn enjoyed good export business this week Soybean bids gained some ground at the close on active fund buying on the Board and lack of fresh export orders. Wheat steady to 1 cent lower. Corn steady. Sorghum steady to 1 cent lower. Soybeans 3 to 8 cents higher.

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder cattle steady with moderate demand. Stocker steers and steer calves 2.00-8.00 lower with greatest decline on 4 wt calves. Stocker heifers steady but light calves 4.00 lower. Demand for calves and stockers continues light. Farmer interest nil as wheat harvest progresses. Also dry conditions in south Central Oklahoma hindering development of crab grass pastures. Quality average. Feeder cattle in mostly medium flesh, end moderately fleshy. Flesh condition over past few weeks as farmers held cattle in hopes of a better market. Weighups average to full. Slaughter cows 1.00 lower. Slaughter bulls steady. Packer demand light to moderate. Demand from south Texas packers continues light due to drought conditions. Total cows and bulls 670 with half to packers. Receipts this week 10,200; last week 16,969; last year 12,125. Supply consisted of 79 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 15 percent calves; 6 percent cows and bulls of which half went to slaughter. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 15-21, 1998

ST. BASIL, JUNE 15.

SUMMER SOLSTICE

Didn't the folk opera Porgy & Bess tell it best? "Summertime, and the living is easy; Fish are jumping, and the cotton is high Your daddy's rich and your mama's good looking, So hush, little baby, don't you cry" Henry David Thoreau said it differently, but equally eloquently: "Live in each season as it passes; breathe air, drink the drink, taste the fruit, and resign yourself to the influences of each. Let them be your only diet, drink, and botanical medicines" June 21 is the date, 10:03 A.M Eastern Daylight Time, the moment. Look for Venus floating low near the Moon in the early morning.

I'll tell you how the Sun rose — A Ribbon at a time.

-- Emily Dickinson

TIP OF THE WEEK

PEACHES & BERRIES

6 peaches
2 lemons, cut into wedges
2 pints blackberries
2 pints strawberries (or raspberries)
1/2 cup honey
1 teaspoon ground cardamom

Boil a large pot of water and blanch the peaches for about 30 seconds, or until skins loosen Rinse with cool water, drain, and peel Halve and pit peaches and place two halves on each of six plates Sprinkle peaches with lemon juice, reserving some wedges for garnish Wash and hull the berries and let them dry Combine honey and cardamom, pour over berries, and stir gently Fill each peach half with some of the berry mixture and serve with lemon wedges

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If St. Vitus' Day (June 15) be rainy weather, it will rain for thirty days together.

The first three days of any season rule the weather for that season.

A severe summer, a windy autumn.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match our cash flow Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments

OPINION

The War Of Noses

As farming enterprises and urban home development countinues to grow closer together, the resulting "war of noses" intensifies. Last week we heard of a new large hog maternity operation that has just started. Even at half capacity the odor has already become so repulsive that homes down wind have been enveloped with "hog smell" that the families cannot tolerate.

These homeowners are not fresh out of the city. They have lived among and do business with farmers every day. In fact, one of the homes is a new one a farmer built on his farm property when the son took over the farming operation.

What seems disconcerting is that this hog house was built before the farm had a nutrient management plan in place. Now there seems to be a question about where all the hog manure will be placed.

We certainly support all farming enterprises though we are not sure the economies of scale and efficiences of largeness that show up on the drawing board always materialize in actual operation.

We do believe that whenever possible farmers should not put themselves in an adversarial position with government regulators or urban neighbors. They must use common sense when placing large size animal and poultry units near urban centers or where there is not enough land to utilize the nutrients produced by the operation.

To disregard this common sense is to risk the ire of neighbors and the likely possibility that the operation will be shut down by the environmental laws already on the books.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

To Compost Swine Mortality

With recent changes in Pennsylvania law, composting is now an option for disposing of swine mortality, according to Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Extension Environmental Agent. Composting involves the microbial breakdown of organic matter into carbon dioxide and water with the release of heat in the process.

Several factors need to be managed in order to make the process work efficiently. First, the moisture content needs to be in the 40 to 60 per cent range.

Second, oxygen is needed to maintain the activity of aerobic bacteria. If the compost pile is allowed to run out of oxygen, then anaerobic bacteria will begin to operate and this will result in break down products with offensive odors.

Therefore, it is important to maintain oxygen in the pile either by turning the pile or with aeration. The third parameter that needs to be managed is the carbon to nitrogen (C/N) ratio in the pile This should be in the 20 to 30 parts carbon per one part nitrogen.

Adding a bulking agent such as straw or dry broiler litter to the swine carcasses is necessary to supply carbon to bring the C/N ratio into the proper range.

To Build A Compost Facility

Composting of swine mortality should be done in a facility constructed to Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) specifications. These plans are available from your county NRCS or Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

Generally these facilities consist of several bins over a concrete pad with a roof. The bins are filled one at a time. First, a layer of carbon source such as straw and broiler litter is put down. Then the daily mortality for the day is placed in the bin. Then a final layer of broiler litter and straw is added. Each day the process is repeated until the bin is full.

The bin is allowed to compost for at least 10 days and then the material is turned and moved to a secondary area for an additional 10 days. Depending on size of animals being composted, you may want to turn the pile again and allow the pile to go through a third 10 day cycle. At this point the process is complete and the compost may be used as fertilizer.

To Wear Rubber Boots With Pesticides

When working with pesticides it is very important to wear rubber boots. If you wear leather shoes or boots and pesticide spray or spill onto the leather, it is impossible to remove the pesticides from the shoe or boot.

The pesticide is absorbed into the leather. When the shoes or boots are worn latter, the pesticide may move from the shoes or boots to your skin as your feet perspire.

Remember it is very important to wear protective clothing and goggles at all times when handling and applying pesticides. It is your health your are protecting!

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor:

It has been almost a year since I have been crowned the Lycoming County Dairy Princess. In that year I have been given the opportunity to represent the dairy farmers of Lycoming County in various ways. From working with children to attending farm and non-farm meetings to writing newspaper articles, I have promoted the dairy industry spreading the great news about dairy products. Now it is time to end my reign and pass it on to another girl.

At 7:30 Friday, June 12, at the Lycoming Mall, I will crown my successor. This year there is one candidate for the Lycoming County dairy princess crown. Melissa Daly, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Daly, will be crowned. Also, four new maids will be honored. They are Shelly Vandine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Vandine; Donnica Greider, Vanessa Greider, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Greider; and Janele Hearn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hearn.

I am sure this team of young ladies will have a joyous and successful year of dairy promotion. Be there to help the girls start off the year in a grand celebration on June 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lycoming Mall.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOOD QUESTIONS

June 14, 1998

Background Scripture:
Job 1:1-4, 8-11; 2:3-8 3:1-4, 20-26
Devotional Reading:
Job 3:11-26

Recently, our delightful four-year-old grandson was diagnosed as having leukemia. When we told his six-year-old sister, she put into words the questions that had risen silently in our own minds; "Why James? He's just a little boy!"

Indeed, why? That's the question lots of us ask when innocence appears to be rewarded by pain and suffering. It is this same kind of question that is raised in the Book of Job.

Job's story is one of the oldest in the world. Scholars believe that the original story may have begun to circulate orally sometime between 1,000 and 2,000 B.C. It was probably written down in the time of David and Solomon, between 1,000 and 800 BC.

What can such an old story have to do with us today? The world of Job was a totally different world than what we live in today. But maybe it wasn't as different as we might first assume. People had the same problems, concerns and outlooks that we have today, even though our circumstances are quite different.

The Book of Job is full of questions that are just as fresh and relevant today as in the time of Job. His questions are about suffering and he raised them because he is trying to understand the mystery of suffering. Many of those questions remain unanswered in Job's story, but he finally arrives at a point were his faith can take hold once again.

CELESTIAL QUESTION

The Book of Job begins with some questions raised in the celestial realm. On a day when the sons of God present themselves before the Lord, with obvious pride, God asks Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil? (1:8)

God and Satan, despite apparent civility, are verbally sparring and Satan replies with a smirking derision: "Does Job fear God for naught? Hast thou not put a hedge around him and his house and all that he has, on every side?" (1:9), Sure, Job is a good guy, but who wouldn't be with all you've given him?

I often wonder whether I could keep my faith in God if my circumstances should ever turn as disastrous as Job's. I like to think that I would keep the faith, but I cannot guarantee it. When things are going reasonably well, it is easy to praise God; but when life falls apart.....?

HUMAN QUERIES

When at last Satan was permitted to afflict Job as much as he wanted, providing he did not take his life, Job finally verbalized the questions that he could not restrain: "Why did I not die at birth?...Or why was I not as a hidden untimely birth?...Why is light given to him that in in misery and life to the bitter in soul" (3:11, 16,20).

Is it sacrilegious for us to cry out questions like these? I do not think so. To keep them bottled up inside without ever raising them, I believe, would be much worse. God wants our honesty much more than he wants pretenses of false piety. In the Bible, God is not represented as being offered by his children's questions–even hard questions which may sound like accusation.

By the time we reach Job 3, he is obviously reeling under his adversity Why did God cause him to be born if he was to suffer so much? He has not lost faith in the existence of God, but he seems to have lost his faith in God's goodness. God does not rebuke his temerity in raising these questions, because God knows that they are good questions which Job must raise.

And you? Do you have any good questions for God?

CX 351 Mid-Group III
Multi-race (Rps1c) resistance to Phytophthora allows use on poorly drained soils. Adapted to all row widths.

CX 375 Late Group III

CX 377 Late Group III
Very high yield potential. Excellent emergence and seedling vigor. Very good standability and shatter resistance.

CX 399 Late Group III
Outstanding yields. Resistance to 16 races of Phytophthora root rot. Very good emergence and seedling growth.

Some may think doubling our soybean line in two years is a big accomplishment. To us, it's just the beginning.

We're pushing onward and upward with higher yields, improved disease resistance, STS™ varieties and Roundup Ready® soybeans.

'Pedal To Preserve' Bike Tour Benefits Lancaster Farmland Trust

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaser Farmland Trust's second Pedal to Preserve bicycle tour will be held on Saturday, June 20. The tour accommodates both leisure and competitive cyclists, offering both an 18-mile and 39-mile ride through some of western Lancaster County's most beautiful farmland. This year's ride begins and ends at Donegal High School, Mount Joy, and showcases more than a dozen farms that have been forever preserved from development.

Registration is $20 in advance or $25 on ride day; advance registrants receive event T-shirts. Families are encouraged to ride along with WGAL anchorperson Brad Hicks — the honorary chairman of Pedal to Preserve. Children 12 and under ride free when accompanied by adults. Riders may also win prizes by obtaining pledge sponsorships. Pedal to Preserve attracted more than 200 riders last year. Proceeds fund farmland preservation efforts throughout Lancaster County. To register, contact Mel Cauler at (717) 293-0707 or mel@pptnet.com.

Lancaster Farmland Trust is a private, non-profit organization that has worked to preserve Lancaster County's productive farmland, thriving agricultural economy, and rich farm-related heritage for the last 10 years.

CSCE Considers Changes In BFP Milk Contract

NEW YORK, N.Y. — In anticipation of possible changes in the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Basic Formula Price (BFP) for milk, the Coffee, Sugar & Cocoa Exchange, Inc. (CSCE) recently announced that as a temporary measure it will list no new BFP milk contract months beyond March 1999. The Commodities Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) has recommended that the Exchange address the need for potential contract amendments in preparation for a shift to a new federal milk pricing system.

"The decision not to list new contract months beyond March 1999 is a necessary and timely step to ensure that our contracts will continue to meet the evolving risk management needs of the dairy industry," said CSCE President James J. Bowe. "New contract months will be listed, after the Board decides upon appropriate contract amendments to accommodate potential changes in the benchmark pricing mechanism for milk. By anticipating evolving market conditions, the Exchange seeks to provide an orderly transition from the current BFP to any new USDA cash pricing series for milk," added Mr. Bowe.

The CSCE has worked closely with the dairy industry from the beginning of the decade to develop effective risk management tools. The demonstrated promise of its BFP cash-settled contracts led the Exchange to create, develop and submit a proposal upon which the USDA based its proposed Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP). The initial proposal was designed by the CSCE to help dairy farmers learn how to use BFP put options to establish a price floor. The CSCE's consideration of possible changes in the BFP contract also takes into account the need to protect the viability of this important educational program.

Listing of months will resume when the Exchange Board of Managers determines whether the contract needs to be amended to reflect any new milk pricing mechanism. The current contract, which calls for listing in each month of a 13-month cycle, is cash settled against the BFP which is announced monthly by the USDA.

Since 1995, the BFP has served as the dairy industry benchmark for pricing milk that is sold under the Federal Milk Marketing Order System. The USDA has proposed various alternative formulas to replace the BFP as the price of Class III milk (milk used to make cheese and other "hard" dairy products) and is currently examining extensive public comment on those proposals. The Department will make a decision on replacing the existing pricing mechanism by April 1999.

State Veterinary Laboratory Is Strong Defense Against Disease

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory has been up and running for more than a year, and recently received full accreditation.

That accomplishment is significant for the Pennsylvania livestock industry.

Without such accreditation, and the qualifications and testing accuracy it recognizes, the state can not conduct its own regulatory and diagnostic testing, and has to depend on testing laboratories out of state, some at long distances.

With it, Pennsylvania can conduct its own regulatory testing to achieve compliance with requirements of nations receiving Pennsylvania's export trade.

With it, turnaround time on testing results is optimized, and costs minimized for Pennsylvania livestock producers.

With it, Pennsylvania can maintain regulatory testing programs, such as for brucellosis in cattle, to achieve a certain status of livestock health recognized by the international community that allows for less restrictive paperwork and constraints in selling and shipping cattle from Pennsylvania.

Here, Bill Logoda pulls a tray out of a special incubator and shows a flat of special, virus and bacteria-free eggs that are used in testing for the actual presence of avian influenza virus. Samples are injected into the expensive, host eggs

Dr. Graham Purchase, director of the Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory, stands at the loading dock where a cow is being received for testing and necropsy. Biosecurity is a top concern at the new facility that features state-of-the art communications and research and testing technology.

While measuring the exact economic benefits to Pennsylvania would be difficult, it is not difficult to understand that it helps provide the means for a multi-million dollar industry to exist, as well as providing a catalyst for increased growth.

If the diagnostic and disease monitoring testing and research services were only concerned with the health and safety of the state's poultry, swine and cattle industries, it would be an investment yielding great returns. The three species of Pennsylvania livestock were valued at $1,361,550,000 for 1995-96, according to Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

With exporting possibilities opened because of better testing availability, and a strong testing program that can reassure concerned buyers of the quality of Pennsylvania commodities and safety of purchasing them, the inherent value of Pennsylvania livestock can be assumed to have increased.

From there, it's up to marketers and trade negotiators to do their part to make that inherent value realized to its potential.

The cost of testing, though not inexpensive, is a very small percentage of the value that it creates and protects.

For human health concerns, the activities of the state diagnostic laboratory system are important also.

The entire livestock testing program is designed to ensure safe food, and safe animal production in the vicinity of humans — not just a first line defense against the always present danger of communicable disease destroying the value of livestock, or preventing its export.

The strength of the testing and monitoring program for Pennsylvania's agricultural industry comes from its unique program — the Pennsylvania Animal Diagnostic Laboratories System (PADLS).

It is called a "tripartite" system because it involves three different institutions — the PDA, the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Sciences, and the Pennsylvania State University.

Rather than have the state attempt to build and operate every type of laboratory needed, the work already being done at the state's pre-eminent veterinary school and at Penn State University are being utilized. Both of those universities receive state funds for research and operations.

Each lab in the tripartite system specializes and brings different strengths in research, reference materials, and in testing abilities.

Now linked together through a computerized system, "Laboratory Information Management System (LIMS)," so that staff at all three institutions can work together on projects and share information simultaneously, the tripartite sys-of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center and Pennsylvania State University," Hayes said. "Dr. Enck will help to facilitate this effort and help Pennsylvania continue to be a leader in animal health."

Enck founded the Carlisle Animal Veterinary Clinic in 1971, later developing the Carlisle Large Animal Veterinary Clinic to serve the dairy industry. That clinic now primarily serves the equine industry with a variety of other animals. He has experience in preparing cattle, horses and pigs for both international and interstate export.

A member of the American Veterinary Medical Association since 1970, he is also a member of the Agriculture Liaison Committee and has served as its vice president for one term. In other activities, he is a member of the American Associaiton of Equine Practitioners, and has served as president of the Cumberland Valley Veterinary Medical Association.

For the past two years, he also served as president of the Cumberland County Extension Assocation, and has been a member of its Dairy, Equine, and Building committees.

He earned his veterinary medicine degree in 1970 from the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine, while he earned a bachelor's degree in animal science from Penn State University.

In 1984, he received the UP School of Veterinary Medicine's Centennial Award of Merit.

Bradley Jones
Market Development

In other news, Bradley R. Jones, of Camp Hill has been appointed to serve as director of the state Bureau of Market Development.

Jones had served for more than a year as executive director the Pa. Hardwoods Development Council, until the appointment was made June 2.

In his new position, he is to oversee the promotion of products grown and made in Pennsylvania.

"Brad Jones will work to fulfill the Ridge Administration's goals of nurturing present markets and of seeking new opportunities on both the domestic and international fronts for Pennsylvania's agricultural products," Hayes said.

"He will be responsible for the commodity and promotion programs, matching fund program for county fairs, commodity matching grant program, and livestock and produce auctions."

According to Hayes, "Brad Jones has demonstrated his marketing interests while working with Pennsylvania's hardwoods industry, and his enthusiasm will be a major asset.

"Our producers and processors offer world-class products, and Brad will manage our new initiatives to advance Pennsylvania's competitive advantages and to highlight our agriculture' superior quality and diversity."

Prior to working with the Hardwoods Council, Jone had been an environmental issues manager for the American Petroleum Institute. In that position, he worked with legislative issues, managed research projects and developed public-service events to increase the effectiveness of the recycling programs.

He was an advisory board member of the Waste Watch Center and the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission. He was also a member of the board of directors of the Virginia Recycling Association.

He has a bachelor's degree in forest science.

Warren Mathias
Region 6

Warren Mathias, of Hummelstown, who had served as director of the Bureau of Market Development, has been reassigned to serve as director of the state Department of Agriculture's Region 6 office.

In that capacity, he is to oversee the department's inspectors and services in Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lebanon, Lancaster, Perry and York counties.

Mathias is also a businessman, having established the Plant Pot-Pourri Garden Center in Palmyra in 1973, with a greenhouse, florist shop, gift shop and nursery. He expanded the business to include industrial and institutional accounts and used a quality management program.

He has a bachelor's degree in horticulture from Penn State University, and serves on several advisory and directorial boards, including the boards of directors for the Lebanon Valley Vocational School, and the Milton Hershey Horticultural Department, Lebanon County Extension, the Lebanon Valley Chamber of Commerce, and the Penn State University College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society.

The four veterinarians who work at the state Veterinary Laboratory in Harrisburg sit together at a five-viewer microscope. From the left are Graham Purchase, administrative director of the laboratory; Dr. Donald Singletary, poultry pathologist; Dr. Mark Walter, chief pathologist; and Dr. Hyun Kim, immuno/histo-chemistry specialist.

Veterinary Laboratory Is Strong Defense

tem truly can function as a unified force.

In this sense, the whole is proving to be much greater than the sum of the parts.

As an example, Penn State has one of the most extensive, if not the most extensive, reference collections of E. coli bacteria in the world.

That means, that should an animal or animal tissue be sent to PDA or the University of Pennsylvania for testing, that any case that seems to indicate a different or unknown variety of E. coli can be sent to Penn State and worked on quickly.

In comparison, if such a resource were held not by Penn State, but some other research entity in another part of the world, it would add to the time, cost and increased risk associated with delays in determining the identity of the E. coli, and whether it has a documented history in literature that may be of help in understanding or diagnosing a problem.

Further, since the three labs are spread out, and they are linked so cooperatively, each lab can serve local veterinarians and animal health officials, and provide inhouse expertise as well as expertise from the other two laboratories.

In other words, the cooperative venture provides almost the entire state's agricultural community with equal access to top-level diagnostic technology and disease testing.

According to Graham Purchase, veterinarian and director of the PDA Diagnostic Laboratory, the tripartite system is working well, and the new state laboratory is exciting in its operations and development.

According to Purchase, the design of the laboratory was done with foresight.

For example, it has a specialized high-level biosecurity laboratory for handling suspect and known materials that are deadly and contagious.

That lab is designed so that, when operational as a high-biosecurity area, anyone entering has to disrobe, shower and dress in protective clothing before entering the laboratory, and repeat the process to leave the lab.

While the laboratory hasn't yet had the need to utilize that setup, the lab is being used in the meantime to conduct testing and research with far less worrisome materials.

However, should some case arise where highly pathogenic and contagious activity is suspect, the lab could be quickly set up and put into use for the top level biosecurity for which it was designed.

As it is, the biosecurity at the laboratory is strict. It has to be, in order to conform to acceptable scientific community standards of operation.

The front entrance lobby is as far as anyone gets without being cleared and lab-coated and escorted.

There is a biosecurity cart in the lobby where any materials or samples brought in and can be quickly contained and isolated.

The loading dock is where the materials and sometimes whole animal carcasses are brought for receiving.

Because it's derived from fungicides found in certain wild mushrooms, new QUADRIS® fungicide has its roots firmly planted in nature. As a result, it carries less risk to workers and the environment than other currently registered fungicides.

Yet QUADRIS is merciless to a broad spectrum of tomato diseases. Its novel mode of action combines preventative and systemic powers to control early blight, late blight, anthracnose, Septoria leaf spot and other problems. All told, QUADRIS is the strongest and most unique disease prevention ever available.

Thanks for the idea, Mom.

Riding Program Provides Therapy For Disabled

For children with handicaps, riding a horse gives them a chance to "be able to control an animal like that, because there's so many things they can't do, like baseball and basketball," said Rose Denlinger, riding instructor.

Denlinger, an instructor with the Lancaster County 4-H Therapeutic Riding Program, spoke to the Ephrata Area Young Farmers Association during a riding program Monday evening at Greystone Manor Stables in Leacock.

Denlinger spoke about the benefits of the program.

A four-year volunteer, Denlinger said the program includes nine instructors and about 30-40 different leaders, all volunteers. Riders, ranging in age from 4 to 80 years of age, are referred to the program by the Schreiber Pediatric Rehabilitation Center (formerly Easter Seals) of Lancaster County, the S. June Smith Center, Community Services Group, Coatesville Veterans Affairs Medical Center, doctors, and therapists.

The program, affiliated with but not funded by 4-H, relies on individual and organizational support — including its own fund-raising efforts — for money to operate.

People are allowed to ride at the stables unless a doctor indicates otherwise. There are about 60 riders enrolled in the program. About 40 different riders are handled per week, according to Denlinger.

In all, sessions are conducted in the spring, summer, and fall. One month — July — is set aside per year for vacation for the instructors and program participants, while the horses are still put through their paces.

The program was founded in 1980 in Mountville by Carol Henkel, instructor. The site was moved to Greystone Manor Stables about 11 years ago. Henkel, who spoke to the young farmers, said the program is funded at a cost of $25,000-$30,000. About a third of the cost is paid by the riders and two-thirds by the riding program. The costs cover boarding.

According to Denlinger, there are six horses involved in the program. Two are on full lease, the rest are owned by the program. The program, under the "umbrella," said Denlinger, of the county 4-H program, works with extension.

Denlinger, who volunteers about five hours per week, said that riders in the program can have a range of disabilities.

"Some are physical, some mental, and some are emotional," she said. The physical problems can range from mental retardation, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis to hunter syndrome (chemical disorders in the joints).

"We have a lot of Down Syndrome children," said Denlinger. One boy needs a helper arm and leg system because he was born deformed.

For each rider, a session lasts once a week, for 45-60 minutes, for six weeks.

Kids who ride the horse enjoy the natural movement of "the horse's energy," said Denlinger. "They enjoy the warmth of the horse (those riding with bareback pads). The horse and the pads relax the kids."

She said, "They are thrilled with the experience. It's an adventure. And they get much-needed social interaction with the sidewalker, the leader, and the instructors."

The riders, of almost any age, are also taught riding lessons. They interact socially. They come in close contact with others.

The movement of the horse allows the children to sit up straight, which helps strengthen their muscles.

The father of one child in the program noted that for his son's therapy, he has seen the movement of the horse improve the strength and muscle tone of the child's limbs. The movement also stimulates range of motion and control.

Riding also increases feelings of self-confidence and self-worth.

But the riding experience is not confined to prominent physical disabilities. Denlinger also said that autistic children, even those with attention deficit disorder (ADD), allows them precious contact with the horse.

"The kids love their horses — they think it's their pony," she said. "One little boy kisses the pony on the nose every week."

One of those horses is Kojak, a 22-year-old Palomino pony. Kojak was donated to the program by the Ephrata Area Young Farmers. The horse has been involved with the program about 11 years.

Other horses include Deacon, an 18-year-old grade (mix) horse. Another is Josey, an 11-year-old registered Quarterhorse mare.

Last March, an auction was held to raise money for the program in Willow Street. The program raised $3,000, about $1,000 more than the previous year.

Denlinger pointed out that the new owners of the boarding stables, The Worship Center in Leola, will continue to operate the stables with no change. The purchase contract on the multi-acre site outlined that the farm must stay a boarding stable for five years.

The farm includes two large pasture fields and several smaller paddocks, Denlinger noted.

Volunteers for the program are always needed and may be leaders or sidewalkers. Leaders guide the horses during lessons and sidewalkers are responsible for the rider.

Each rider starts with one leader and two sidewalkers, so many volunteers are needed. Volunteers also groom and saddle horses for lessons. Training sessions are held periodically.

For more information, contact Rose Denlinger at (717) 786-4189 or Nancie Doyle at (717) 687-8547. To make a tax-deductible donation to the program, contact Lee Ann Ressler, treasurer, at (717) 299-2163.

Maryland Governor Parris N. Glendening, left, announces $8.25 million in funds to purchase development rights to more than 2,700 acres of historic rural open space in Montgomery, Frederick, and Washington counties. Sharing the news are from left, Douglas M. Duncan, Montgomery County executive; Bruce Reeder, Frederick County commissioner; Ron Bowers, Washington County commissioner; and Ralph Grossi, president, American Farmland Trust. This is part of the Rural Legacy Trust awards totaling $29 million statewide.

three counties. Stretching from Poolesville, in Montgomery County, and cutting a swath right through Frederick County and on up into Sharpsburg in Washington County, the protected area will encompass more than 2,700 acres of rural open space.

"We're here to draw a line, a line that will preserve a greenway that will stretch all the way from Western Montgomery County, right on through where we are now, through Frederick County, and up into Southern Washington County," announced the Governor," "By drawing this line what we are saying is that on this land there will be no more sprawl; we're saying that this farmland is too valuable, this environment is too fragile, and this history is too important, and the small towns and the gentle way of life that they represent are too precious to be lost to suburban sprawl."

The Mid-Maryland Rural Legacy area originates in the Western part of Montgomery County. There the initial plan request is to purchase an easement on a single farm consisting of 834 acres near Poolesville, in the Sugarloaf Mountain area.

Frederick County contains the largest acreage to be preserved by the Mid-Maryland grant award. A total of 1,270 acres in Frederick County, including farms, natural resources, and historic villages will be protected from encroaching development. The Frederick County portion of the plan includes Civil War battle sites at South Mountain and farmland and natural and recreational resources along the Appalachian Trail. It also creates a "greenbelt" of protection around the historic town of Burkittsville.

In Washington County the plan focuses on the areas in and around Sharpsburg and Keedysville. The area includes battlefield sites around Antietam National Battlefield, areas of historic farmland, historic villages, stone bridges, barns, and houses. It encompasses areas along the Potomac River and the C&O Canal. It also specifically enhances the State's existing preservation efforts that protect the views surrounding Antietam National Battlefield.

Lancaster Ag Board Director Resigns

Daniels, who came to Lancaster County in 1989 as director of one of the country's leading ag land preservation systems, has decided to return to college as an instructor.

Daniels, before taking the farmland preservation job in Lancaster, served as an associate professor of regional and community planning at Kansas State University. He has decided to return to teaching, this time accepting a job as professor of planning at the State University of New York in Albany.

At the university, Daniels will teach, write, and direct the master's degree program.

In a recent newspaper article, Daniels said, "Working in Lancaster County has been a very good experience. I value the time I've spent in Lancaster County and the people I've known here."

Daniels' performance as administrator of a key office in the county's nationally recognized growth management/farmland preservation program was praised by Paul Whipple, member of the ag board, and others. He helped preserve 185 farms.

Daniels said he took the university job "because I've been here nine years and it was time to do something different."

Since it began in the early 1980s, the board has saved 250 farms. About three quarters of them were saved during Daniels time as director. The board has 200 applications on hand.

A search is under way for Daniels' replacement. Salary range for the job is $42,000-$60,000 per year.

Daniels said, "Compared to most other places in the United States, Lancaster County has done a pretty good job in balancing growth and farmland protection.

"We have a very good model for land preservation and growth management in Lancaster County. My purpose was for others to benefit from the success we've had here, to spread the word."

Veterinary Laboratory

There is biosecurity protocol and identity protection for those bringing suspect tissues or carcasses. Each case is specifically identified with a code number and receives a document file, whereby any and all testing done, annotations made, and results found, can be recorded.

The case file for most situations is documented on the LIMS computer and information can be shared between experts within the system and diagnoses made much more quickly.

For example, if a case is received at Harrisburg and tissues are sent out for testing through a courier to either the Penn State or University of Pennsylvania arms of the tripartite system, staff at the other labs can call up the case document on the computer, and enter the test results immediately.

Eliminated are the delays in having the results returned via courier, and eliminated is unecessary paperwork.

Gained is speed in accessing information, and thus valuable time, in the event that it becomes apparent that a dangerous pathogen has been encountered.

The information about almost any case can be shared between the three entities.

Further, in addition to the the LIMS system, each institution has a remarkable audio/visual computer communications system hooked up to a microscope, whereby the same image can be shared by two or more people on the system in different parts of the state.

The user in Harrisburg can sit and look at the computer image of the microscope image, and at the same time, also on the computer screen, see the person at one of the other laboratories with whom he or she is confering from Harrisburg.

It's leading edge technology.

That communications linkup was completed two weeks ago. "It's working really well," Purchase said. "We've used it for several real cases.

"It's bringing a great ability to consult between the different laboratories on microscopic samples," Purchase said. "The most important thing is that we can bring (several) experts" to work on a case instantaneously.

In the meantime, Dr. Purchase has redesigned the information flow in the state Veterinary Laboratory in order to simplify operations, and create a central point for the collection of information for decision-making.

Purchase divided the lab system into five different areas of functional responsibility of equal priority — clerical and administrative; toxicology and pathology; microbiology; immunology; and client services.

He said he did so to provide a better system of information management and access for decision-making, as well as to elevate client services to the level of priority recognition its deserves, rather than being passed off as a secondary clerical or administrative responsibility.

Under the priority and information flow system now instituted, the laboratory can respond and adapt to different diseases and situations as they occur, without having to lose any of those vital ele-

DAIRY FARM MANAGEMENT BASICS

A Farm Management Course by Glenn A. Shirk
Penn State Extension Agent
Lancaster County, Pennsylvania

Dairy Farm Management Basics - Lesson 2

Startup Considerations

Dairy farming can be a profitable business, if managed properly, However, it is a very complex, a very competitive, and a capital intensive business. Milk prices and feed prices can be very volatile. Poor management decisions and mistakes, drastic swings in market prices, and unexpected herd health problems and weather problems can be very costly. In this kind of business environment, there is very little room for error.

Be realistic and true to yourself and to your family. As mentioned in article one, discuss family goals, determine what you want out of life and how you expect the farm to help support your life's mission.

Before you commit your family and your hard earned savings to dairying and take on a lot of debt, consider some of the following pointers.

Work for someone else before starting on your own. Earn while you learn. Determine if you, your spouse and other family members are ready, willing and able to make the commitment that is necessary for a dairy farm business to be successful.

Recognize your strengths and weaknesses, as well as your likes and dislikes.

Align yourself with some experienced, knowledgeable, trustworthy - - people who you can work with and people you can confide in and turn to for good advice.

Acquire sufficient equity before start-up so you are in a position to borrow enough capital to finance a business that is of adequate size and one that is adequately equipped - - one that has a chance to be efficient, profitable and enjoyable, and one that has a chance to remain competitive for years to come

Keep debts at levels you can afford (the next article addresses debt levels and investment strategies). Look at ways you can buy into an efficient sized operation gradually over time, at a rate you can afford Some ideas are:

- Invest in good, functional cattle first. They don't have to be high-price fancy cattle, but a few good foundation cows can be beneficial if you have the ability to breed and manage them well Also ask yourself, why is that cow being sold, and do I really want her in my herd? Don't buy your problems when you can get them free! In other words, be sure the cows are healthy. Concentrate on fine-tuning your management skills and getting the herd to perform at peak efficiency.

- Don't be too quick to invest in a lot of expensive machinery and equipment, especially when custom services are available.

- If necessary, rent facilities until you have sufficient capital to invest in machinery, facilities and land When you rent facilities, consider how the facilities will affect cow comfort, herd health, labor efficiency and the quality of feed in storage. Poor facilities rented at a very low price can be very expensive if they are not conducive to good cow performance and efficient use of labor If you rent from an individual who is phasing out of farming, you might have an option to purchase the operation at a later date, perhaps with owner financing. The question then will be, does it meet the criteria below, and can I afford it?

- If you can't afford to buy the whole farm or a large-enough farm initially, consider investing in buildings only initially, and purchase the land at a later date. This may require subdividing the property so the farmstead can be deeded separately from the land Or, purchase a small farm that has potential for expansion, and located in an area where additional land or farms can be purchased later Or, buy shares in an ongoing dairy operation

When purchasing a farm, consider these points:

- Are the facilities conducive to good cow comfort, good herd health, preserving feed quality, efficient use of labor, and the protection of environmental quality? If not, can the facilities be remodeled or expanded into an efficient operation? If not, be cautious about investing your money in operations that have limited future potential or sale value.

- Is there an abundant supply of good quality water?

- Are the soils productive, and is the farm located in an area where climates generally favorable?

- Is the farm in an area where there are good markets, and where there is good sales and service support.

Fritz Farm Home To Three Generations

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

NEW WINDSOR, Md. — Any farm in central Maryland that can stay in business and prosper through the entire 20th century has got something going for it.

In the case of the Fritz dairy farm, that something is the Fritz family.

Located just outside New Windsor, three generations of the Fritz family now work on the farm that is home to a milking string of 67 registered Holsteins.

George Fritz and his son Daniel were born on the farm that was purchased in 1912 by Charles Fritz, Daniel's great-grandfather. Now George and Daniel, along with Daniel's wife, Sharon, work the farm. Daniel and Sharon's son and daughter, Jeffrey and Jessica, are also employed there, making them the fifth generation of the Fritz family on the farm.

This August, Daniel and Sharon will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Although she was not raised on a farm, Sharon Fritz says she is a "convert" to dairy farming. She was a school teacher, and Daniel was driving a school bus when they met.

George and Daniel milk the cows. Daniel does most of the breeding. Jeffrey, a 1995 graduate of FSK High School, is responsible for most of the fieldwork, and since his sister Jessica went away to college, takes care of the calves, too. He also helps milk and breeds some cows. He is engaged to marry Stacy Peterson in May 1999.

Jessica is a sophomore at the University of Maryland working on an animal science degree. She is a member of Alpha Zeeta, the ag honors society. She is Carroll County farm queen and a past county dairy princess. She also served as alternate Maryland state dairy princess.

Jessica is especially well-known for her outstanding performance in dairy judging. She was a member of the Maryland 4-H dairy judging team that won the national contest at Madison, Wisconsin in 1995 and went on to Europe. That year at Madison she set a record that still stands for the highest score ever in individual reasons.

In addition to her work at home, Sharon Fritz is active in the Carroll County Farm Bureau. She is past chair of the women's committee and is secretary-treasurer. She was active in the publication of the women's committee cookbook, a book that has been distributed throughout the states and even in Russia.

In 1980 Daniel and Sharon added 60 acres to the property, bringing it to a total of 150 acres. Over the years the Fritz family has steadily made improvements on the farm. They milk in a flat parlor. They have added three Harvestore silos — two 20X80s and a 20X60. Renovations have been made to the barn, and they have built a heifer shed and installed a Slurrystore. Last summer they constructed a shop building.

The Fritz family is committed to registered Holsteins. In fact, George himself has a lifetime membership in the National Holstein Association, although he said he hasn't been very active in the Association for the past several years. He said his father, Carroll Fritz, had cows registered in the old Harrisburg Association in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

The family's success with their cows is evident in both the milk bank and the show ring. They have a herd average of 20,826 pounds of milk, and ship their milk to Land-of-Lakes Cooperative. George owns about five heifers and calves. Jeffrey has 10 milk cows and 13 heifers. He recently registered the Misty-Bottom prefix with the Holstein Association for his herd. Jessica has five milk cows and eight heifers.

Jeffrey has had a great deal of success with a calf he purchased in 1988 at the Carroll County calf sale. He considers "MSV Bear Milky Way" a foundation cow in the Fritz farm herd. Purchased as a four-month-old heifer, Milky Way was eventually named supreme champion at the Carroll County Fair and was reserve junior All-Maryland in 1993 as an aged cow. She is a DOM (Dam of Merit) with the Holstein Association and has more than 20 descendants on the farm, most of them owned by Jeffrey.

Fritz Farm Workman Lass, born in 1986, is a 12-year-old homebred cow finishing up her 10th lactation. She has almost 234,000 pounds lifetime milk and will freshen in July. She is classified Very Good 85 and has one daughter in the milking string.

Both Daniel and Jeffrey are active members of the New Windsor Volunteer Fire Company. The family are members of Linganore United Methodist Church.

PAADS Host Dairy Collectibles Show

HARRISBURG — A new idea involving old dairy items will help celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show September 20-24, 1998 in Harrisburg, Pa.

Dairy antiques and collectibles from a bygone dairy farm era will be exhibited to show how cows are milked, milk handled, cream separated, butter churned and cheese and ice cream made on farms in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

Collectors from Maryland, New York, North Carolina and Pennsylvania have already committed to display their valuable collections. Other exhibitors are expected from Michigan, Kentucky and other states.

The exhibit will open at noon on Sunday, September 20. Some exhibits will remain through the end of the Dairy Cattle Show on Thursday, September 24. The display of antiques promises to be both entertaining and educational for all visitors.

Items displayed will include seldom-seen equipment used in the late 1880s and early 1900s when U.S. milk production was shifting from a few family cows to the commercial off-farm sale of cream and milk. These include gravity and mechanical cream separators, butter churns, butter workers, butter paddles, bowls, molds, and prints, cheese making utensils, ice cream freezers, dippers, scoops, and molds, milk and cream cans, milk bottles, Babcock milk testing equipment, cow bells of all sizes and shapes and early dairy advertising and signs.

One of the most rare items will be a foot-powered milking machine loaned for the exhibit by the Penn State Pasto Agricultural Museum. A very unique exhibit will be "Martha's Milk House," a self-contained trailer unit demonstrating an early 1900s era milk house and equipment. James and Martha Roberts, Scio, N.Y. take their "milk house" to a variety of shows and fairs.

Coordinator of the exhibit is Dr. Darwin Braund, a former Bradford County, Pa. dairy farm boy, now Professor of Animal Science at North Carolina State University. Persons interested in exhibiting may contact him at Box 7261, Raleigh, NC 27695, phone 919-557-5817 or Lolly Lesher, Fund Raising Coordinator, Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show Complex, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, Phone 717-787-2905.

Brown Swiss Calf Sale A Big Success

FREDERICK, Md. — The Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale just completed another very successful chapter as 35 "show quality" calves with breed-leading genetics, and performance pedigrees paraded through the sale ring for a sale average of $1,310 at the Frederick Fairgrounds on Saturday, April 25, 1998, Frederick, Maryland. "The sale really had quality all the way through with several headliners this year," said Sale manager, Cindy Warner. The top high-selling 10 animals sold for an average of $2,375, and the top five calves averaged $3,000, an impressive sale result in anybody's book," said Warner. "We congratulate and commend our consignors for sending such outstanding animals to this sale each year!"

Celebrating its 24th year, this popular sale has gained quite a track record for show winners, Bell-Ringers, and even All-American Nominations and Winners! Topping the sale at $4,000 was Top Acres Jetway Wisp, a tall, sharp and stylish September calf with lots of show and pedigree possibilities written all over her. Her dam, Top Acres EJ Whistle VG-88 is a full sister to the famous Top Acres EJ Whizzbang "2E-91," All American and a National Total Performance Winner. She was the consignment of Wayne Sliker, St. Paris, Ohio, and was purchased by Jacob Hushon, Delta, Pa.

There were two calves that tied for second high-selling at $3,000 each. Blessing Jetway Tara, a real correct December calf, and maternal sister to the '97 Res. All-American Intermediate calf commanded a $3,000 bid and went to Jarrod Burall, New Windsor, Maryland. She was consigned by Steve Blessing, Ft. Wayne, Ind. A big, good-ribbed, and well grown June heifer also merited $3,000 and was the consignment of Lee Chaney, New Windsor, Md., GS TJR Quinn sold to Steve Watts, Killbuck, Ohio.

Selling for $2,500 each rounded out the fourth and fifth high selling animals for the sale. A tall December calf with a great chest from Dublin Hills Swiss, Woodsboro, Md. also went to Steve Watts. Dublin Hills KM Banana is a Hoosier Knoll Monaco daughter out of an "EX" Blend with 26,000m. The other $2,500 animal was a R Hart Christines Astro daughter born in early June 1997. This exceptional heifer was tall and really sharp over the shoulder, and was the consignment of Harold and Peggy Long, Thurmont, Md. Long View Astro Delight sold to Cheryl Satterfield, Ridgely, Md.

Two more calves commanded top bids over $2,000. At $2,100, the consignment of Becky Long Chaney, New Windsor, Md. GS Peer Raisinette sold to Bonnie and Tommy Remsberg, Middletown, Md. This fancy September calf is a granddaughter of the famous Long View Jades Raisin cow, with several All American nominations and winner. Selling for $2,000 was a March calf from GS Associates, New Windsor, Md. This calf was a result of the high selling embryo package in the 1997 calf sale, and writes quite a pedigree, being a Top Acres Combo Pretus out of the Top Acres EJ Hardee cow, "2E-90" with lots of production, and All-American honors. She was bought by Joseph Hushon, Delta, Pa.

There were 20 calves that sold for $1,000 or more. The quality of consignments merited good prices and went to states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, New York, as well as to in-state Marylanders. "We had another good sale with solid and consistent prices which continues to indicate the demand and interest of new buyers and repeat buyers at this sale," said Dennis Smith, vice president of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association. "The demand for Brown Swiss is on the rise, and Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale is the place to get a good one!"

Another successful part of the Sale is the offering of outstanding embryo packages. This year the embryo packages featured genetics from leading cow families and

The high-selling calf at the Mid-Atlantic Calf Sale had a top price bid of $4,000. Top Acres Jetway Wisp sold to Jacob Hushon, Delta, and was the consignment of Wayne Sliker, St. Paris, OH. In the photo, front, Jacob, Joseph, and Joshua Hushon with Amanda Valintine at the halter. Back Denny Remsburg, auctioneer, and Wayne Sliker who red pedigrees and consigned the calf.

Couple Wins Truck

NEW MIDWAY, Md. — Richard and Tammy Eaves of New Midway, Frederick County recently received a new 1998 Dodge Dakota pickup truck as an incentive in the Maryland Farm Bureau membership drive.

The couple, which is active in the Frederick County Farm Bureau Young Farmers program, earned the opportunity to win the truck by signing seven new members in this year's Maryland Farm Bureau membership drive.

Maryland Farm Bureau members who joined or renewed their dues for 1998 by December 1, 1997 each earned one chance to win the bright red pickup truck, which had been outfitted with a sport package.

Those eligible members then earned additional chances for each new member they signed by January 31, 1998.

The Eaves winning entry was chosen in a drawing held at Agricultural Appreciation Day, sponsored by Maryland Farm Bureau and the Frederick Keys minor league baseball team.

For more information, contact Amy L. Miller or John Butler of the Maryland Farm Bureau, (410) 922-3426.

New Jersey Hereford Breeders Elect Officers

PITTSTOWN, N.J. — The New Jersey Polled Hereford Association held its annual dinner meeting in April here at Hoff Mills Inn. Named as directors were Bob Macik, Rieglesville, Pa.; Ernie Smith, Far Hills, N.J.; and Peter Staats, Bridgewater, N.J.

The newly appointed directors join Cliff Black, Somerville; Fran Daley, Frenchtown; Chris Mulch, Blairstown; Don O'Brien, Annandale; Michelle Ogle, Bedminster; and Joanne Powell, Somerville.

Officers were elected following the appointment of directors. Joanne Powell, owner of Second Generation Polled Herefords, was named the group's president. Serving as vice president will be Ernie Smith, Dunwalke Farm. Peter Staats, Dutch Hollow Farm, will serve as treasurer. Don Kniffen of Somerville will be secretary.

Upcoming events for the association will include a feeder calf sale at Hackettstown Auction market, shows at Sussex County Farm and Horse Show and Flemington Fair, and a field day to be held in August.

Thanks and Congratulations to

CHORE-TIME WEIGH-MATIC® System with feed screener

Chore-Time's new and exciting auger system is so fast it fills all troughs in a 500-ft. house in only 5 minutes — then all birds eat simultaneously. No picking over of feed. It's the ultimate breeder feeder!

- Fast feed delivery—less competition, less stress, better performance, less picking over of feed.
- Easy to operate, no feed level adjustment is ever needed.
- Uniform ration throughout the house—uniform birds.
- Available with hens-only or "all-birds" grill.
- Use Chore-Time WEIGH-MATIC® bin to allocate daily ration before feeding.

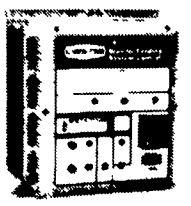
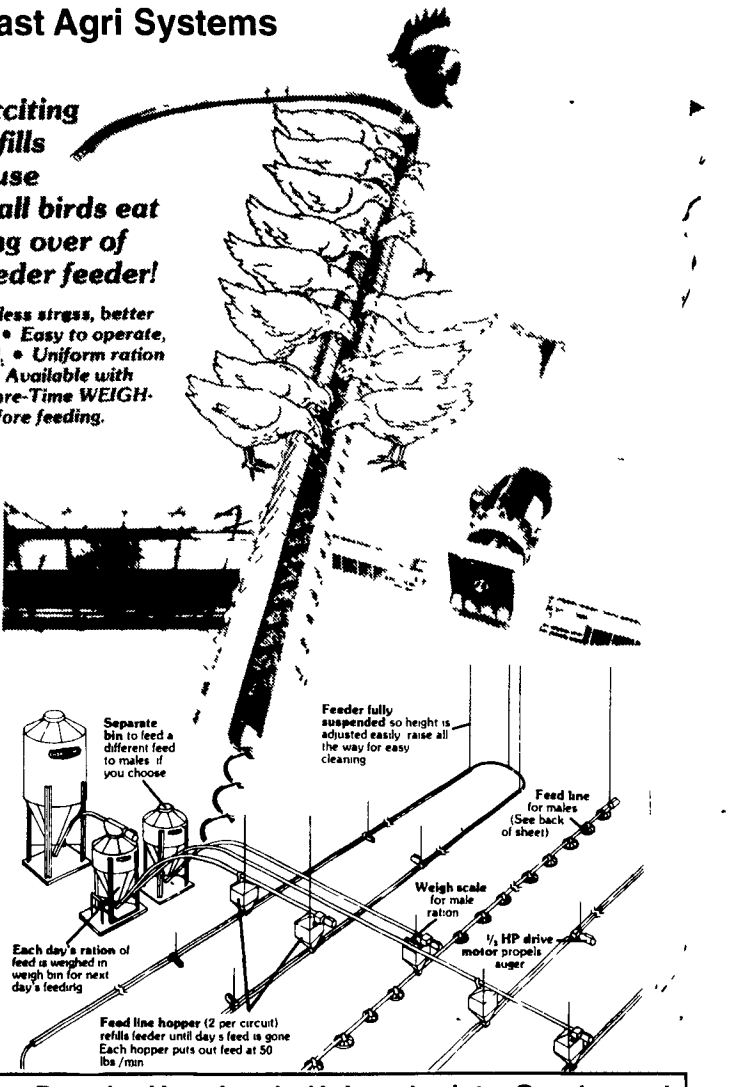
Clockwise from above: auger acts as a grid so birds won't rake and throw feed; hens only model prevents males from eating; up to 4 (1½ HP as) power units per loop for houses to 600' are used; a maximum of 2 ½ HP per 600' house; diagram shows model for separate male feeding control unit





Separate bin to feed a different feed to males if you choose
Feeder fully suspended so height is adjusted easily; raise all the way for easy cleaning
Feed line for males (See back of sheet)
Weigh scale for male ration
½ HP drive motor propels auger
Each day's ration of feed is weighed in weigh bin for next day's feeding
Feed line hopper (2 per circuit) refills feeder until day's feed is gone. Each hopper puts out feed at 50 lbs./min breed greats on a national caliber level to take the breeder into the 21st century. There were (6) Embryo Packages consisting of three #1 frozen embryos that sold for an average of $1,020.

All calves sold are automatically entered in the Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity with the first payment made by the Maryland Association. The fifth annual Futurity will be held on Sunday, August 30, 1998 during the Maryland State Fair in Timonium, Maryland. All breeders are welcome, and animals are now being accepted for the 1999 Futurity. For more information, contact Cindy Warner at 301-371-5206.

Denny Remsburg was the auctioneer for the sale, while Wayne Sliker read pedigrees. The Brown Swiss Juniors helped around the ring with Aimee Smith, Laura Sigler, and Amanda Valentine presenting the calves. Ringmen were Mike Birch, Howard Fleming, and Bobby Valentine. The animals were very well fitted by Mark Valentine and Robert Sigler, with other junior members assisting. Also supervising the barn was Howard Fleming, Mike Birch, Dennis Smith, and Harold Long. The Sale Committee consists of Harold Long, Howard Fleming, Dennis Smith, Scott Hood, Allen Bassler, and Cindy Warner. This year's sale was dedicated to Mr. Robert Culler who passed away in January, a longtime breeder and supporter of the sale.

The Sale is sponsored by the Maryland Brown Swiss Association and will be held next year on Saturday, April 24, 1999, Frederick Fairgrounds. Mark your calendar now and watch this publication for more information.

Charolais Events Set For Columbia, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The American-International Charolais Association (AICA) in conjunction with the University of Missouri-Columbia Commercial Agriculture Program and Pfizer Animal Health are presenting a cattlemen's symposium titled "Charolais for the Next Millenium - An Objective Analysis for Tomorrow's Beef Industry." This event is scheduled June 19-20 in Columbia, Mo.

The purpose of this event is to provide an arena for cattlemen in all segments of the beef business to discuss today's common issues as well as the factors on the horizon for the industry and for the Charolais breed. Dr. Gary Smith, Colorado State; Dr. Del Allen, Excel Corporation; and Paul Genho, Deseret Cattle and Citrus will provide, respectively, expert insight to the future of the cattle business, the vantage point of a "Big 3" packer/retailer, and facing the challenges of the next century from a dominant commercial producer perspective.

University of Missouri staff and other nationally recognized experts round out an outstanding program expected to welcome more than 200 progressive cattlemen from across the U.S. Discussion of carcass evaluation, reproduction, quality assurance, EPDs, and beef alliances make up just a part of the remainder of the program.

The second half of this summer Charolais double-header is the American International Junior Charolais Association's (AIJCA) 1998 Junior National Heifer, Bull, and Steer Show and the 1998 Junior National Leadership Conference. The Junior National cattle show will immediately follow the Charolais symposium with cattle arriving June 20. The heifer, bull, and steer shows will take place June 22 at the Boone County Fairgrounds, Columbia, Mo. More than 325 head of cattle and 200 junior exhibitors from 20 states will participate. The judge for the show is Jack Ward, Lagrange, Ind., a respected livestock producer and evaluator.

Wrapping up an eventful week is the 1998 AIJCA Junior National Leadership Conference on June 23-26 at the University of Missouri-Columbia. This whirlwind of leadership activities, contests, and education boasts 200-plus participants from 20 states. Public speaking and resume contests, leadership workshops, and educational programs will fill the days, while dances, variety shows, and a Charolais farm visit will lighten things up at night. The conference concludes with the AIJCA Annual Membership Meeting, election of officers, and an awards banquet and dance.

The week of June 19-26 is an important one for Charolais producers, cattlemen, and juniors from across the United States. It is a rare opportunity promising fun and education for literally everyone with an interest in Charolais and its influence on the business of beef. For more information, contact the American-International Charolais Association, Kansas City, Mo., at (816) 464-5977 or visit the official Charolais website at www.charolaisusa.com.

The lab also divides its concerns between regulatory testing (meaning regulation-fulfilling and thus a more predictable and regular program of testing that requires dedicated staff), and the rest of animal disease discovery and control.

The system basically works this way:

• For non-regulatory disease research and testing, a veterinarian in the field has a suspect case and calls the lab and then ships the tissues or carcass. (Mostly tissues are sent to the lab, since the proper practice of diagnosing disease requires at least the use of deductive reasoning, employing a type of cause-and-effect, step-by-step, troubleshooting approach. That usually means isolating and testing certain organs or tissues that, based on symptoms or likely possbilities, can be expected to reveal the next likely possibility.)

• Materials are received at a loading dock. Whole animals are received and lifted from trucks with an overhead crane and chains. The carcass is passed to what essentially is a dissection room, though it looks as though it would make a good butchering floor.

Proper authorization, protective dress and footwear, and passage through a footbath, are required to enter the dissecting floor.

There, staff essentially begin the testing process, by removing tissues and fluids for testing and directing those initially prepared tissues to the proper labs for further preparation.

Certain tissues from materials received may be sent for processing in wax before being sliced thin, stained, and placed on a microscope, etc.

• If the materials are received and are part of a routine testing program, such as for brucellosis (The state has just been recently delcared brucellosis-free, which further adds to the cattle industry's exporting abilities.), the materials are prepared and then sent to those testing labs. There are several specialized testing labs located throughout the building — a brucellosis lab; an avian influenza lab; a Johnne's lab; and a psuedorabies testing lab.

The PDA diagnostic lab also employs the use of high-tech testing, whereby they are able to analyze small amounts of a virus or bacteria and replicate it enough to develop a picture of its DNA for identification through gene markers.

Three partners in the PADLS system have the capabilty to develop testing, given the funding and time, for new diseases of concern, or for diseases which have only recently stimulated concern for testing.

For example, several years ago, New York state faced a major problem with its trout angling program. New York, as does Pennsylvania, sells fishing licenses, and the general public has come to expect the fish agencies to stock trout for spring fishing in exchange for buying a license.

New York state trout hatcheries were devastated just before the regular April 1 trout season opening day, when many of its trout died or were destroyed because of something called "whirling disease."

Whirling disease is the result of a parasite that can be carried through the feces of water birds. It affects the nervous system of the fish in such a way as to cause them to exhibit a strange rapid swimming behavior — twisting around in a whirling motion.

As a state, Pennsylvania has a large trout production industry, and there were plenty of fish to be sold to New York state for stocking its waters for its crowd-drawing and license-selling first day event.

However, New York regulations required that fish entering the state be tested for whirling disease. There was no test available.

However, through cooperative effort, researchers with PDA and Penn State University quickly developed a test that was acceptable to New York and the fish were sold to New York.

New York made out in saving the New York fishing and hunting agency from embarrassment and the loss of potentially tens of thousands of dollars or more in lost license sales; Pennsylvania trout producers were able to export a large number of trout and realize increased sales.

Further, there is now a test for whirling disease.

But the ability of the state diagnostic lab and the tripartite to conduct tests and to develop testing procedures are considered invaluable to Pennsylvania's competitiveness as an agricultural power.

It keeps the PDA lab busy.

According to Purchase, in one year the lab can expect to conduct about 150,000 brucellosis tests; 50,000 psuedorabies tests; and a lot of Johne's Disease and other types of monitoring testing.

In light of June being Dairy Month, the state Diagnostic Laboratories should be recognized for the role it plays in helping the state's dairy industry remain competitive and healthy.

Purchase said the largest number of tests done now are for dairy related cases, regulatory and non-regulatory.

A very small collection of preserved tissues awaits testing. Some of the labels indicate the species being tested. The new Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory conducted more than 100,000 tests in its first year.

The avian influenza testing is right up there now, also, as the state attempts to contain and continue to monitor a non-pathogenic strain of avian influenza that has been discovered on several different farms in Lancaster and Lebanon counties during the past two years.

The lab does two types of testing for avian influenza — one costs about $2 per test and is used as an indicative test and confirms the presence of antibodies; the other costs about $200 per test and confirms the presence of a virus.

Having the two types of tests helps the lab contain costs while being aggressive in keeping on top of the avian influenza virus.

Antibodies are the "smoke," and the virus is the "fire." The $2 antibody test prevents having to spend $200 for each test.

After a positive antibody test, samples can be tested for the actual virus. The virus test can confirm its presence in very small amounts. Then the virus can be cultured, and sent off to national laboratories for identification.

As of this week, there were seven site quarantines for avian influenza in place in the state, and all are expected to be lifted soon. Barring any new outbreaks, the last quarantine order is expected to be lifted by August 1.

The state charges no fee to cover the cost of regulatory testing, but it charges for elective testing. The fee schedule for elective tests changes periodically, so those interested in the cost of specific tests can contact the laboratories.

The PDA Diagnostic Laboratory generally doesn't work directly with livestock producers, but with veterinarians.

In fact, including Purchase, there are four veterinarians overseeing testing operations at the state lab, as well as overseeing the staff of 50 in Harrisburg — while Purchase is chief administrator, there is Dr. Donald Singletary, poultry pathologist; Dr. Hyun Kim, immuno/histochemsitry specialist; and Dr. Mark Walter, chief pathologist.

In a recent news release, the state announced the hiring of Dr. John Enck Jr. of Dillsburg, to direct the PDA Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services, of which the state Veterinary Laboratory is a key element.

Enck was on the committee that designed the laboratory.

In a news release, State Agriculture Secretary Samuel Hayes Jr., said, "We look forward to his leadership in keeping our animal industry healthy and competitive. Dr. Enck's background in diagnostic work will be valuable in promoting the functions of our world-class laboratory."

In the Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory avian influenza lab, Bill Logoda shows a multiple-cell testing dish used to detect the presence of avian influenza antibodies in samples. This 48-hour test costs about $2 and is a first-line detection test in a disease survielance program.

Cove Mountain Opens Doors June 25

MERCERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Cove Mountain Farm, a seasonal grass-based dairy, has scheduled an open house for farmers and the general public on Thursday, June 25. Farm tours will be conducted from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. and a milking demonstration is scheduled at 4 p.m.

American Farmland Trust (AFT) developed the grass-based dairy as a demonstration site to help other farmers and landowners learn about the economic and environmental benefits of grass-based livestock management systems.

Scheduled activities will include tours of the 330-acre property, the New Zealand-style milking center, and the USDA's water quality research site. The open house will conclude with a milking demonstration.

On hand will be Bryan Petrucci, AFT's director of farms; Glenn Moyer, Cove Mountain Farm; Donna Mennito, AFT's Mid-Atlantic field projects specialist; the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture; the USDA Agriculture Research Service; and the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Sponsors include the Maryland/Virginia Milk Producers Co-op, the Schlueter Company, Pastures Unlimited, and KenCove Fence Company.

The farm is located on Rt. 456 seven miles north of Rt. 70 (exit 5) and nine miles south of Rt. 16.

Do You Really Know How Much It Costs to Hire Employees?

As an employer you pay a lot more for labor than your employees take home with their pay check. However, many employers do not know or they don't take the time to figure out how much their employees actually cost their business. In many cases labor cost is the single largest expense burden on your business. Therefore, it is critical that you know exactly how much each persons wages is truly costing the business.

The information that you need is the cost of each employee for each hour that they are productively working at their prescribed job. This will help you determine the appropriate wage rate to charge to your customers so all of your costs are covered. Just a subtle reminder, if you are not billing or charging your customers the appropriate amount to cover all costs then how are you guaranteeing your business a profit.

The way to calculate your labor cost per productive hour is to subtract the time that you are paying for but the employee is not working, such as vacations, holidays, sick days, time lost due to accidents and daily breaks. Figure out what all of your labor costs are and then divide that total by the number hours worked per year to arrive at a per hour cost. Non-productive time (travel time, breaks, lunch, etc.) on a day to day basis is handled by applying a productive time.paid time ratio to the total of all other labor costs.

Before the first employee is ever hired and the first paycheck is ever written for wages earned many preliminary steps must be taken.

- Obtain a Federal Employer Identification number.
- Obtain a copy of Pennsylvania Combined Registration Forms and Instructions, commonly referred to as the PA-100.
- Obtain a copy of the Pennsylvania copy of the New Hire Reporting Form. New for 1998
- Obtain Worker's Compensation from a private insurance company or from the State Workmen's Insurance Fund (SWIF). Having Worker's Compensation Insurance for your employees is not an option it is a requirement of the law.
- Call or write to your local Bureau of Employer Tax Operations in your area to register your business with the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Fund. In Pennsylvania, you are required to pay into the State Unemployment Fund for all of your employees.

The following is a sample labor cost calculation illustrating the impact of benefits, taxes and non-productive time on labor costs

Base Rate $8 00
At $8 00/hour, the employee will earn $64 00/day
(before taxes) and has the potential to work 2,000 hours per year before overtime

Benefits
Two weeks paid vacation (80 hours or $640) amounts to 33/hour
Eight paid holidays (64 hours or $512) amounts to 26/hour
Coffee breaks (two ten-minute breaks/day equals 80.67 hours/year, $645 36/year) or 32/hour

CD-ROM Helps Teach Body Condition Scoring

PRINCETON, N.J – All you wanted to know about dairy cattle body condition scoring but were afraid to ask is now available on CD-ROM.

Cornell University, with the support of a grant from USDA "Challenges in Higher Education" program, produced this interactive learning tool, titled "Body Condition Scoring of Dairy Cattle." The CD-ROM addresses the need, process and benefits of body condition scoring - a non-invasive method of estimating fat stores in live dairy cows. Church & Dwight Co., Inc., manufacturer of Arm & Hammer® brand feed ingredients, is coordinating the promotion and distribution of this CD-ROM

A unique educational program with videos, animated graphics and sound, "Body Condition Scoring of Dairy Cattle" focuses on three main topics First what is body condition? Second, why should I use body condition scoring? And third, what is the best system?

By utilizing the CD-ROM, users not only learn body condition scoring techniques, they come to better understand how energy balance can effect reproductive efficiency, milk production and health

According to Bill Tom, Church & Dwight's MEGALAC® Rumen Bypass Fat senior business manager, the CD-ROM fulfills a need for educational resources devoted specifically to body condition scoring

"The 'Body Condition Scoring of Dairy Cattle' CD-ROM presents the basic concepts with respect to energy balance and body condition reserves after calving," Tom said. "This CD-ROM is a valuable teaching tool for the classroom, dairy producer workshops, 4-H, FFA and junior dairy breed association meetings, and many other learning situations."

Why is body condition scoring so important? According to Pascal Oltenacu, a Cornell University animal scientist, cows calving at extreme body condition scores suffer from poor reproductive performance and low milk production.

"Body condition has a tremendous impact on milk production and reproduction – the crux of dairy producers' profitability," Oltenacu said, "If used correctly, body condition scoring can help producers fine tune their management programs and reap great benefits."

Body condition scoring is based on seeing and palpating the back and hindquarters of a cow. This process helps a scorer determine the amount of fat and flesh covering certain areas, particularly the tailhead, hook and pinbones, loin and rump areas

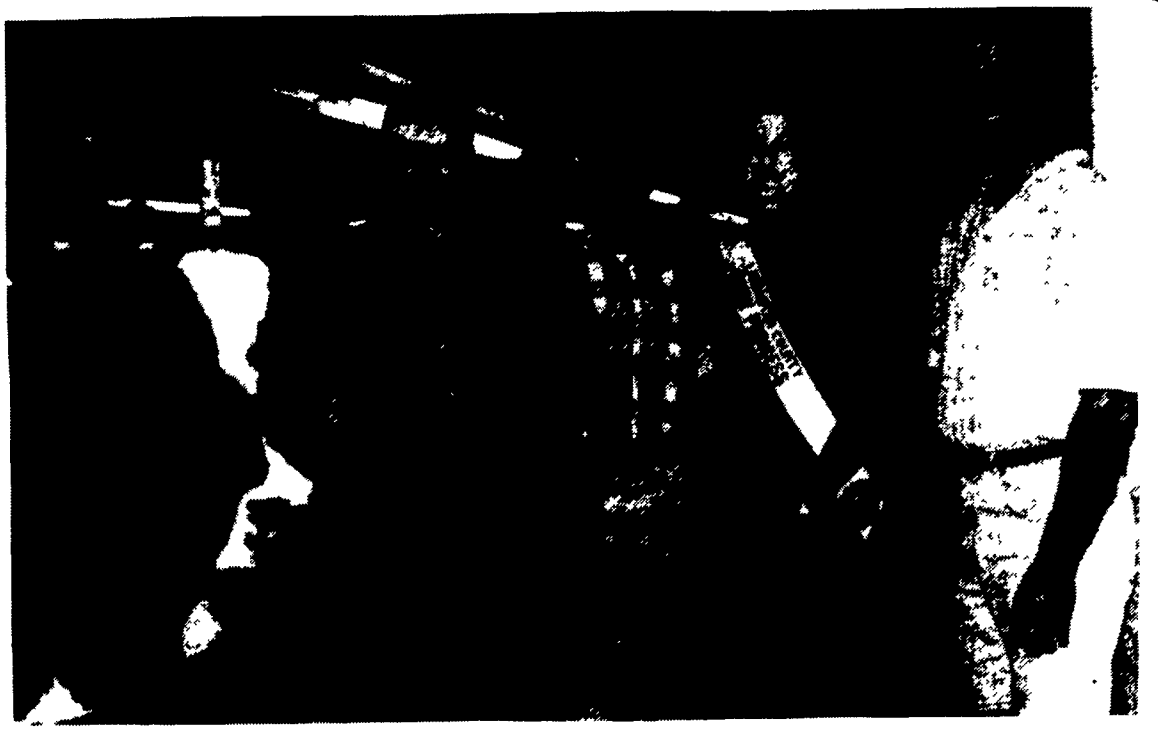
To illustrate different body condition scores, the CD-ROM shows video clips of cows with varying body condition scores Plus, a demonstrator points out key body parts that give clues for assessing scores.

According to Oltenacu, those studying the "Body Condition Scoring of Dairy Cattle" CD-ROM will easily be able to recognize basic differences in body condition

"Just like judging dairy cattle, body condition scoring takes practice." Oltenacu said. "The more often you do it, the easier it gets "

Users of this CD-ROM can find out how much they have learned by taking the body condition scoring quiz. The multiple-choice quiz evaluates knowledge retained throughout this educational tool

To order the "Body Condition Scoring of Dairy Cattle" CD-ROM, send a check or money order for $65 to Church & Dwight Co., Inc. Inquiry Service Center, P.O. Box 864, Brookfield, WI 53005-0864. For information on quantity discounts, call the ARM & HAMMER hotline at (800) 526-3563.



Lancaster Holstein Lovers Have Field Day

At the Lancaster County Holstein Field Day Thursday evening are from left, Mark Welk, host; Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County dairy agent; Elizabeth Smith, Lancaster County dairy princess; and Mike Eby, chair of the event. The center of attraction is Welkshade Sterling Kizzy EX92 who is well know for winning local shows. She looks wonderful in her work clothes too with 3y 27,741m 1,039f 966p. Welkshade is noted for large beautiful excellent cows, four of them in the aged cow class for the judging contest that is a traditional part of this evening of fellowship. Winners in the judging contest are, Robert Groff, men's division; Shawn Wenger and Millie Groff, women's division; and Amy Vaugan, youth division. About 350 Holstein lovers attended. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

STATE COLLEGE (Dauphin Co.) — As dairies increase in size, the question arises, "Do I need to continue testing my milk samples?" The answer, plain and simple, is "yes," and there are many compelling reasons why.

Recently a dairy specialist from the University of Delaware wrote an article about dairymen who were getting paid an incentive for their non-fat milk solids (NFMS).

A herd with 150 cows and a test of 4.1 percent fat and 8.9 percent NFMS, at a price of $1.2332 per pound fat and $1.02 per pound NFMS, would make $1,497 more than a herd with the same milk yield and a test of 3.78 percent fat and 8.79 percent NFMS.

Without individual sample testing you don't know which cows to keep for NFMS and which ones should be culled. This clearly shows the benefit of component testing.

MUN testing has become an even greater management tool as more and more dairymen see the positive effects of using the results with their feeding program. As more vets and nutritionists utilize MUN and incorporate it into their herd programs, this becomes a must-have for all dairymen.

Contact Pa. DHIA at 1-800-344-8378 if you have any questions or would like a representative of Pa. DHIA to stop by your farm to explain how Pa. DHIA records can help you.

New York Growers Talk Stones, Pits

GENEVA, N.Y. — Fruit growers met on the shores of Seneca Lake in Geneva, N.Y. to talk pits, cast out the stone in "stone fruits," and make some waves.

The eager gathering of 96 participants from across New York, Pennsylvania, and the Niagara Peninsula were attending the first-ever New York Stone Fruit School hosted by Cornell University, March 16-17. One of the highlights of the two-day events was the launching of a new growers' association for stone fruit growers in New York and neighboring states. The association is as yet unnamed.

"The growers are looking for a more consumer-friendly name for their fruits," said grower Jim Bittner, who led the participants in discussing the values they will get from their new association. "Growers feel that stone fruits does not convey to most people what they produce. They are open to suggestions."

The stone fruit industry refers to peaches, plums, nectarines, apricots, and sweet and sour cherries as stone fruits because of their hard pits. But "stone" is counter-intuitive to consumers, who are more apt to thing of the fruits as soft, smooth, juicy, and tender.

Stone fruits are grown for fresh consumption and processing markets. When ripe, the fruit tends to bruise if shipped long distances, so stone fruits are particularly well-suited for local niche markets and regional consumption said extension pomologist Bob Andersen, who organized this unique school.

"The highlight for me was that so many growers would come out to learn more about growing stone fruit," said Bittner, who is the managing partner of Singer Farms in Appleton, N.Y. He farms 500 acres of fruit, half of which is devoted to stone fruits and half of which is devoted to apples. "With the future of apples not as rosy as it was a few years ago, most of us are looking at the possibility of planting some more stone fruit."

The reports of large apple plantings in the Northwest, California, and China have some growers concerned about the future of the New York apple industry. But the fact that consumers are becoming more quality conscious enhances growers' optimism that there will be an increased demand for locally produced soft fruits that are harvested at optimum maturity.

Grower Steve Clarke felt an "aura of excitement and optimism" at the meeting, and came away with this message: "Find the market before you plant the tree."

Get In the 'Moood' For Great Dairy Recipes

Again, this week we have a wonderful collection of recipes from our readers. These are part of the entries sent in for Lancaster Farming's annual dairy recipe drawing.

Submissions will be printed throughout the month of June.

On June 26, Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Nichole Meabon will select the winning entries through a drawing. Winners will be notified by mail and the list of winners will be printed in the July 4 issue of this paper. This is a change of date necessitated by Nichole being unable to draw the winning names before the publishing deadline for the July 27th issue.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1¾ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar. Add one egg at a time. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Pour into greased pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

I am almost 14 years old and we live on a 65-head dairy farm. This strawberry shortcake recipe is a favorite. I have seven brothers ages 2-18.

BECKY'S POTATO BUNS

1 package yeast
1½ cup warm water
1 cup milk, scalded
⅔ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup mashed potatoes
6 cups flour
1 tablespoon butter

Scald milk, then cool to lukewarm. Cream shortening, sugar, and salt. Blend in eggs and mashed potatoes. Add to water yeast mixture. Add flour to make soft dough, then turn on lightly floured board and knead thoroughly and place in a large bowl. Let rise until double in bulk. This could take 2 hours. Punch down and knead again.

Form into balls and brush with butter. Let rise another 2 hours. Place in greased pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until lightly brown. Garnish with frosting (optional).

This recipe is a keepsake from a family in Missouri. The first time I made it was when I took a week of vacation to visit them. At that time they did not have a dairy. But now they do. The lady who shared it with me is my sister, Rebecca, married to Leonard Martin. They have three girls and four boys.

I always look forward to those visits, because I have a full-time job at the Reading Hospital and cannot take off just anytime. I have been cleaning as part of a surgical and medical team for many years.

WAFFLES

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
6 tablespoons melted butter
2 eggs
1½ cups milk

Put dry ingredients in bowl, beat eggs, and add milk. Combine with flour mixture. Add melted butter and beat again. Pour into preheated waffle maker.

This is a favorite recipe I'vef had since I was a young teen-ager selling waffles and ice cream at a market stand.

It's delicious with pancake syrup, ice cream, and even butter and jelly.

You can serve it for breakfast or as a dessert. There's a lot of cooking that needs to be done at our house with 5 children. Our oldest is Jason, almost 11, followed by Ann Merlene, 8; Anthony, 6; Susan, 4; and Marilyn, 1. When waffles are on the menu I get cheers from the children.

Keep up the good work on the articles in the B section of Lancaster Farming.

June Dairy Month

Farm and rural scenes are popular requests to be painted on saw blades, slate, and milk cans. In the background, Elva's Art Shanty is a perfect spot for inspiration as it overlooks the Hursts' farm fields. The milk can at right, a painting of Erb's Bridge, will go to the highest bidder at the Lititz Area Mennonite School's annual benefit auction to be held June 27.

Scenes From Elva's Art Shanty

LOU ANN GOOD

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — The "starving artist" concept certainly doesn't apply to Elva Hurst. Since 15 years of age, this self-taught artist has had more work than she can handle.

Elva grew up in a conservative Mennonite home in Ephrata. She attended a small Amish-Mennonite school, where art was considered frivolous. But that didn't keep her from etching houses and barns in between chores on the family's dairy farm.

When she was in eighth grade, a new teacher noticed Elva's artistic talent and encouraged her to become more observant such as in noticing the shape of a deer's ears compared to a cow's. But eighth grade was also as much education as Elva's parents and the school allowed.

(Turn to Page B3)

With the support of her husband Ray, Elva squeezes in time for painting among caring for the couple's children, Josiah, 3, and Bethany, 3 months, and other family responsibilities.

Rural Scenes From Elva's Art Shanty

Elva quit school to work on her parents' dairy farm. In her spare time, she and an older sister continue to draw pictures. They saved their pennies to purchase a book on landscape drawing. Then they met an artist, Arlene Stauffer, who lived nearby and who painted scenes on milk cans.

"I adored her work and spent hours watching her paint," Elva said.

Elva was told, "There are three things an artist needs to do. Number one — practice. Number two — practice. And, number three — practice."

Elva took the advice seriously.

"I made myself practice everyday," she said.

She practiced on glass milk jugs, stones, and wherever she could find materials.

Neighbors who saw her work asked her for gift items.

Her parents began to see that their daughter's artistic talents were more than mere entertainment or a passing phase.

"My father took an interest in my work and encouraged me to try drawing cows in the meadow," Elva said.

At first, Elva was hesitant. Drawing landscapes was easier for her than drawing animals. But with her father's critiquing, Elva perfected her animal drawing skills.

When people asked where Elva got her talent for drawing, her father replied, "Not from me. I still have mine."

When she was 15 years old, Elva's father drove her to gift shops to offer her work for sale.

"I discovered all I had to do was put a horse and buggy on a scene and tourists would buy it," Elva said.

The family had neither televison nor radio to entertain Elva, who spend long hours painting. Instead her mother read books aloud to Elva as she painted.

"I really missed that after I married," Elva said.

She and Ray married 10 years ago and have a 3-year-old son Josiah and a 3-month-old daughter Bethany.

Elva has long since stopped selling her work at gift shops and tourists shops. She has more work than she can handle painting special orders. In fact, she has trained a niece to help with the special orders.

Elva said, "A lot of farm owners bring me pictures of their farms and ask me to paint them."

She mostly paints farm scenes on saw blades, slate, and on milk cans. Her father goes to a lot of public sales to find milk cans and saw blades.

"I like the chalk talks, because they allow my husband and I to work together. He does the narration while I draw," Elva said.

"I'm amazed at the amount of invitations," Elva said of bookings she receives from churches, senior citizen center, campgrounds, banquets, and outdoor community celebrations. During the recent Memorial Day month, she had more than two dozen invitations. She has developed programs on history, patriotic, holiday, and Christian themes.

Elva said that her interest in chalk drawings developed when she and her husband Ray moved to Tulsa, Okla. to attend Bible School for two years. During that time, she was mentored by a chalk artist from Pittsburgh and began using that technique in Sunday school teaching. Word of her work spread and she was soon asked to perform chalk talks for other gatherings.

When people express amazement that an untrained artist has had full-time work for more than 15 years, Elva responds, "I give all the credit to God. He opens doors and things keep expanding. I am really blessed."

In fulfillment of their dreams, the Hursts bought a 20-acre farm about two years ago.

"It was really a rundown farm that my husband and I are having fun in the process of getting it in working order," Elva said.

Ray farms the land in addition to working as a flight instructor at Lancaster Airport.

"Ray loves coming home and climbing on a tractor," Elva said of his diverse careers. The Hursts have some goats and chickens. In the barn, they house ostriches for Hammercreek Exotic, which is located nearby.

A little shed connected to the house is the ideal spot to hang the shingle for Elva's Art Shanty. Inside the building she stores milk cans, saw blades, and slates.

While the secluded fields and woodland surrounding the farm provides inspiration, Elva mostly paints at her kitchen table where she can care for the children and fulfill household duties.

Elva has painted Erb's Bridge at Mill Way on a milk can. This will be auctioned off at 12:30 p.m. at the Lititz Area Mennonite School benefit auction on June 27.

Lititz Area Mennonite School's 21st annual benefit auction and chicken barbecue will be held Friday, June 26, and Saturday, June 27.

Friday's activities begin with a chicken barbecue dinner, with drive-thru and eat-in services, available from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Winross trucks and collectibles will be sold at the Friday evening auction between 6 p.m.-8 p.m. A special program for children will be held from 7:15 p.m. with Ryan Bombgardner, a ventriloquist. Quilts, artwork, and many other items will be display Friday evening.

Saturday begins with an "all you can eat" country buffet breakfast, served from 6:30 a.m.-9:30 a.m. Enjoy eggs, pancakes, sausage, tater tots, fresh fruit, muffins, and juice for $4. Children 6-10 years are $2, and 5 and under are free.

The auction begins at 9 a.m. with a wide variety of items, including crafts, baskets, pottery, American Doll clothes, Lissi Doll, Beanie Babies, Wooden items, sports cards, lawn and garden items, plants, and flowers.

At noon a large and diverse grouping of artwork will be sold. Special features such as a 3-D handcrafted painting by Lorraine Reiff, a Sam Martin wooden cattle truck, and a handpainted milk can by Elva Hurst will be sold at 12:30 p.m. Quilts and wall hangings will be auctioned at 1 p.m.

Children's activities begin a 10 a.m. with pony rides, train rides, crafts, fish toss, moonwalk, face painting, and other games.

A large selection of food will be available throughout the day.

The school is located at 1050 East Newport Rd., Lititz. For more information about the benefit sale, call the school at (717) 626-9551.

For more information about chalk talks or Elva's paintings, call the Hursts at (717) 626-6582.

CHOCOLATE BANANA CREAM PUFF

1 cup water
½ cup butter
1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
2 8-ounce cream cheese, softened
1½ cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
2 bananas, sliced
1 ounce square semisweet chocolate, melted
1 tablespoon milk

Bring water and butter to boil. Add flour and salt; stir vigorously over low heat until mixture forms ball. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each egg. Drop ten ½ cups of dough on lightly greased cookie sheet to form 9-inch ring. Bake at 400 degrees 50-55 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from cookie sheet immediately. Cool. Combine cream cheese, 1 cup sugar, and vanilla, mixing until well-blended. Reserve ½ cup cream cheese mixture. Fold whipped cream and bananas into remaining mixture. Chill. Carefully cut top from ring. Fill with whipped cream mixture. Replace top. Add remaining sugar, chocolate, and milk to reserved cream cheese mixture. Mix well. Spread over ring.

My name is Lori Hartle. I am the mother of five children — Troy, 14; Amy, 12; April, 11; Alisa, 8; and Ashley, 6. My husband's name is Tom and together we all live on a dairy farm in Bellefonte, where we raise registered Holsteins. Our prefix is Ebon-Blanc. We milk 76 cows—an activity in which almost all of us are involved in, in one way or another.

Most of my activities off the farm involve area children. I am a 4-H leader. I'm involved with the PTA in the school that my children attend, and I'm also involved in the Centre/Clinton County Home and Farm Safety Camp. Our whole family is involved in county and state Holstein activities as well as exhibiting our animals at shows.

The children are involved in various activities such as softball, 4-H clubs, and the county junior Holstein club. This year, through our church, our family will be involved in the Ulster Project, in which a teen from Ireland will be staying with us for a month this summer. In the spring of each year we provide a farm tour of our farm for kindergarten children who attend my childrens' school. At the end of the tour they are allowed to make their own butter and take it home. They are also given samples of dairy desserts to try and they are given the recipes to take home.

I believe an active family is a happy family, as long as Mom gets a break from all the chauffeuring once in a while. . . . and as long as we all get to sit down to at least two meals a day together as a family and share our day's events.

GRAPE-NUTS PUDDING

1 quart milk
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla
8 ounces whipped cream topping
¾ cup Grape Nuts

Add enough milk to flour to make a smooth, thin paste. Add egg yolks and salt to paste. Beat. Heat remaining milk and sugar in a saucepan. When almost scalding, stir in paste mixture. Stir constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and fold in vanilla. Cool. Add whipped cream topping and Grape Nuts just before serving.

Hi! My husband Edwin and I live on a 150-acre dairy farm in Union County. We have a herd of 52 cows plus replacement heifers and calves which keep us busy. We also have two daughters. Marcille is 14 months old and Jennifer is 2 weeks old.

This is one of our favorite desserts. It is quick, easy, and delicious.

TURKEY CROQUETTES

3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 cups diced cooked turkey
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon chopped onion
2 cups cracker crumbs
1 egg, beaten

Melt butter in saucepan; add flour. Cook, stirring until smooth. Add milk; cook, stirring, until thickened. Combine turkey, ½ teaspoon salt, paprika, celery salt, lemon juice, onion, and milk mixture. Mix well. Spread on plate. Chill 6 hours or overnight. Shape as desired for croquettes; dip into crumbs. Mix egg with 1 tablespoon water. Dip croquettes into egg mixture. Coat again with crumbs. Fry in deep fat until golden brown.

This is a great recipe to make if you have leftover turkey. My family enjoys having these for a change from plain turkey. Sometimes I make extra and freeze them. My husband Allen and I have a dairy farm with 50 milking cows. We have two sons, Jay, 19, and Kenneth, 14.

ICE CREAM TORTE

1 10¾ ounce frozen loaf of pound cake
½ gallon ice cream, any flavor
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups confectioners' sugar

Slice cake horizontally into fourths. Halve ice cream lengthwise; freeze half for later. Cut remaining ice cream lengthwise into two 1-inch thick slices. Place 2 cake slices on a baking sheet. Top each cake slice with one of the ice cream slices. Top with remaining cake slices. Place in freezer.

In a small mixer bowl, beat cream cheese, butter, and vanilla with an electric mixer on medium speed 30 seconds or until fluffy. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, beating until smooth. Spread over tops and sides of torte. Freeze until firm. Seal, label, and freeze up to 6 months.

To serve, let tortes stand, covered, at room temperature 10 minutes. Unwrap and serve. Makes 2 tortes, 8 servings each.

I always enjoy reading the articles your readers send in for the June issues. My husband David and I raise registered Jerseys. Our sons David, 16, and Mike, 13, help out on the farm. We milk 45 cows and raise corn and hay.

So far the crops in our area are doing well. The weather has been great. I look forward to seeing all the recipes promoting dairy products.

MAKE-YOUR-OWN ICE CREAM FOR KIDS

1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup milk, half and half, or cream
¼ teaspoon vanilla
6 tablespoons salt

Also needed:
1 pint-size zip-type plastic bag
1 gallon-size zip-type plastic bag

Fill the large bag half full of ice. Add the salt.

Put milk, vanilla, and the sugar into the small bag. Seal it.

Shake until the mixture is ice cream, about 5 minutes.

I live in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley in Virginia. My husband works in field service for Valley of Virginia Milk Producers. We have two boys, ages 7 and 5.

I grew up on a dairy farm in Connecticut and feel closely connected to the dairy industry. I give talks at my son's preschool about cows, milk, and dairy products. My goal is to incorporate more agriculture education into the schools.

We made this ice cream recipe at preschool and it was very easy for the children. I think children of all ages will enjoy making their own.

Seems but a few years ago when they were just tiny. You coddled them, looked after them, worried about them.

The went from infants to toddlers to young people to young adults in a blur before your eyes. We mark these phases as graduations, from simple ceremonies moving kindergartners up to first grade, to the more elaborate, solemn, but joyous, departures from high schools and colleges.

While there are no official ceremonies, it's graduation season for many of our farm youngsters, too.

Our summer crop of brand-new mother cows have begun calving, graduating into their working careers in the milking herd. The resulting, and unusual, string of heifer babies put a half-dozen overgrown bottle calves into abrupt "graduation" to make room for the newcomers. And weaning several three-month calves simultaneously meant enduring an ear-splitting protest of bawling for the next few feedings.

That passed, as the graduates settled into group pens, their bellies growing wider every day as they chow down sweet-smelling, soft, new-crop grass hay. Meanwhile, their empty pens have been filled with beautiful little replacements, including one escape artist that generated a couple of merry chases before settling into a new routine.

None, however, was more spunky that the baby bull born in the lower meadow and not corralled into the nursery for about 36 hours. He arrived in the calf barn highly irritated at the curtailment of his freedom and took it out on the first person handy. While this pint-sized, bawling, pawing bullfighter never managed to knock me off my feet, he did try, succeeding only in knocking his own bottle in a splattering mess across the floor. By the next feeding, he was hungry and gulped dinner down like a veteran. And, we parted friends when he graduated on to a new owner.

Our four young kittens have graduated into young cats, perfecting their playful antics in the upper level of the old bank barn. After we filled one haymow and part of another with some first-cutting grass, the barn became a virtual feline amusement park of fun activity—layers of hay bales to scale, nooks and crannies in which to hide and protruding bale corners at various levels from which to launch pounce-attacks.

However, the racket and disturbance of offloading haywagons and stacking them in the mow initially chased the cat family into hiding. Several of the kittens ultimately were found tangled in a pile of round-bale netting awaiting disposal. That incident seemed to tame them, almost as though their rescue taught them to trust us. Now, they come running when we appear in the barn, begging for milk and cat food, and affectionately purr as lapcats.

Also rapidly approaching graduation are three Canada goslings (two of the original five hatched disappeared) growing up among the meadow ponds. Their baby goosedown is rapidly being replaced with sleek, handsome feathers; soon the classic white face patch will develop.

One has an especially spirited and bossy personality.

For the first year ever, we have a second group of geese residing in the meadow, co-existing with a family raising goslings. Probable yearlings, this "singles group" rarely shares the same water spaces as the family flock, however. Father ganders are always very protective of the goslings, chasing off the other geese – dogs, cats, people – that get too close, and this one has fulfilled his role well.

Lately, however, one upstart youngster has snatched that role away from Papa Goose Watching a half-grown, still-fuzzy gosling stretch his neck, spread his half-grown wings and go flopping off in pursuit of a half-dozen, full-grown adult birds is hilarious Seems this gifted-student has skipped a couple of grades and is already moving up into job training for a future executive leadership position.

However, there will come a day when the goslings will officially graduate into their adult lives, reminiscent of a ceremony used at one time (maybe still) to honor Brownies moving up into the ranks of Girl Scouts Appropriately called Fly Up.

Once again, the graduates will leave home and our nest will be empty again.

Marvin and Carolyn Horst's children include Heidi, 11; Amy, 9; Jordan, 6; Justin, 6; and Eric, 2.

ICE CREAM CAKE ROLL

3 eggs
3 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup sugar
4 teaspoons cold water
1 cup flour (scant)
1¼ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons hot melted butter
Filling:
½ gallon vanilla ice cream

Use a 10- by 15-inch pan. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease pan liberally before pouring in batter. Bake at 400 degrees for 7 minutes.

Flip cake out on wax paper sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Roll cake while hot. After cake is cool, unroll and fill with ½ gallon vanilla ice cream. Reroll and freeze until firm. Slice and serve.

A refreshing dessert on a warm summer day. We farm 92 acres and milk Holsteins on our dairy farm in Kinzers. Our 5 children — Heidi, 11; Amy, 9; Jordan, 6; Justin, 6; and Eric, 2 — all enjoy helping in the barn and feeding calves.

PUMPKIN PIE BARS

Crust:
1 cup flour
½ cup rolled oats
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup butter

Press into 9- by 13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Filling:
2 cups pumpkin
¾ cup milk or buttermilk
2 eggs
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves

Beat. Pour on baked crust, baked for 20-30 minutes. Cool and top with whipped cream.

BANANA SPLIT

2 packages graham crackers (crushed)
2-3 bananas (sliced)
½ gallon favorite ice cream
1 cup nuts (chopped)
1 cup chocolate chips
½ cup butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
1½ cups evaporated milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups whipped cream

Press crumbs into a 11- by 15-inch pan. Reserve 1 cup for toppings. Arrange banana slices on crumbs. Slice ice cream into ½ inch thick slices and put over bananas. Sprinkle chopped nuts over ice cream. Freeze until firm. Melt the chocolate chips and butter. Add sugar and milk. Cook mixture until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add vanilla. Cool chocolate mixture and pour over ice cream. Freeze until firm. Whip the cream, spread over chocolate, and sprinkle with remaining cracker crumbs. Remove from freezer about 10 minutes before serving.

June Dairy Month is a abusy time for us Sauder sisters. As part of the Perry County Dairy Promotion Team, we enjoy promoting the dairy products we love. We live on a 120-acre farm and milk 90 cows.

This past year has been a dream come true for all of us, and we would not trade it for anything. Of course Mom and Dad got stuck with all the work when we did promotions, but they were very understanding!

We love trying different foods and we experiment with different recipes. And then we'll end up sampling it until it's all gone!

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES

6 medium baking potatoes
1½ teaspoon vegetable oil
½ cup onion, chopped
½ cup butter, divided
½ cup light cream
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded cheese
1 teaspoon salt

Rub potatoes with oil; pierce with a fork. Bake at 400 degrees for 1 hour and 10 minutes or until tender. Allow potatoes to cool to the touch. Cut potatoes in half lengthwise; carefully scoop out pulp, leaving a thick shell.

Saute onion in ¼ cup butter until tender. Add to the potato pulp along with light cream, sour cream, salt, and pepper. Beat until smooth. Fold in cheese. Stuff potato shells and place in a 9- by 13-inch baking pan.

Melt remaining butter. Drizzle over the potatoes. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-30 minutes or until heated through. Yield 6 servings.

NEVER FAIL CARAMEL PUDDING

1½ cups brown sugar
¾ cup water
4 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
6 cups milk
3 eggs, beaten
¾ cup flour
1 tablespoon vanilla

Combine first 4 ingredients and boil for 2 minutes. Add soda, bring to boil. Mix together the rest of ingredients and add the first mixture. Cook until thick. Simple and good. You can cut sugar down to 1 cup and is good but not as sweet.

We live on a farm in Lancaster County. I have 4 brothers and 4 sisters. We raise corn, rye, barley, hay, wheat, and straw. I look forward to see all the different recipes.

June Dairy Month

Featured Recipe

If you like robust, good tasting homestyle foods that evoke a sense of warmth and enjoyment without being too difficult or time consuming to prepare, then you'll want the recipe brochure, Farm Kitchen Favorites, from the American Dairy Association.

The collection of recipes pays tribute to the food traditions of America's dairy farmers. Wholesome dishes bursting with rich intense flavors are made with garden-fresh produce, real dairy products, and plenty of seasonings and spices—just like what's still cooked in American's farm kitchens.

To receive the brochure, send a self-addressed stamped envelop to Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, Cromwell Center, Suite 106, 810 Gleneagles Court, Towson, MD 21286.

In the meantime enjoy this refreshing dessert.

FRUIT FANTASY

8-ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup dairy sour cream
6-ounce package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 pound can sliced peaches
8-ounce can pineapple tidbits
¾ cup lemon-lime soda
1 cup miniature marshmallows
Fresh mint, if desired

Beat cream cheese and sour cream until smooth and fluffy; set aside. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in cheese mixture until well blended. Drain fruit reserving juice to make 1½ cups combined. Reserve a few peach slices for garnish, if desired. Stir juice and soda into gelatin mixture. Refrigerate until very thick. Meanwhile, cut peaches into bite-sized pieces. Fold fruit and marshmallows into thickened gelatin mixture. Pour into 7-cup mold. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. To serve, dip in warm water; unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with mint and reserved peach slices.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

This spring I dug my flower garden by hand. Then I planted seeds and waited for them to come up. Only a few were brave enough to show themselves. So, I re-planted, and now I'm waiting again.

The fact that our two young cats run through and play on the loose ground does not help. Each morning they tumble around in a nearby bed of big daylilies. However, these are large enough to hold their own. A separate bed for calendulas is far enough away to escape their antics.

The larkspur reseeded themselves and another bed is an ocean of blue with Shasta daisies around the edge. Allen's rosebed is also doing us proud as we have taken several bouquets to luncheons and banquets. So far insects have not chewed on their petals and so they are perfect. We have most every color in the rainbow.

Recently, I had a birthday and was pleased to get phone calls from our children and from friends. One was from a lady that I worked with in an office some 50 years ago. We had traveled together over the United States and into Canada. The pictures that we took have faded as they were some of the first colored photos. Since then the method of developing pictures has been improved.

We spent to weeks on a private train as we traveled to California. Nights were spent sleeping as we sped west and days were spent seeing the Grand Canyon, Denver, Salt Lake City and San Francisco. On the train with us were farmers from Ohio and it was a congenial group. Memories like these are pleasant.

Sanitation Training

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Between 6.5 and 80 million people suffer from food borne illnesses each year. In 1993, an outbreak of hamburger infected with E. coli 0157:H7 was associated with four deaths and over 500 cases of illness.

At least 41 percent of these outbreaks can be prevented each year with proper time and temperature control in food service operations. Another 20 percent of these incidents can be eliminated by adequate kitchen sanitation and good personal hygiene of food handlers.

Penn State Cooperative Extension is sponsoring a six-hour food safety and sanitation training for food handlers.

* HACCP-Based inspections

The two-day training will be held at the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in Honesdale on June 22 and 29 from 9 a.m.-noon. Participants must attend both days of training.

For a $15 registration fee, participants will receive a training manual and video to be used at their worksites. For more information or to make reservations, call Penn State Cooperative Extension at 717-253-5970 ext. 239.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, and cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — R. Himmelberger, Reading, would like a recipe for Ranger Joe cookies. She had purchased some recently at a Mennonite yard sale.

QUESTION — Marian Harman, Hughesville, would like a recipe for cherry pig, which she thinks is made with bread dough and fresh cherries.

QUESTION — Elaine Fyock, Windber, writes that a recipe for oven pickles processed in the oven at a low temperature and left set overnight appeared in this column last year. She mislaid the recipe and would like it. Did anyone clip it out? Please send it in.

QUESTION — Doris Bobb, Muncy, would like a recipe that had appeared in this paper last year for rhubarb peach jam. Did anyone clip the recipe to which she is referring?

QUESTION — A reader is looking for recipes to use frozen or home canned plums.

QUESTION — A mother needs birthday party treat ideas for children their than decorated cupcakes or cakes.

QUESTION — A reader wants to know how to use excess watermelon in the summertime. Is there a drink that could be made and frozen with watermelon in it?

QUESTION — G. Benner would like a recipe for corn chips.

QUESTION — A Somerset reader would like the following recipes: Tabbouleh and other Indian/Pakintani ethnic dishes from that part of the world. Also Greek food recipes using common ingredients, and a bread pudding that is like a custard/pudding and not like a "cake" bread pudding.

QUESTION — Karen Kinnaine, Shartlesville, wants a recipe for no-fail fudge made with cocoa. She also wants a recipe for Dutch apple cake, a 1950s recipe from the Gold Medal Flour sack.

QUESTION — Betty Groff, Leola, would like a recipe for raisin sponge pie.

QUESTION — Michele Powlison, writes that coming from New England, she misses the pickled tripe found in that area. It is one of her favorite foods and she misses it. Does anyone have a recipe to make pickled tripe like that found in New England?

QUESTION — Kathleen Hampford, Pottsville, is looking for a recipe for sweet and sour meatloaf that they serve at the Shady Maple Restaurant.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes for bagels and for the brezel.

QUESTION — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants recipes for turkey scrapple and turkey bologna.

QUESTION — Shirley Jean Ash, Bridgeport, W.V., would like a recipe for Southwestern Vegetable Soup that tastes like that served at Shoney's Restaurant. She writes that it's the best she ever tasted, although she's been back to the restaurant several times and they didn't have it.

QUESTION — Valerie Miller, Honesdale, is looking for a recipe for pork roll.

ANSWER — A reader had writen that she tasted a delicious cottage cheese soup at the Red Fox Inn at Snowshoe and wanted the recipe. Thanks to a reader for writing that she made two special trips to Snow shoe and has been going to a camp near the town for more than 50 years. According to diligent research no such place exists—"no Red Fox Inn, no Red Fox Bar, no Red Fox Restaurant, no Red Fox nothing." She has talked to every moving person she could find, including the post office — no Red Fox within a 20-mile radius of Snow Shoe. Also during her intense investigation, no one had ever heard of cottage cheese soup.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to freeze fresh picked green peppers. Thanks to Fran Westfall, New Oxford, who writes that she freezes peppers and onions every year. For peppers, wash, take off tops, and clean out seeds. Take a big cookie baking sheet, cut some in strips, dice some, and for those you want to use for stuffed peppers, stand them cut-side down and freeze. When frozen, put in freezer bags to keep all winter. For onions, dice or cut in strips to freeze.

ANSWER — G. Benner wanted recipes using corn meal. Thanks to Eileen Greenaway, Somerville, NJ, for sending recipes.

Hush Puppies

1 cup yellow corn meal
½ cup flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¾ cup green onions
1 large egg, beaten
¼ cup milk

Combine dry ingredients. Add chopped green onions. Stir in milk and beaten egg. Stir until just moistened. Drop by teaspoonful into hot deep oil and fry until golden. Makes approximately 2½ dozen.

No southerner would dream of eating fried catfish without hush puppies and coleslaw!

Corn Bread Waffles

1½ cups yellow corn meal
½ cup flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 large egg, beaten
1½ cups milk
¼ cup butter, melted
1½ cups frozen white shoepeg corn, thawed

Combine dry ingredients. Stir together egg and remaining ingredients; add to dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Bake in a preheated, oiled waffle iron just until crisp. Makes 12 4-inch waffles. Leftovers may be frozen and reheated in toaster. Eat these for breakfast and they make an excellent accompaniment with vegetables instead of oven-baked bread.

ANSWER — Here's a recipe that Fran Westfall, New Oxford, sent in. It is baked in a jar. Fran made it many times and it always turns out good, she writes.

Coffee Can Bread

4 cups unsifted flour, divided
1 package dry yeast
½ cup water
½ cup milk
¼ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup ground almonds
½ cup chopped raisins
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 1-pound coffee cans

Mix 2 cups flour with yeast. Stir water, milk, butter, sugar, and salt over low heat until butter melts. Mix with flour and yeast. Add remaining flour, nuts, fruit, and eggs. Dough will be stiff. Knead until smooth and elastic and raisins are distributed. Divide and place in greased coffee cans. Let rise until 1-inch from top of can. Bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes.

Whole wheat can be used for all or part of the flour. Molasses, brown sugar or honey can be used for granulated sugar. Any dried fruit can be substituted in place or in addition to raisins. If cinnamon bread is desired, roll out dough, brush with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon before rolling up and baking.

ANSWER — For those who requested diabetic recipes, here are some from Betty Light, Lebanon, and a listing of recommended diabetic cookbooks to find at the library or the bookstore: "The American Diabetes Association Family Cookbooks I, II, and III." "The I Can't Believe This Has No Sugar Cookbook," by Deborah Buhr. "The Free and Equal Sweet Tooth Cookbook," and "The Free Equal Dessert Cookbook," by Carole Kruppa. "Sweet and Sugar-free," by Karen Barkie. "All New Cookbook for Diabetics and Their Families," by University of Alabama at Birmingham. "The Complete Diabetic Cookbook," "Quick and Delicious Diabetic Desserts," "The Diabetic Chocolate Cookbook," "Diabetic Sweet Tooth Cookbook," "Diabetic Cookies," "Diabetic Cakes, Pies, and Other Scrumptious Desserts," by Mary Jane Finsand.

Peanut Butter Oatmeal Munchies

⅓ cup vegetable oil
⅓ cup peanut butter
½ cup honey
2 eggs
¼ cup skim milk
1⅓ cups whole wheat flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¾ cup rolled oats
½ cup raisins
¼ cup toasted sunflower seeds

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Spray baking sheets with Baker's Joy. In a medium mixing bowl, beat together oil, peanut butter, honey, eggs, and milk. Add the remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls onto prepared baking sheets. Bake for 10 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Yields 3 dozen cookies. Calories per cookie 81. Exchanges 1 starch and 1 fat.

BEEF STROGANOFF

1½ pounds round steak
1 pound sliced mushrooms
1 cup butter
2 pounds onions, finely chopped
2 cans tomato soup
1 can tomato paste
1 tablespoons soy sauce
Dash salt
1 cup sour cream
1 package wide noodles or rice

Cut meat into 1-inch strips. Brown meat and mushrooms in butter. Combine soup, paste, and seasoning. Cook about 2 hours at 350 degrees. Just before serving, add sour cream. Place meat mixture over noodles and rice. Enjoy!

This is a recipe that my family loves. It's a meal you can put in the oven while you're doing your chores and have when you come in at mealtime.

We have 60 head of Holsteins and raise 150 acres of corn. I enjoy cooking and trying new recipes.

YELLOW CAKE

1¾ cups sugar
⅔ cup butter, softened
2 eggs
1½ teaspoon vanilla
2¾ cups flour
2½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups milk

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour pan.

Frosting:
1 egg white
2 tablespoons vanilla
2 tablespoons milk
½ cup confectioners' sugar

Mix the ingredients and add:
1 cup shortening
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
½ cup cocoa

More milk if it needs to be creamy.

I think this is a tasty, moist cake. I prefer baking over cooking. I also love horses and reading.

I look forward to reading Lancaster Farming.

WHITE CAKE

3½ cups cake flour
2 cups sugar
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup shortening
⅔ cup milk
2 cups water
1 box dry cake mix (white or yellow)
1 cup egg whites

Beat all ingredients except egg whites for 2 minutes. Add egg whites and beat for 2 more minutes. Bake in a 9- by 13-inch pan and 8- or 9-inch round pan at 350 degrees for 35-40 minuts. When cool, frost with your favorite and enjoy. The recipe provides one batch for now and another, small one for the freezer.

Here is our favorite cake recipe. This treat doesn't last long at our house.

All Gardens Great & Small

PRIVACY IN THE LANDSCAPE

Is it possible to grow privacy?

Gardeners can plant or construct fencerows, landscape beds, barriers and fences to create complete or partial privacy for their backyard. Fencerows create a "near natural" barrier but only offer partial privacy. For complete privacy, privacy fencing provides screening looking in and out of the backyard. Fences offer the added benefit of restricting access to the yard through gates, doors, etc.

Complete privacy restricts all views in and out of the property. Essentially, a person outside a private yard cannot see anything inside. Gardeners and new homeowners may initially want complete privacy when designing their landscape. But, over time, partial screening may be all that's really needed.

In addition, walls, trees and shrubs can obstruct views in or out of a property. Unfortunately, complete barriers also obstruct air movement, decreasing the overall comfort when using the landscape in the summer.

Fortunately, most residential properties have one or more good views from their home while learning to live with one or more points of visual intrusion. A visual intrusion might be neighbor's window looking onto your patio or even a pleasant view like a park or golf course. These points of visual intrusion may be minor annoyances or may become headaches as your use of your backyard increases in the summertime. Fortunately, points of intrusion rarely fill the entire circumference of the backyard.

Often, obscuring an intrusion point into your property may mean excluding more pleasant views looking out a window of your home. With this in mind, an alternate solution in establishing partial privacy using landscape beds with trees and shrubs.

A trellis surrounding a porch or deck offers partial privacy. Use the trellis to hide a neighbor's window or door or even service areas with trash cans or a cluttered yard. Rather than placing the trellis around the entire perimeter, open portions allow you to enjoy the best views on your property. This allows you to design special landscape features on your property to be enjoyed all year round.

Some features in a landscape always need screened out. A heavily traveled roadway is never desirable to keep in view from a patio while a sidewalk may or may not be worth keeping in your line of sight. The same rationale can be applied to neighboring windows on adjacent properties. If such windows are extensively used by neighbors they probably should be screened. If a window, however, is in a guest room or similar low use area of the house, it need not be screened.

One technique is to orient the interest of the space away from the intrusion source. For example, if a neighboring window is on one side of a patio, the design scheme might be oriented so users sit facing a more striking view in the opposite direction. Therefore, the individual is not constantly facing the perceived or real intrusion of a neighboring window.

The degree of privacy desired varies from person to person. Each situation is unique. Landscape architects and designers work daily sorting out a property for good or bad features. When plants are suggested for a privacy barrier, plan for any future growth potential of the plants that are used.

If a gardener is willing to wait several years, it is possible to grow a privacy fence. Sometimes referred to as a windbreak, these living fences consist of rows of evergreen trees. They protect exposed homes from severe wind, road noise or road fumes. Evergreens for outside rows might include colorado blue spruce, douglas fir, white spruce or white fir. Tall evergreens for inside rows include hemlock, white pine, red pine, Austrian pine, or Norway spruce.

For immediate privacy, fencing, trellises, walls, etc. can be blended into an existing landscape with the help of shrubs. They include forsythia, honeysuckle, viburnums and others.

Jan Seiss Is Frederick County Dairy Princess

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

WOODSBORO, Md. — The newest Frederick County dairy princess likes dairy cows so much that she has a job away from home milking them. Jen Seiss, the 18 year-old daughter of Glenn and Nancy Seiss, Rocky Ridge, lives on a beef farm, but milks cows each day at a neighboring dairy farm. Jen was crowned as the Frederick County dairy princess here by outgoing dairy princess Emily O'Hara at the 37th Frederick County dairy princess coronation, held at the fire hall.

Two other contestants were named as alternate dairy princesses. Mary Ropp, the 17 year-old daughter of Ralph and Rebecca Ropp of Middletown, was a runner-up in the contest and will serve as an alternate dairy princess. Crystal Smith, the 16 year-old daughter of Wayne and Cathy Smith of Jefferson, was also a runner-up, and will serve as an alternate. Both girls will help to promote milk and the dairy industry throughout the upcoming year.

Jen Seiss said she plans on using her title to help people understand how important milk and dairy products are. In response to a fishbowl question about what she would say if she were invited to speak to elementary school students, she said, "I'd probably take samples of milk, 1%, 2%, whole, and chocolate milk, because lots of kids like chocolate milk. I'd show them where milk comes from, show them the importance of milk, and where we would be if we didn't have it."

Jen lives on a beef farm in Rocky Ridge, but her interest in dairy has led to a part-time job on a nearby dairy farm, Janessa Holsteins, where she milks 175 registered Holsteins. She also owns five cows herself. She plans to continue milking, following her graduation from Catoctin High School this June.

At school Jen has been an active FFA member since 1994. She has served as junior treasurer and treasurer, and participated in numerous contests. She is also a member of the Iron Cougars powerlifting team.

She is very excited about her reign as dairy princess, and is looking forward to the opportunities it will give her to work with young people. "I want to try to educate young people more about milk and what products come from milk," said the enthusiastic princess.

The evening event also introduced seven young ladies who will be very busy promoting milk and may themselves one day become dairy princesses—the 1998 dairy maids. Serving as dairy maids for Frederick County during the upcoming year will be Sherry Albaugh, daughter of Theodore and Kathy Albaugh; Sadah Bentz, daughter of Thomas and JoAnn Bentz; Kelly Burrier, daughter of Kenneth and Robin Burrier; Janell Guyton, daughter of Wilmer and Joann Guyton; Andrea Hood, daughter of Denis and Nancy Hood; Laura Sigler, daughter of Robert and Daphne Sigler; and Jessica Valentine, daughter of Mike and Denise Valentine.

Reptile Week Comes To Nixon Park

YORK (York Co,) – Reptiles–slithering snakes, lazy lizards, gallopin' 'gators, terrestrial turtles–and their kin will be the focus of a week-long special effort at nature education at Nixon County Park in June.

From June 20 through June 27, the Nixon Park Nature Center will focus on herpatology, the study of reptiles and their importance in the natural world.

All aspects of the nature Center are included in this celebration of herps. Visitors can look at live specimens, including the Nature Center's own snakes; a female black snake named Racer, a copperhead, and a milk snake Even the gift shop will get in on the celebration, with special herp-related items

Two special youth programs will focus on herpetology during the week:

•On June 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Nature Center will celebrate Kids and Reptiles Day. During this special children's program, kids ages 8 to 14 will be introduced to live specimens of various reptiles, get a chance to go on a reptile "search", and learn more about the natural history of reptiles Pre-registration is required, and there is a cost of $10 per child.

•Snakes are the special focus of a two-session Fox Story Time on June 24. During this presentation, children ages 4 to 7 and their parents can listen to a story and share a craft session while receiving a "hands-on" introduction to a very friendly corn snake. Two sessions are planned, one from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., another from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Pre-registration is also required for this event and there is a $5 fee.

In addition to the special programs, Reptile Week will feature many other activities, including live specimens of various reptiles. The Nature Center staff will also be available to answer "herp"- related questions and give hands-on demonstrations

The object is to share with visitors a gentle, informative introduction to these special animals.

Please note that no park visitors are not permitted to bring their pets–including reptiles–to the park.

Get Wet! Aquatics At Nixon Park

Not if you happen to be at Nixon County Park Nature Center's aquatic life workshop on Sunday, June 14. Getting wet and having fun whether it's in the creek or vicariously from the banks is encouraged at this event focused on discovering aquatic life.

Aquatic life is the plants, animals, insects and other organisms that live in watery environments, creatures like mayflies, stoneflies and caddis flies; crayfish; water striders; tadpoles; fish; even muskrats and mink.

Ellis said those participating in the workshop will have an opportunity to wade through the stream that flows through Nixon County Park (a tributary of the South Branch of Codorus Creek) turn over rocks, and use a dip net to collect aquatic life just like being a kid and exploring again. Hip boots or old shoes no bare feet are the attire of the day.

One of the more unusual things about the workshop is the opportunity to see the steam from a different perspective, Ellis said. She said you can sense the forces of nature at work walking down the stream bed in ways you wouldn't see from along the trail. For example, you can feel the power of the creek flowing over rocks and creating riffles, witness the power of water eroding the stream's banks.

The workshop is not appropriate for children under age five. All other children must be accompanied by an adult.

Understanding The Story In Dirt

For example, rushing to go to work in the morning, you might leave behind an empty cereal bowl in the kitchen sink, water droplets on the shower rug, dirty clothing in the hamper and footprints across the freshly-swept carpet in the living room.

A robin walking across a dew-laden early-morning lawn or a deer moving through a forest leaves behind similar marks of its passage, tracks, often called "sign".

Learning how to find and then understand sign is what tracking is all about. And that's what local naturalist Greg Stough will share with people on June 28, from 2:30 to 4:40 p.m. at a seminar on tracking at Nixon County Park's Nature Center.

Stough, a student of master tracker Tom Brown, will walk students through a hands-on indoor and outdoor presentation of tracking basics; recognizing local animal tracks, all-season tracks, understanding compressions (indistinct tracts), interpreting strides.

"People who are interested in learning more information about what they are seeing outdoors are usually the people who come to my classes," Stough said. "Most are into doing outdoor things."

The tracking seminar is a great opportunity for outdoor people, hikers, hunters and nature enthusiasts who want to get more from the adventures afield, Stough said.

The seminar will include hands-on experiences, following tracks off the trails. Those interested in attending should dress accordingly, be prepared to go through the woods, steams, anywhere the trail goes.

Pre-registration is required for this special event. For more information call the Nixon County Park Nature Center at (717) 428-1961.

American Girl Fashion Show

ANNVILLE (Lebanon Co.) – A little history, a little fashion, and a lot of fun! The Junior Woman's Club of Lebanon will host The American Girls Fashion Show and Tea on Friday, June 19 at 7:00 p.m. and Saturday, June 20 at 10:00 am, 1:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. at Lebanon Valley College, Annville. The event will feature historically inspired clothes from the six characters in The American Girls Collection. Proceeds from the show will benefit the Lebanon YMCA Child Care Programs.

The American Girls Fashion Show gives young girls and their mothers, grandmothers, aunts, and friends an entertaining and educational look at how American fashion just like American girlhood has changed over the past 225 years. A special feature is the introduction of clothing from the newest American girl – Josefina Montoya, a nine year old Hispanic girl growing up in northern New Mexico in 1824. participants will see firsthand the rich traditions and colorful flavor woven into the clothing worn by Josefina and inspired by Spanish and Mexican influences in the early 1800's.

The feature fashions are based on outfits worn by the popular characters from The American Girls Collection; Felicity Merriman, colonial American; Josefina Montoya, 19th century New Mexico, Kristen Larson, pioneer American; Addy Walker, the Civil War; Samantha Parkington, turn-of-the-century American; and Molly McIntire, the American home front during World War II. The American girls Collection is a line of books, dolls, and related accessories designed to bring American history alive for girls seven and up.

In addition, AG Gear, Pleasant Company's versatile, contempory clothing that expresses today's American girls individuality will also be modeled

Eighteen models from the Lebanon area as well as Hershey and Harrisburg will present the assorted fashions while local TV personalities, Debra Pinkerton, Tanya Alan, and Alicia Richards, WHTM-TV 27 and Cara Giambrone, WLYH-TV 15 and 21, provide lively narration of the clothing and customs of each historical period. Guests are encouraged to bring their favorite doll to tea.

Raffle tickets are being sold to win dolls from The American Girls Collection, including the newest doll, Josefina, or a doll from Pleasant Company's new American Girl of Today Collection. Raffle tickets are also being sold to win a beautiful commissioned Pennsylvania Dutch, quilted folded diamond pattern wall hanging with the American Girls Logo. Guests will also be eligible to win a doll from The American Girls Collection as well as other doors prizes at each show.

In March 1997, the Junior Woman's Club of Lebanon hosted it's second American Girls Fashion Show which benefited the Lebanon County Children and Youth Agency. A total of 1,300 parents, grandparents and fiends enjoyed the show and raised $15,800 to refurbish the Kids Center for Lebanon County Children and Youth.

The cost per person is $22, which includes the fashion show, punch and cookies, and party favors. To order tickets call (717) 228-3410 or send check to AGFS/Junior Woman's Club of Lebanon, P.O. Box 144, Quentin, PA 17083 with your choice of date and time.

Traveling With Children

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — The thought of traveling with children may stir up memories of returning from past vacations frustrated and exhausted. A little extra planning is the key ingredient to easier traveling with children. Consider these tips for making the experience enjoyable for both parents and children.

Tell your child about the trip. Children do better when they know what to expect. Provide your child with details: what days and times you will leave, how you will travel, how long you will stay, what you will pack, what you will do on the way, what you will do while you are there.

Let your child help in planning portions of the trip. This might include items to pack or activities while on the way or places to eat.

Plan several vacation activities specifically for children. Choose child-friendly eating places and plan to eat before children are overly hungry. A tired, hungry child cannot maintain acceptable behavior.

Pack a travel bag of fun activities for your child. Include all-time favorites, but also new activity books, markers or other items for peak entertainment value. A few well chosen items that provide variety are better than too many. Stores that cater to children offer numerous travel toys, books and games that are developmentally appropriate. A child's tape player with headphones can be a worthwhile travel investment. Help your child choose a new tape, just for the trip (not to be used before departure). Throughout the trip, help your child keep his or her bag organized for best use. This will ensure nothing gets misplaced or left behind.

Pack your "parent travel bag": Include non-perishable snacks, treats, and a fun book that can be relied upon when your child is hungry or needs extra attention. You will want to keep this bag close to you. It can also carry "sleep buddies" or a special blanket.

Children who like to write or draw pictures may enjoy keeping a journal of the trip. You can buy a journal or make your own by stapling pages together. One good time for a journal entry might be in a restaurant, after ordering.

Children under four years of age should be in a car seat while traveling by plane or car. Not only is this the safest way for your child to travel, but children often feel more comfortable in their car seat and are used to falling asleep in it.

If you are traveling by plane, right before departure, tell your child exactly what to expect on that part of the trip. For example, "First, we will find our seats and store our coats overhead. Then we will set up your travel bag so you can reach it. You may play with the things in your bag for two hours before the plane lands. Once your seat belt is on and we are ready to take off, I'll give you some gum."

If you are traveling by car, use the restroom before leaving, and plan plenty of rest stops along the way. Plan to stop every few hours to let your child stretch and burn off some energy. Time each stop, if needed, and give a two-minute warning to head back to the car. These stops will pay off in the long run with a happier child who also sleeps better.

Expect the last day to be a transition day when you start making the mental transition back to home. Children (and some adults), resist transitions and will show frustration. Even when home, expect some adjustment time for all. Planning to arrive home in time for a relaxed unpacking and a restful night's sleep can do much to smooth re-entry into everyday life.

York Dairy Princess Pageant Is June 20

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Three young women will compete for the title of York County Dairy Princess during the annual pageant planned for Saturday, June 20, at the 4-H Center, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Competing for the crown and the opportunity to serve as the county's dairy industry spokeswoman for a year are Heather Crowl, Jessica Pomraning and Jessica Yohe. This year's dairy court will also include two candidates for dairy maid, and one each for the positions of dairy miss and li'l dairy miss.

Heather Crowl, 16, is the daughter of Joyce and Ellis Crowl, McCall's Ferry Road, Airville. She is a junior at Red Lion Area High School and active in the school's chapter of the FFA. Heather owns 22 head of Holsteins, Milking Shorthorns and Brown Swiss in the family's Joy-El dairy herd and especially enjoys showing cattle as a 4-H dairy club member. She has been one of York County's Dairy Maids for three years.

Jessica Pomraning, 16, is the daughter of Myron and Teresa Pomraning, Slab Road, Delta. Jessica is a junior at Red Lion Area High School where she is in the marching band, year book staff, and cast member of the school musical. She is also a member of the Airville 4-H community club. The Pomraning family milks 60 head.

Jessica Yohe, 16, is the daughter of Kathy and Jerry Yohe, York. She is a junior at Spring Grove Area High School and member of the track and field teams Jessica is employed part time at both Hardee's Restaurant and Stump Acres Dairy Farm, where her father works with the 1,200 acre, 100 milking-head operation.

April Daugherty and Janet Yohe are candidates to represent the county's dairy industry as Dairy Maid participants.

April Daugherty is 14 and the daughter of Terry Anne and Phillip Daugherty, Lemon Street, York. An eighth-grader at New Freedom Christian School, April enjoys softball. She helps with the family's herd of dairy cattle and has assisted with dairy promotion programs with her sister, current York Dairy Princess, Amanda Daugherty.

Janet Yohe, 14, is the daughter of Kathy and Jerry Yohe, York. She is a ninth-grade student at Spring Grove Area High School, active in the school orchestra as well as volleyball, basketball and track events. Janet is currently the vice-president of the York Lutheran Youth Organization.

Ten-year-old Amanda Hoover, candidate for Dairy Miss, is the daughter of Rose and Paul Hoover, East Prospect. The Hoover family raises and milks a herd of dairy goats.

The York Dairy Princess and Promotion Committee is inviting the county's dairy producers and related businesses to help with financial support of the princess program. Contributions may be sent to the York County Dairy Princess Committee, c/o treasurer Gary Thoman, 1886 Dunkard Valley Road, Dallastown, PA 17313.

Publications For Home Care Providers

HERSHEY, Pa. (Dauphin Co.) — With a growing trend toward shorter hospital stays, families are assuming more responsibility for home care. Two new publications are designed to assist families with this often difficult task: "Home Care Guide for Advanced Cancer" and "Home Care Guide for HIV and AIDS."

"These publications are designed to give family members or friends caring for people with serious illnesses the information they need to provide the best and most informed home care possible," said Dr. Peter S. Houts, editor of both books and professor of behavioral science and medicine at Penn State's College of Medicine. "This manual is to be used while working cooperatively with health professionals."

The "Home Care Guide for Advanced Cancer" is for use during the terminal period of care when quality of life, rather than length of life, is the primary purpose for caregiving. Topics include what to do before and after the moment of death, the grieving process, and supporting younger people as they cope with death and funerals.

The "Home Care Guide for HIV and AIDS" covers such topics as appetite problems, emotional and social stress related to HIV/AIDS, and coping with depression.

"Home Care Guide for Advanced Cancer" has been published on the Internet at the American College of Physicians web site, http://www.acponline.org Viewers can read and download the chapters for free.

CRAB MEAT AND MUSHROOM BISQUE

6 tablespoons chicken broth
4 tablespoons finely chopped onion
4 tablespooons finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 scallion, including top, coarsely chopped
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups skim milk
½ teaspoon salt (optional)
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash tabasco or hot sauce
1 cup evaporated skim milk
1½ cups cooked crab meat or 6 ounces frozen crab meat, thawed (can use imitation crab meat)

In a medium nonstick skillet, heat broth with onion, green pepper, scallion, parsley, and mushrooms. Saute until soft, but not brown. Set aside. In a large saucepan, heat remaining 2 tablespoons broth. Remove from heat and stir in flour. Gradually add skim milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Stir in salt (optional), pepper, and tabasco. Add sauteed vegetables and evaporated skim milk. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and add crab meat. Simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes.

Yields 6 servings, 136 calories per serving, 1.2 grams of fat and 10 percent of calories from fat.

My husband, Dan, and I met at Del Val College and are the proud parents of Nathaniel (23 months old) and Gideon (3 months old). Dan works for Moyer and Son in plant nutrients and I stay at home with the boys. Since spring is Dan's busy season, the days are long, but we occupy the time with cooking, reading, playing, and counting the days until the weekend.

This is one of our favorite recipes and it doesn't taste healthy at all! I either serve it alone or with linguine primavera and a salad.

MISSISSIPPI MUD CAKE

1 cup butter
½ cup cocoa
2 cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 eggs, beaten
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup chopped nuts
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 package (2 cups) confectioners' sugar
½ cup milk
⅓ cup cocoa
¼ cup butter

In a heavy saucepan, melt together 1 cup butter and ½ cup cocoa. Blend well. Add to sugar and salt. Fold in eggs, flour, vanilla, and nuts. Beat well. Pour into a greased and floured 9- by 13-inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Remove cake from oven and immediately cover with minature marshmallows. Combine confectioners' sugar, milk, ⅓ cup cocoa, and ¼ cup butter; blend well. Spread over marshmallows and allow cake to cool before cutting.

We live on a dairy farm with our six children, so we have a real opportunity to try new recipes. CHOCOLATE ECLAIRS

½ cup butter
1 cup water
1 cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
Filling:
1 package instant vanilla pudding mix
2½ cups cold milk
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Chocolate icing:
2 squares (1 ounces each) semisweet chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2-3 tablespoons hot water.

In a saucepan, combine butter and water. Bring to a rapid boil, stirring until the butter melts. Reduce heat to low. Add flour and salt. Stir vigorously until mixture leaves the sides of the pan and forms a stiff ball. Remove from heat. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. With a tablespoon, spoon dough into 4-inch long and 1½-inch wide strips on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer. Cool on wire rack. Combine pudding mix and milk according to package directions.

In other bowl, whip cream until soft peaks form. Beat in sugar and vanilla and fold in to pudding. Fill cooled shells. (Set aside the remainder of the pudding for another use). For icing, melt chocolate and butter in a saucepan over medium heat. Stir in sugar. Add hot water until icing is smooth and reaches desired consistency. Cool slightly. Spread over eclairs. Chill until serving.

Hello! I enjoy making this easy but rich dessert, a chocolate lover's delight! We live on a two-acre plot with a huge garden and lawn. We both enjoy gardening, so we plant a lot of veggies. I enjoy working with my flowers and crafting. We someday hope to live on a big farm and milk cows. We have two children, Amanda Sue, 3, and Katie Beth, 18 months. They love to play outside.

HAM AND POTATO CASSEROLE

1½ cup diced cooked ham
3 cups diced cooked potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
1 small diced onion
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper
½ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs

Melt 3 tablespoons butter and add onion. Cook until golden, then blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thickened. Season with salt and pepper. Layer ham and potatoes in 1½ quart baking dish. Pour milk and onion sauce over above and top with cheese and bread crumbs. Dot with remaining butter. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

I've included with this letter a picture of five generations in our family. Pearl Lebo is the oldest, at 87, and Nicole is the youngest, 4 years old. I am Ginny, Pearl's daughter. Jeffrey is my son, Jessica is Jeffrey's daughter, and Nicole is Jessica's daughter. We all live in the same area and we all love Pearl's cooking. Here is one of our recipes.

BREAD PUDDING

4 slices bread
3 tablespoons butter (for toast)
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 eggs
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
2½ cups milk (scalded)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Scald milk and set aside. Butter 1½ quart casserole dish.

Toast bread. Make into 2 sandwiches by buttering toast and sprinkling the cinnamon and brown sugar on 2 pieces of bread. Place remaining pieces of toast on top. Cut off crust. Cut each sandwich into quarters and place on the bottom of the casserole.

Mix eggs, sugar, vanilla, and salt. Add milk. Pour over toast. Place casserole dish in a baking pan with 1 inch of water in pan. Bake 65-70 minutes. The pudding is done when a knife comes out clean. May be served warm or cold.

My name is Crystal Bollinger and I'm from Mifflinburg. I have lived on the same farm most of my life. I look forward to June each year because I find a lot of new recipes to try throughout the year that I also read in the Lancaster Farming.

Our Lancaster Farming paper starts at my dad's house. He reads it Sunday afternoons. After he is finished, he brings it to my house, where my husband is usually the next to look through it. When I have a moment, I sit down and look through it. When we are all through with it, we pass part of it on to the neighbor and recycle the rest for use in my gardens.

Hospital Consent Forms Too Complicated

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — A survey of hospital consent forms was found to be too complicated for many patients to understand, and not enough information was provided to patients about the planned procedure.

"You need at least a high school education to understand most of the forms. For about 25 percent of the forms you would need several years of college to properly comprehend them," says Kenneth Hopper, M.D., professor of radiology at Penn State's College of Medicine and a physician with the Penn State Geisinger Health System. "Additionally with nine percent of the forms, you need education beyond college to fully understand the form.

"When people are sick and under stress, they tend to remember less than they normally would when healthy," he adds. "These forms are to help educate them about the procedure they are going to undergo along with the risks and complications of the procedure. We found many of these forms to be needlessly complex."

Hopper and his colleagues evaluated 616 consent forms from hospitals around the country. The forms were judged on a number of different criteria including: general and specific information on the procedure, benefits and risks, alternatives and possible complications.

Their article, "The Readability Of Currently Used Surgical/Procedure Consent Form In The United States," is published in the May issue of the journal Surgery.

"The forms were not just too complicated, but many simply did not provide enough specific information for patients. The best kind of form did require some work on part of the physician to complete. Those forms listed the condition, treatment alternatives, complications and other for each individual patient," adds Hopper.

While about 93 percent of the forms stated a general description of the procedure, only six percent listed the specific benefits of the procedure. Approximately five percent listed any specific alternatives to the planned procedure. In addition, just over 30 percent listed specific risks and only 21 percent listed risks of not having the procedure at all.

Hopper also says the forms should be seen as an educational tool to complement the verbal consultation from the physician.

"Consent forms for the use of anesthesia and blood transfusion should be separate from general consent forms. These two things have their own set of complications," says the Penn State researcher.

While 87 percent of the forms asked for permission for anesthesia, only 47 percent of those stated that there were additional risks from the anesthesia itself and only 14 percent discussed the risks of anesthesia. Only 28 percent of the forms requested permission to transfuse blood should it become necessary.

Hopper says that all hospitals should routinely reevaluate their consent forms that are used. He believes the use of lay people to evaluate these forms for understanding and comprehension could be helpful for many facilities. It would take only a small amount of time and very little cost to make significant changes with consent forms. Patients and families would be better served with specific forms tailored to discuss their individual procedures, he notes.

The Herrs live on the farm that has been in Fred's family since the 1700s. The 80 acres has been divided, with the Herrs keeping 40 of them for Sassafras Farms. "Give me enough time, and I'll have nothing left to mow," Fred joked at the many requests his wife makes for additional flower beds complete with curves and indentations.

More Than 140 Herbs Grow At Sassafras Farms

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — Herb usage seems to be sweeping the country. What is folklore and what is fact concerning the benefits of herb usage?

Ask Carol Herr. She grows and sells 140 different kinds of herbs on the family's Sassafras Farms in Willow Street.

Herbs, according to Carol, is any plant with a fragrance, a flavor that can be used as medicine, as a pesticide or as a color or textile.

She offers expert advice in herb usage. For five years, she has taught adult educational classes and lectured on herb gardening, culinary usage, and aroma therapy for baths, potpourri, and decorating with herbs. She lectures on herbal folklore and writes a column for Penn State.

While ginseng, St. John's wort, and other herbs are making headlines as cure alls for many ailments, Carol frowns on growing herbs for medicinal purposes. She cautions that growers have little control over the strength of herbs, which varies greatly from the plant itself, how and when it is harvested, and on the soil and weather conditions.

In addition, some medicinal mixtures are extracted from roots, some from plant leaves, and some from stems. It is often difficult to know which part or how much to extract.

Herbs are often impractical to grow for medicinal purposes. In the case of ginseng, which is harvested from the roots, it takes five to seven years before it can be harvested, and then only a small amount can be extracted.

Carol and her husband Fred traveled all over the country looking for unusual herbs to offer to customers at Sassafras Farms.

"For years, our vacations always included stops to pick up exotic herbs," Carol said.

She has an unusual herb called horsetail, which is a long winding herb in which a piece is broken off and used for sandpaper and to scour pans.

"Herbs are so forgiving. Not many pests bother them. When planted outdoors, you never need to fertilize or water them—although you can to make them grow better but the oils will weaken. They grow best in full sun and poor soil. People can kill herbs by overwatering them," Carol said.

In addition, just because a plant is touted as being a perennial doesn't necessarily mean it is a perennial in this area, according to Carol.

"Like lemon grass, it can be grown here, but it won't grow back the following year," Carol said.

Parsley is a biennial plant that actually should be planted annually, otherwise it bolts to seed.

The Herrs live on the farm that has been in Fred's family since the 1700s. The 80 acres has been divided and the Herrs are keeping 40 acres.

"We didn't have the money to invest in big equipment, but we wanted to do something with the land," Carol said of the perennials, annuals, and herbs raised and sold at the farm.

After Fred sold his business and purchased the farm, the couple sat down and discussed, "what are we going to do with the rest of our lives?"

"I always wanted a greenhouse," Carol said. Fred asked if she could make it pay for itself. Carol thought she could.

After hours of research, the couple built a 20x100-feet greenhouse within 10 days. It's a hoop house with a double layer plastic that has an air inflator system between the layers.

Carol offers expert advice in herb usage. For five years, she has taught adult educational classes and lectured on herb gardening, culinary usage, herbal folklore, and aroma therapy for baths, potpourri, and decorating with herbs. She also writes a herb column for Penn State.

Her love for gardening was instilled from walking in front of her grandfather while harrowing.

"He must have had the patience of Job," Carol said of now realizing the inconvenience of having a child help do chores.

Her cooking interest was sparked from her aunt.

"No offense to my mother, but I grew up in the 1960s when TV dinners were in vogue," Carol said. Her lack of cooking instruction as a child hasn't been a drawback as an adult. Over the years, she has won several blue ribbons for her pies at the West Lampeter Fair.

Carol has been a master gardener since 1992. She furthered her knowledge by devouring books and taking additional courses through vo-tech and Penn State.

"Between the two of us, there isn't much we don't tackle," Carol said.

Fred raises homing pigeons, quail, partridges, chickens, bantams, and brittany hunting dogs.

Fred said that he has been raising pigeons from the time he was 12 years old and sells them privately. He also is a amateur taxidermist. He rebuilts farm equipment.

The large stone forebay barn has three date stones, with the oldest dated in 1791. The barn makes a nice area for the marketing of the herbs and perennials. Part of the barn is used for herbal arrangements and to hang plants from the rafters for drying.

Some of the gift items include bath bags, used for aroma therapy. Herbs are placed in a muslim bag to dangle from the shower head. The aroma that comes out can have a refreshing, softening, or stimulating effect, depending on the herb selected.

The large double house was built in 1881 by Fred's great grandparents. The Herr's daughter and family live in the one part.

"He knows the good bugs from the bad ones, and weeds from plants," his grandmother said.

For those who have trouble differentiating between weeds and plants, Carol's advice is to let it grow and see what comes up.

"A lot of people think goldenrod is a weed, but others like it as a plant in the flower bed. Grandpa, who fought goldenrod for years, would turn over in his grave if he knew I was growing it here," Carol said.

When asked to name her favorite herbs, Carol declined by saying, "That's like having six children and you'll ask to pick the five you want to keep."

The name Sassasfras Farms was derived from the sassafras trees growing on the land.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 6

Berks County Farm Women Group #6 held its April meeting at the home of Beth Glick. Nine members toured Glick's Greenhouse. Hosted By David Glick Prior to the meeting. Cindy Fick and Wendy Vogel were installed as new members

Nine members attended "Everyone's Birthday Party" in the home of Pearl Hoffman for the May meeting. Gifts were exchanged and cake was enjoyed by all.

Berks Society 4

The Berks Society of Farm Women Group #4 met on May 5 at Cherry's Flowers, Boyertown. The program for the evening was conducted by Cheryl Reifsnyder, owner. She demonstrated how to arrange flowers in a container. The group then was instructed in making bows and a corsage. Everyone went away with a beautiful corsage for Mother's Day.

Members traveled to the home of hostess Georgenna Fullerton for the business meeting. The Roll Call of "What was your most memorable Mother's Day?" was answered by the six members present. President Elsie Rothenberger conducted the business meeting.

Many verbal thank you's were received for cookie trays. Virginia Taylor-Sloan reported that she needs the Stanley orders as soon as possible. Lothie Hildenbrant gave the report from the County Board meeting. The County Basket Bingo was a success with a profit of $3,917. This will be used for Berks Heim and 4-H needs.

The county project this year is "Acts of Kindness." Ruth Walters, county president, is checking with Reading Emergency Shelter to see what is needed. Virginia Sloan read a poem "It Couldn't Hurt" by Sandy Egrines, from "Chicken Soup For A Woman."

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster Farm Women Society 18 met May 16 in the home of Mildred Kreider and admired the one-level living quarters recently added. An entertaining program was held by Martha Bowman, who described her "make believe first" plane ride, a skit of an "unassuming woman's concern for the needs of her new acquaintances 'midst her own air sickness experience.

Eighteen members and two visitors were present. President Martha Stoner called the meeting to order and Ruth Rohrer led devotions.

Benefit Sale Offers Items 'To Make A Memory'

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Items to enhance family together times will be auctioned to raise money for Ephrata Mennonite School on Friday, June 19-20.

It's the 14th annual auction for the school, which will offer plenty of traditional benefit sale items in addition to theme items.

A pig roast supper and ice cream sundae bar will kick off the auction on June 19, starting at 4:30 p.m. The auction will begin at 6 p.m. with certificates sold at 7:30 p.m. and Winross trucks at 8 p.m.

Saturday begins with a breakfast buffet served from 6:30 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Auction begins at 9 a.m. and will include certificates from local businesses and restaurants to be sold at 10:30 a.m. and again at 2:30 p.m.

Quilts and wallhangings are to be sold at 1 p.m.

Some of the special items include pedal tractors, play house, art work, air-tire tricycle, limited edition H.O. scale train set with local business cars, and hand-crafted wooden furniture.

Auction items related to the theme will be sold beginning at 2 p.m. Some of these items include games, sports equipment, camping and picnic supplies and accessories, certificates for family entertainment, and so forth.

Food, including barbecued chicken, is available throughout the auction.

The sale will be held at the school located at 598 Stevens Rd., Ephrata. Take Route 272 North from Ephrata to the light at Schoeneck Rd. Turn left onto Schoeneck Road, approximately one half mile to the school on the left, at the corner of Schoeneck and Stevens roads.

For more information, call the school at (717) 738-4266 or Aaron Weaver at (717) 336-6042.

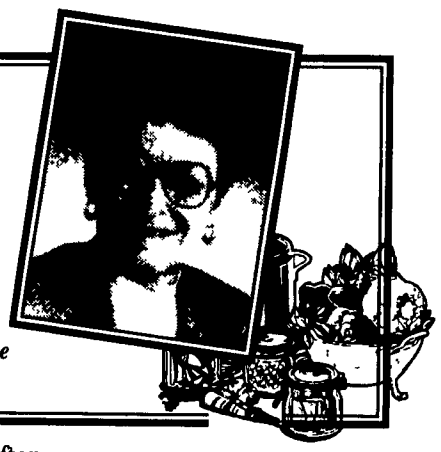
Let's Make A Memory is the theme for the 14th annual Ephrata Mennonite School Benefit Auction to be held June 19-20. Picnic supplies and accessories will be auctioned to encourage families to make family times special and treasure the moments. Here George and Eileen Heller with children Brienna, 10; George, 8; Sabrina, 5; and Paul, 3, are making a memory.

Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



When a fine summer afternoon makes everyone think about going on a picnic, you could find yourself organizing one.

Never fear. Find the picnic basket and the cooler, then thumb through these warm weather food care hints before you head to the store.

When grocery shopping by perishable products last. Be sure to take them right home to the refrigerator, or put them in a portable ice chest or insulated bag you're taking on the picnic. Never leave perishables in a hot car while you run other errands.

For quick use, perishable products can be kept in the refrigerator for a few days. If the store wrap on meat and poultry is clean and not torn, leave it on. Otherwise, rewrap products in clean plastic or aluminum wrap. Make sure the refrigerator is cooling food to 40 degrees F. or lower.

For longer storage, freeze food. Wrap items tightly in heavy freezer foil or bags. Make sure your freezer registers 0 degrees F. or lower. Remember: mayonnaise-based meat, poultry and fish salads don't freeze well—nor do tomatoes and lettuce.

Contrary to common practice, it's not safe to thaw meat and poultry on the kitchen counter. Bacteria can multiply dangerously in the outer layers before inner areas are thawed. Instead, allow plenty of time for larger cuts to thaw, take meat or poultry out of the freezer and put it on a refrigerator shelf a night or two before you need it. Small cuts will usually thaw in the refrigerator over-night

But if the meat is still partially frozen when you're ready to leave, no problem. Just cook it a bit longer at the picnic. And cook everything thoroughly. Hamburger patties, pork chops, and ribs should be cooked until all the pink is gone; poultry until juices run clear. Fresh fish should be cooked till it "flakes" with a fork. Steak? If you like your steak rare or medium-rare, just remember that there is a chance that some food poisoning organisms can survive short cooking times.

Fresh ground beef, veal, lamb, pork, 160°F; beef, veal lamb-roasts, steaks, chops medium rare, 145°F; medium 160°F; Well done, 170°F; fresh pork-roasts, steaks, chops, medium 160°F; well done, 170°F; ham, cook before eating, 160°F; fully cooked, to reheat, 140°F; poultry, ground chicken, turkey, 165°F; whole chicken, turkey, 180°F; breasts, roasts, 170°F; thighs and wings, cook until juices run clear.

If there's no water faucet available, use disposable, wet handiwipes to clean your hands before working with food.

Keep bacteria on raw meat and poultry from spreading. Wash your hands again after working with raw meat or poultry and before handling other food.

And use clean utensils and a fresh serving plate to pick up cooked meat and poultry. To prevent cross-contamination, don't re-use utensils, plates, or bowls.

For a relaxed, worry-free picnic, keep your perishable foods—ham, potato or macaroni salad in an ice packed cooler.

"Give me enough time, and I'll have nothing left to mow," Fred joked at the many requests his wife makes for additional flower beds complete with curves and indentations.

Of the many flower beds, Carol said, "Weeding can be a pain in the neck, but herb gardens are wonderful to work in. The aroma is wonderful and the colors so beautiful."

The advantage of buying herbs where someone knows something about the plant are many.

Carol said that she always insists on finding at least three references in agreement when researching plants.

"When it comes to herbs, you can't trust one authority. You can look at three difference references and find them conflicting," she said.

She can help customers select the right plants to attract hummingbirds to gardens or butterflies. She can help arranging hanging baskets with herbs.

According to Carol, scented geraniums work as well as the highly touted mosquito plant to repel mosquitos and is less expensive. Tansy repels ants.

She knows the botanical names of plants and encourages customers to learn the correct name since common names often vary from area to area.

When customers browse herb gardens, she encourages them to brush against the leaves to smell the aroma. Pinching off leaves and nibbling on them is not a safe idea, especially if gathering them along roadsides where pesticides might have been sprayed or where exhaust fumes contaminate plants.

Folklore has it that costmary or Bible leaf was grown in which the leaf was placed in Bibles, when taken to church. If the service was long, parishners stuck a leaf in their mouth to nibble on to keep them awake.

Herbs can grow in the house if planted in full sun, but they need to go through cold period in winter or they will fizzle out.

When using herbs in cooking, Carol suggests using three times as much fresh as that used when dried. A dried herb is more concentrated because the water has been evaporated from it.

Numerous herb and flower beds are strategically placed in the yard. A kitchen herb garden is right off the kitchen porch. Plans are in process for a dye garden, a German four-square garden, and a biblical herb garden.

ROSE GERANIUM CREAM

½ cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
Several rose geranium leaves
4 ounces cream cheese

Mix cream, sugar, and rose geranium leaves in a heavy pan. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat and allow to cool. Remove leaves and discard. Combine cream mixture and cream cheese. Beat with electric mixer until all lumps are gone. Chill. Serve over fruit.

PINEAPPLE SHRUB

Heat one cup unsweetened pineapple juice and one cup sugar until sugar is dissolved. Add ¼ cup basil vinegar. Pour ¼ cup syrup over ice in a tall glass. Add ¾ cup ginger ale. Stir and serve.

SWEET MARJORAM CHICKEN

4 skinless, boneless chicken breast halves, cut into ¼-inch thick strips
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon coarse black pepper
¼ cup butter
1 onion sliced
1 green pepper, thin sliced
1 red pepper, diced
2 garlic cloves, minced
8-ounce can crushed pineapple with juice
¾ cup ketchup
¼ cup white wine
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
½ teaspoon dried marjoram
4 cups cooked rice

Mix flour and pepper in ziplock bag. Add strips of chicken, a few at a time, and shake to coat. Melt 2 tablespoons of butter in a large skillet. Add chicken strips to pan saute until lightly browned.

Remove chicken from pan and place in an 8x8-inch baking dish. To the pan that the chicken was cooked in, add the remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Saute onion and peppers until translucent. Add garlic and saute a few minutes longer. Do not brown. Spread this vegetable mixture over chicken.

In the same pan, stir together pineapple, ketchup, wine, thyme, and marjoram. Bring to a boil. Pour over chicken. Cover baking dish and bake in 350 degree oven 30 minutes. Serve over hot rice.

Seafood Grilling Made Easy

Grilling fish and seafood is a natural and takes literally minutes to cook. It couldn't be easier!

It's a sure cure for that "same old thing" syndrome, too. All fish and seafood species can be grilled, and this incredible variety provides a world of easy-to-prepare grilled meals. Delicious plain or with just a squeeze of lemon, fish and seafood meld perfectly with your favorite herbs, spices, and enticing but healthful marinades and salsas.

• For the charcoal grill, standard briquettes are readily available and work well. Hardwood lump charcoal, which is almost pure carbon, starts quickly and burns very cleanly. Hardwood logs are fun, but unpredictable. Group the briquettes into a pyramid and ignite. When the flame dies down and coals are covered with gray ash, spread the coals in a single layer with a surface area slightly larger than the food being grilled.

Fish cooks best over a medium-hot fire. Allow 40 minutes after lighting for the flame to die down and glowing coals to develop a light layer of ash. Hint—when you can hold your hand 5 inches above the cooking surface for 3-4 seconds, the fire is ready.

• For the gas or electric grill, turn the heat source on about 10-15 minutes before you want to start grilling so the grill grid has a chance to heat up. Since gas and electric grills do not get as hot as wood or charcoal fires, it is safe to use the highest heat setting when grilling fish or seafood.

• Fish fillets grill 6-12 minutes per inch of thickness. When cooking fillets, tuck the thin ends under to ensure even cooking. Thicker fillets should be turned once, while thinner ones will cook through without needing to be turned. Some cooks like to place fillets on aluminum foil that has been punctured to allow air flow, while others prefer using hinged wire baskets or fine-mesh wire grills oiled slightly before use.

• Before grilling a whole fish, make 3 deep cuts with a knife diagonally along each side to ensure even cooking. You can flip smaller whole fish with a large spatula, but any fish over 2 pounds should be cooked in a hinged wire mesh basket, oiled slightly before use. Follow the rule of 6-12 minutes per inch thickness, checking the interior for doneness periodically after the initial cooking time has elapsed.

• Clams, oysters, and mussels provide their own timers, popping open when they're done. Wash them, put them on the grill, cover and check after 5 minutes. When the shells pop open (usually between 5-8 minutes), they're ready to eat. If any fail to open, discard them.

The mild flavors of fish and seafood are perfect for marinades, relishes, salsas, and spices. Here are some basic ideas, but feel free to explore your own. There really is no "right" or "wrong" — only what tastes delicious to you.

Marinate fish up to six hours, covered, in the refrigerator, turning every hour or so. The longer fish marinates, the more flavor it will absorb. Drain fish before grilling; discard leftover marinade.

For a fresh, summery taste, simply marinate fillets of fish with a higher fat content such as mackerel, bluefish, or kingfish, in lime juice (3 tablespoons juice per pound of fish) for 1 hour, sprinkle with pepper to taste, and grill.

From delicate and mild to hot and wild, there is no limit to the relishes and salsas for fish and seafood. Take a tip from the topics and combine fish and shellfish with fruit; or use fresh tomatoes and herbs from the garden.

Cooking For A Crowd

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Are you a member of a church group, fire company, or public service organization that occasionally serves meals to a crowd?

Do you volunteer to prepare or serve food at family reunions, banquets, festivals, pancake breakfasts, pig roasts, soup kitchens, or day cares?

If the answer is yes, you should attend the Penn State Cooperative Extension workshop Serving Safe Food For A Crowd. This three-hour workshop is being offered twice this summer — on Tuesday, July 14, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and again on Tuesday, July 21 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Dauphin County Ag & Natural Resources Center, located two miles north of Dauphin on Route 225 at 1451 Peters Mountain Road.

The workshop will be a refresher on the basics of safe food handling. It is designed especially for volunteers who prepare, serve or otherwise handle food at any event. it could make the difference between a great fund-raiser or social activity, and a food poisoning outbreak that could damage your group's reputation and finances. The registration fee is $5 which includes a manual, handouts and refreshments. Registration deadline is July 7.

For more information or a registration form contact Penn State Cooperative Extension in Dauphin County at (717) 921-8803, or 1-800-DAU-0058 and ask the operator for Penn State Extension.

FFA
BUILDING THE FUTURE

Secretary of Agriculture Keynote Speaker at West Snyder FFA

More than 200 members and guests attended the annual West Snyder FFA Chapter Awards Banquet on Thursday, May 7.

Hayes congratulated members of the West Snyder FFA Chapter on their honors and quality reputation, which is known throughout the commonwealth. He encouraged those in attendance to live by the FFA motto "Learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, and living to serve."

He used several examples where the FFA motto can be applied to everyday life, regardless of the occupation in which one is employed. Following his remarks, secretary Hayes was awarded the FFA Honorary Chapter Degree. Heidi Good and Jessica Walter, members of the Honorary Degree Team made the presentation.

Throughout the evening, there were many awards received by the FFA members. Dr. William Sheaffer, superintendent of Midd-West School District, presented the Star Greenhand Awards to Jodi Fetterolf, Kate Heeter, and Carolyn Howard, and the Star Chapter Award to Heidi Good. Ken Boyer, West Snyder High School principal, recognized Luke Zerby as the DeKalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award winner and Dustin Herman as recipient of the Agriculture Award.

The Honorary Degree team presented the Honorary Degree to Mr. and Mrs Harrison Herman and Mr. and Mrs Barry Kramer for being parents of the 1998 West Snyder FFA Keystone Degree winners and Steve Bernardi, wildlife conservation officer with the Pennsylvania Game Commission. Mr. and Mrs. Nevin Zerby received a special plaque for having the seventh child to earn the Keystone Degree.

Scholarship awards were presented by Harold Kratzer, assistant superintendent to Jodi Fetterolf, Michele Fetterolf, Kate Heeter, Jason Wray, Carolyn Howard, Shane Eia, Jenna Straub, Joe Kramer, Rose Carper, and Dustin Herman. Jodi, Michele, Kate and Jason received special recognition for making the distinguished honor roll for the entire school year.

Chapter proficiency awards were presented to Ross Mitchell, Achievement in Volunteerism; Jennifer Balatincz and Jennifer Kuhns, agricultural communications; Doug Boop, agricultural mechanics; Rose Carper, agricultural sales and service; Dustin Herman, aquaculture; Jenna Straub, beef production; Luke Zerby, forage production; Jennifer McWilliams, dairy production; Brandon Herman, diversified livestock; environmental science, Joe Kramer and Sandy Opdyke; equine science, Jessica Catherman; extemporaneous public speaking, Luke Zerby; farm safety, Carolyn Howard; fruit and vegetable production, Jessica Walter; Heidi Good, forestry management; Shane Eia, home and community development; Greg Brouse, placement in agricultural production; Nicole Tyson, poultry production; Maria Trego, prepared public speaking; James Wright, small animal care; Kate Heeter, soil and water conservation; Michele Fetterolf, swine production; and Joe Kramer, turf grass management.

Nevin Zerby of Zerby Livestock Farms presented Dustin Herman with the Zerby Livestock Award. Ken Boyer, principal at West Snyder High School, presented the FFA officer pins to the retiring officers. Annette Gray, North Central Regional FFA coordinator, recognized Rose Carper as the 1997-98 Snyder County Star Farmer.

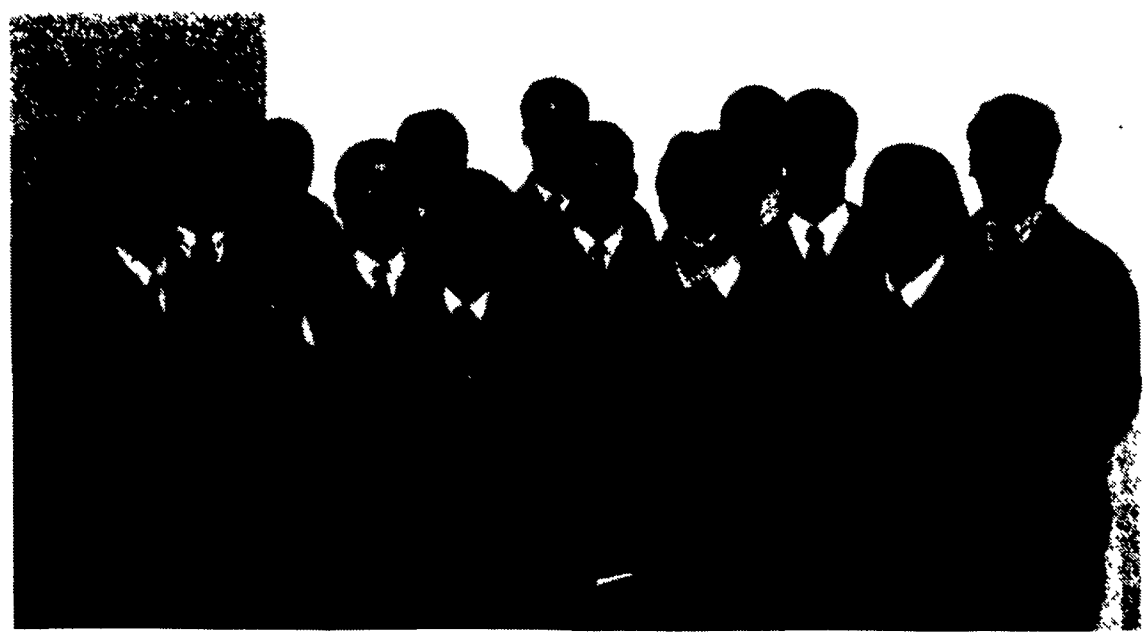
BUILDING THE FUTURE



LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — On May 7 Penn Manor's newly elected FFA officers went to the Leadership Conference at Lancaster Mennonite High School.

The conference was held for all the FFA chapters across Lancaster County. The purpose of this conference was to highlight each office and give ideas to help the officers to do a better job in their specific office.

There were also activities to help the officers work together as a team and learn to help each other out. For more information contact the FFA advisers, (717) 872-9520 ext. 1590.

New officers are Jeremy Railing, president; Beth Frey, vice president; Tyler Swanson, executive vice president; Adam Nissley, treasurer; Bob Karr, treasurer; Dan Hess, adviser; Audrey Nissly, secretary; Jackie Bleacher, corresponding secretary; Amanda Harnish, reporter; Jason Martin, reporter; Dan McMicheal, chaplain; Garret Neff, parliamentarian; Allan Herr, sentinel; and Steve Apple, historian.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Helen Heavner, HC60 Box 4, Upper Tract, W.V. 26866, is looking for spin curlers for home perms. She needs all plastic with no rubber bands. The rubber band breaks her hair. She found some for body perms, but she wants smaller ones. She is willing to buy new or used ones.

QUESTION — Ruth Erb, Beavertown, wants to know how to use Borax or Sulphur candles to kill termites or carpenter ants. Or any natural way not using chemical pesticides since she is allergic to them. A previous answer used choloradane, which is illegal to use.

QUESTION — Mildred Anderson, Dover, wants to know what makes lotion made from goat's milk separate from the other ingredients. She used beeswax, coconut oil, sweet almond oil, glycerine, and goat's milk. She had combined the beeswax and oils in a pan of water until melted, added warm milk and glycerine and beat with a mixer until cool. After it sat for awhile, the milk separated from the other ingredients. She would appreciate a recipe that works or ideas on how to make the recipe she has work.

QUESTION — A reader needs to relocate gladiolus bulbs that have already sprouted about 6 inches tall. Should she let the bulbs dry before replanting or plant them right away?

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, has a Plett Pan, which is a cast iron with seven shallow indentations and no lid. A recipe is attached that appears to be a thin pancake recipe, but no other instructions. Do any readers have more information about Plett?

ANSWER — For Anna Mae Dukert who wanted to know where to purchase seeds for long neck dipper gourds, write to The American Gourd Society Inc., P.O. Box 274, Mt. Gilead, Ohio 43338-0274. They have seeds for many types of gourds and a 1998 seed list for members to advertise dried gourds and seeds for sale. Thanks to Doris Hellerick, Dublin, for sending this information.

ANSWER — Last week two people answered the request on how to get Christmas cactus to bloom. This week, we received two more unique methods. Thanks to Mary Ann Reich who writes that her mother in law told her to put it outside during the summer months and in the fall it would bloom beautifully. She tried this and so did her sister. It works everytime, she writes.

Thanks to Bonnie Fogelman, Milton, who said that hers didn't bloom until a friend told her to use Peters household plant food. She began using it a short time and it bloomed and has been blooming ever since. She also tried Miracle Grow, which works. Her plants hardly stop blooming. She waters once a week about ¾ to 1 cup of water with the mixture. Now they are blooming on her patio. In the winter, she sets them in her bow window where the sun rises in the morning.

ANSWER — Bill Kelley, Purcellville, wanted to know where to have a meat grinder recoated or refinished. Thanks to Florence Nolt, East Greenville, who writes that galvanizing is done by John Hurd, Hazelton. Call (610) 926-3645.

ANSWER — Helen Heavner, Upper Tract, W.V., wanted the address for Flavor Mill Artificial Butter Flavor. Thanks to David Anspach, Giorgio Foods, Temple, who writes that Flavor Mill is a brand name of Chefmaster Co., 41 Columbia, Laguna Hills, CA 92656-1460. Chefmaster's Parent Company is Byrnes & Kiefer Co., 131 Kline Ave., Callery, PA 16024.

ANSWER — Carl Detwiler, Zionsville, wanted to know where to get wire rope flemish spiced and swaged. Thanks to David Anspach, Giorgio Foods, for suggesting he contact a nearby canning factory. Many of them use plastic coated wire rope to convey their cans. The maintenance manager of the factory should be able to tell him who does it for them.

ANSWER — A reader wants to find a shower curtain with cows on it. Thanks to Nancy Harvatine, Thompson, who writes that it is available from Woody Jackson, Holy Cow, Inc., P.O. Box 906L, Middlebury, UT 05753. Phone (802) 388-6737, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Mr. Jackson is discontinuing his catalog at the end of the year so call soon. Nancy has the shower curtain, which is excellent quality and attractive.

ANSWER — Pam Eyer, Carlisle, wanted to know where to find plans to make a wooden playhouse like those sold at places that sell wooden storage sheds. Thanks to Ruth Archer, Englishtown, N.J., for writing that a woodcrafters' catalog called Cherry Tree has plans for a take-apart playhouse and a book of instructions for a dozen other playhouses. The address is Cherry Tree Toys, Inc., P.O. Box 369, Belmont, OH 43718-4363. Phone 1-800-848-4363.

PUBLIC AUCTION

THURS., JUNE 18, 1998 - 12 Noon
Airville, York County, PA
Valuable 80+ acre Dairy Farm

At 12 noon Thursday, we will offer at Public Auction the Walter Kilgore Dairy Farm. This fine farm is only minutes from the Norman Wood Bridge, making as easy commute to Lancaster County.

The home consists of a 2 story Brick structure built in the early 1800's, 4 bedrooms & 1 bath, living room, dining room, and covered porch. The barn has 31 headlock stalls, 2" stainless steel pipeline to a 1000 gal. Sunset tank, Jamesway gutter cleaner. 3 silos all with unloaders, wagon sheds, 70' loafing shed, shop w/220 electric Stocked pond too!

The fields will be planted for the 1998 harvest and buyer will get all the growing crops at the time of settlement. Be ready to fill silo this fall with growing corn.

Mr. Kilgore is ready for retirement and let a younger generation take over. Here is an excellent opportunity to purchase a good farm in a top location. We will be more than glad to show you this farm Be prepared to buy!

TERMS: 10% down payment day of auction, balance at settlement.

We deliver peace of mind with every GENESIS™ tractor

NEW HOLLAND

Buying or leasing a GENESIS™ tractor from New Holland is virtually risk-free.

- GUARANTEED trade-in value with no-risk leases
- The best warranty – 3 years, 3,000 hours, no deductible
- The best performance – the best lugging ability, the best fuel economy, the smoothest powershift and more!
- The best dealer service and support

Stop in for a test drive. We deliver peace of mind with every GENESIS™ tractor.

Excellent in the field - and on the farm

New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range. Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time.
The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching. An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available

NEW HOLLAND

The left-hand, column-mounted shuttle control on New Holland 40 to 62 PTO hp tractors with 8x8 and 16x8 transmissions provides convenient shifting of the best, fully-synchronized shuttle in this horsepower class Shuttling is controlled with the left hand, leaving your right hand free to operate the loader.

New Holland 35 Series tractors really "work big" in the field or on the job

- Engines have good lugging ability with 1000 useful rpm's between maximum torque and maximum power
- 14.5 gpm hydraulic flow assures fast implement response
- 3-point lift system, activated by touch control, is best-in class
- Electro-hydraulic differential lock provides maximum traction when needed.

Added improvements provide the versatility to incorporate chemicals, manage residue and control weeds
• Precision depth control across the entire working width for uniform seedbed preparation
• Better penetration with less weight cuts your fuel costs
• Shallow concavity blades reduce compaction
• Open frame design allows residue to pass through machine smoothly and quickly
• 19 to 33-foot versions available in standard flex wing or cushion gang versions

You can count on us for quality tillage equipment, genuine Case IH parts, professional service support and flexible financing.

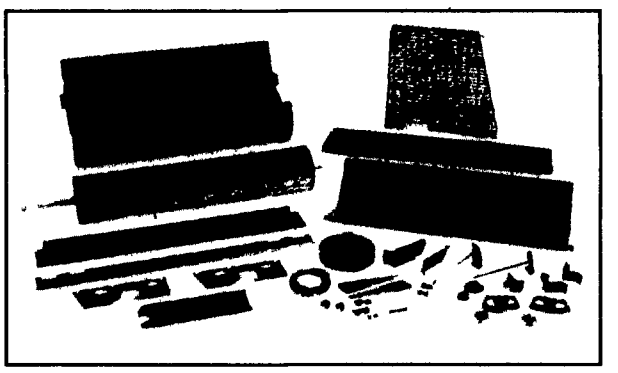
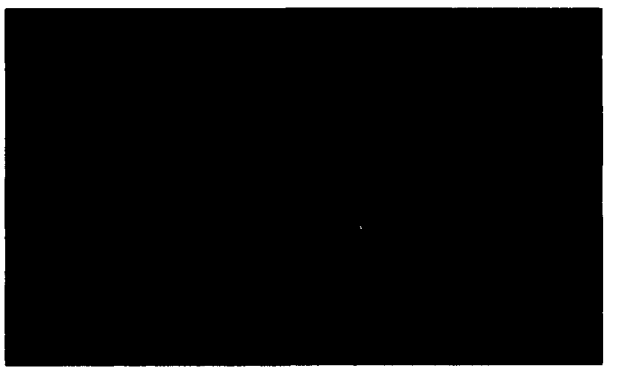
CROSS-FLOW™ FAN DELIVERS QUIET POWER, CLEANER GRAIN



High-capacity Cross-Flow™ fan makes sieve adjustments easy and less sensitive to crop conditions.

- Patented chevron fan pattern for quiet, even air flow
- Cleaner grain samples
- Highly efficient. Less power required

IMPROVE PERFORMANCE WITH OIL BATH UNLOADING AUGER KIT



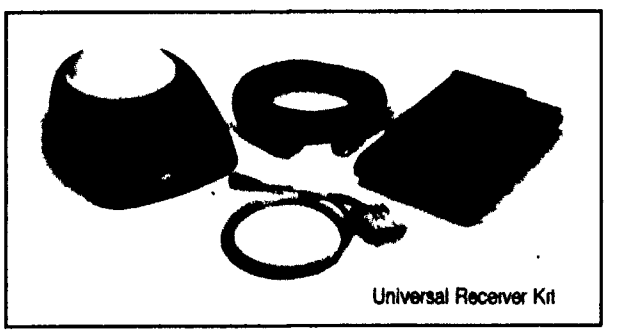
IMPROVE PERFORMANCE OF AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

This upgrade should be installed for high stress operations, such as, unloading on-the-go, and doing cob chop

Convert your open-running gears to a fully enclosed high performance oil bath gearbox.

- Runs quieter and longer
- Extremely effective in wet or heavy crop conditions
- Reduced installations time for less downtime

FIELD-PROVEN AFS™ SOFTWARE KITS GIVE YOU THE EDGE



Universal Receiver Kit

Case IH-designed and tested Advanced Farming System (AFS™) software kits bring you the key field data you need to improve your harvest productivity

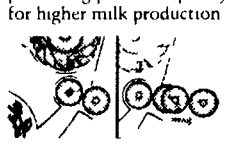
Maximum Power For Your Success

Get a beast of a deal on a new CLASS Jaguar
See your CLASS dealer for details.

The corn cracker can be changed in 5 minutes to switch from corn to hay The Jaguar s efficient processing produces quality silage for higher milk production



The efficient cutting system has a full width metal detector, 30" wide chevron cutting drum and full width 8-blade accelerator

The unique top-to-back cooling system with rotary air screen assures excellent, clean cooling

At Last...

- 24 ft one-side boom that allows for 50ft coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft to 7 1/2 ft for sweet corn
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop
- 280 PSI, 28 GPM 3 diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

Quality Bales Right From The Start

Case IH 8545 Center-Line Rectangular Baler

- Mechanical or hydraulic density control available
- Sturdy knotter provides reliable tie, bale after bale
- Choice of conventional twine or wire-tie models
- Along with twine-tie, add a hydraulic bale thrower with electric controls

A heavy-duty baler with a big appetite

- Pre-packer provides uniform density and consistency throughout bale
- Low-profile pick-up reduces leaf loss
- Hay moves in a straight line from pick-up to discharge for gentler handling
- Consistent bale size and weight for easy transporting

High-quality balers and a whole lot more! We offer genuine, value-priced Case IH parts, reliable service support, and flexible financing to meet your business needs.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations We save 1½ 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins – Horicon Wisconsin

We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1½ hours twice a day Now each feeding takes approximately ½ hour

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms – Navan Ontario Canada

We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 miling We owned a 4 auger mixer before Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers – Newburg Pennsylvania

We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two-thirds

Quality haymaking

The New Holland Model 1465 Haybine® mower-conditioner features a new header with a five-bat reel for more uniform crop flow. You get a cleaner cut and less scalping in a proven design. And the "1465" can be ordered with a mechanical tongue shift or hydraulic tongue shift. Other great features include:

- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- Chevron-design rolls for thorough, gentle conditioning and fast drydown
- 100% bolted knife assemblies

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Roundup Ready™ SOYBEANS
FOR OVER THE TOP APPLICATION

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- 80% of 1997 growers used Roundup alone
- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!

Roundup ULTRA Herbicide

96% of '97 growers will increase '98 Roundup Ready acres

It's all you need. Period.

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready™ Soybeans

❶ Start clean!
- ❖ ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans
- ❖ in double crop burndown if needed

❷ Plant in as narrow a row as possible
- ❖ the faster the crop canopy the better!

❸ Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical
- ❖ weeds are usually 4-8" tall & it is 3-5 weeks after planting
- ❖ if weeds are greater than 8", use 1.5qts.
- ❖ use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds
- ❖ Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds

World Leaders Agree On Value Of Domestic Farm Programs

MANILA, PHILIPINES — More than 300 farm leaders from around the world, agreed that included within the upcoming World Trade Organization (WTO) negotiations should be provisions that enable governments to continue domestic farm programs.

The discussions were held here May 27-June 4 at the International Federation of Agricultural Producers' (IFAP) semi-annual World Farmers Congress.

"Farmers throughout the world realize that trade is important but that farm income is more important," said conference participant National Farmers Union (NFU) President Leland Swenson. "Trade is just one component of a healthy agricultural economy. As farm leaders, we agree to work to ensure that farmers worldwide receive a fair price for their products. It is each government's responsibility to establish and maintain a safety net in agricultural policies to provide a stable food supply, a fair price for producers and a healthy agricultural economy."

Swenson noted that NFU is pushing U.S. lawmakers to improve the safety net for family producers by removing the cap on commodity loan rates and extending the loan period so farmers are better able to market their crops.

"The Asian financial crisis has taught us all that sound farm policies must be maintained to ensure farmers receive a fair price for their products regardless of international market conditions beyond their control," said Swenson. The final IFAP policy paper adopted during the conference stated that trade rules should enable governments to work to secure a sufficient income level for farmers worldwide.

According to Swenson, one of IFAP's goals has been to finalize a common policy on trade-related issues to present during the next round of WTO negotiations in 1999. The diverse group of farm organizations agreed that WTO negotiators must accept that domestic measures are necessary to secure farm income. IFAP and NFU plan to participate in the next WTO negotiations to represent farmers' views on agricultural trade issues.

Established more than 50 years ago, IFAP is comprised of members from 85 farm organizations, representing 500 million farmers in more than 60 countries. NFU, representing 300,000 U.S. family farmers and ranchers, is a founding member of IFAP.

Maryland State Fair

The 117th Maryland State Fair is a sure bet for summer food, fun, and celebration. This 10-day festival complete with home arts exhibits, livestock and horse shows, midway rides and games, live entertainment and thoroughbred horse racing, will open Saturday, Aug. 29 and run through Monday, Sept. 7, from 10 a.m. - 10 p.m. at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County.

Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 9 a.m. Exhibit halls open at 10 a.m. and the Midway opens at 10 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays. Admission is only $4 for adults and children under 12 are admitted free. Rides are individually priced. Admission to the race track is included in the admission price of the fair. No other event provides so much food, fun and family entertainment for so little.

The Maryland State Fair is an educational resource complete with daily exhibits and presentations which are sure to captivate visitors of all ages. Fairgoers are invited to explore the Farm & Garden, 4-H and Home Arts Buildings, the Cow Palace, Horse Show Ring, and other agricultural buildings and displays as well as the Exhibition Hall. For wildlife lovers, the State Fair Park will not only provide picnickers plenty of tables and shade, but a chance to see owls, snakes, turtles and other wildlife at the expanded "Scales and Tales" exhibit provided by the Department of Natural Resources.

The State Fair is the culmination of over a year's worth of hard work for 4-H members who will compete in shows and demonstrations throughout the 10 days of the fair. The 4-H Livestock Show will begin Saturday, Aug. 29 and run through Wednesday, Sept. 2. The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale will begin Wednesday, Sept. 2 at 7 p.m. The Open Class Livestock Show will open Thursday, Sept. 3 and run through Labor Day.

The Midway will provide thrills and chills for the entire family with more than 30 rides. "Kiddie Land" will offer tame but exciting rides and the Midway promises to thrill even the bravest fairgoers. "Entertainment Row" on the south side of the Exhibition Hall will be the site for a variety of local bands, children's entertainment, and contests.

A wide selection of food will satisfy the spirit as well as the palate. Fairgoers will have the opportunity to enjoy the delightful taste of corn dogs and cotton candy on the Midway, or the traditional flavor of crab cakes, mouth-watering rib-eye steak sandwiches, corn-on-the-cob, fruit, ice cream and many other products fresh from Maryland farms at the Maryland Foods Pavilion.

The Race Track will offer daily throughbred horse racing with additional races simulcast from Saratoga, Monmouth Park, Delaware, and other tracks. Post time is 1 p.m.

Tick Spread Coincides With Increased Lyme Disease In Pa.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Blacklegged ticks are on the move in Pennsylvania. And their spread has coincided with an increase in reported cases of Lyme disease in the past few years, said an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"We're seeing blacklegged ticks from areas where previously none had been reported," said Steven Jacobs, extension entomologist who oversees the entomology department's Insect Identification Laboratory.

"Five years ago, these ticks were mostly limited to the southeast corner of the state, the north-central region around the Allegheny National Forest, and the Presque Isle peninsula in Erie," Jacobs said. "Now they seem to be established in more areas of central, western and southeastern Pennsylvania, including Centre, Blair, Cambria, Butler, Erie, and York counties."

Blacklegged ticks for several years were known as deer ticks in the northern United States, until scientific studies confirmed that deer ticks were in fact smaller versions of the blacklegged ticks common in the South, and not a separate species.

The apparent increase in the tick's range in Pennsylvania is a concern because of the role it plays in spreading Lyme disease, a neurological disorder that can cause a variety of symptoms, including a bull's-eye-like rash, fever, stiff neck, muscle aches, and headaches. Left untreated, victims can suffer facial palsy, arthritis, and even paralysis. The disease normally is treated with antibiotics, but if not caught early, recovery can be slow and difficult.

Lyme disease accounts for more than 90 percent of vector-borne disease cases in the United States, according to Jacobs. "In 1993, the incidence of Lyme disease in Pennsylvania was eight new cases per 100,000 people," he said. "In 1996, the latest year for which complete statistics are available, the incidence of the disease was more than 20 cases per 100,000 people, a 250 percent increase. In fact, Pennsylvania now ranks third in the nation in the number of new cases per year.

"It's unclear whether there's a direct relationship between the tick's spread and the increase in disease," Jacobs said. "The increase could be partially due to increased public awareness and better diagnosis. But I suspect that because the ticks are found in more places, more people are coming into contact with them and contracting the disease."

To survive and thrive, blacklegged ticks need appropriate hosts. The adult ticks often are found on white-tailed deer, and nymphal stages will attach to mice, chipmunks, birds, and other small animals. While awaiting a suitable host, the ticks usually are found on leaf litter or low branches in brushy, wooded areas. Regions such as southeastern Pennsylvania — with deer populations that are concentrated but have limited mobility — provide prime tick habitat.

"Blacklegged ticks can be found on many bird species," Jacobs said. "Because of their migratory paths, birds may transport ticks to new areas along or east of the state's mountain ranges. Ticks also can hitch rides with travelers and their pets, particularly on 'working' dogs that are taken into the field for hunting or show field trials."

With blacklegged ticks spreading into many areas of the state, Jacobs urges continued caution. "It's more important than ever that people take steps to avoid coming into contact with ticks, especially if they plan to be in high-risk areas," he said. "Also, know the signs of Lyme disease, and see your doctor if symptoms develop."

Tips For Reducing Risk Of Tick-Borne Disease

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Steven Jacobs, extension entomologist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, offers these tips for avoiding tick-borne diseases, such as Lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever:

- Avoid high-risk (brushy, wooded) areas and trails, especially in April, May, June, and July.
- If you are planning to be in a high-risk area, wear light-colored clothing so you can more easily detect dark-colored ticks.
- Check your clothing for ticks every few minutes.
- Wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants tucked into socks.
- Use a tick repellent containing "DEET" on your skin and clothes, unless you have a known allergy to this compound.
- Inspect your clothes and body carefully after returning from high-risk areas.
- Inspect pets if they have been in a high-risk area. On dogs and cats, ticks often are found around the face and ears. Many shampoos, sprays, and dusts are available to eliminate ticks on pets. Tick collars are less effective, but are helpful as a repellent.
- If you find a tick on a person or animal, remove it by carefully grasping it at the mouthparts with fine point tweezers and firmly pulling it off.
- To learn more, contact your county office of Penn State Cooperative Extension, your physician or your local health department.

ENB To Open Akron Office

AKRON (Lancaster Co.) — The Ephrata National Bank recently broke ground for the construction of a new full-service office along Rt. 272 adjacent to The Akron Restaurant.

The area's strong agricultural base played an important role in the bank's choice of a location for its Akron office. The Ephrata National Bank, serving farmers since 1881, is making a concentrated effort to expand its agricultural customer base. The new branch's proximity to the rich farmland in West Earl, Warwick, Manheim, and Upper Leacock townships played an important part in the agricultural sector growth strategy.

Farm families will be able to take advantage of Ephrata National's no-fee checking accounts, trust services, and other reasonably priced banking products. The bank offers agricultural loans (including real estate loans with terms up to 20 years, and fixed rates up to 10 years with no prepayment penalties), as well as term loans and operating loans.

Most agricultural loans will be processed and serviced by Robert N. Zook, the bank's vice president of agricultural lending, who is familiar with many of the farmers in the area of the new Akron office.

The new Akron office is expected to be open for business in early 1999.

Retrofit Supplies More Digestible Forage

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — LSC Equipment of Lancaser has announced the introduction of its patented Kernel Processor Retrofit Kit for John Deere models 3950 and 3970 forage harvesters.

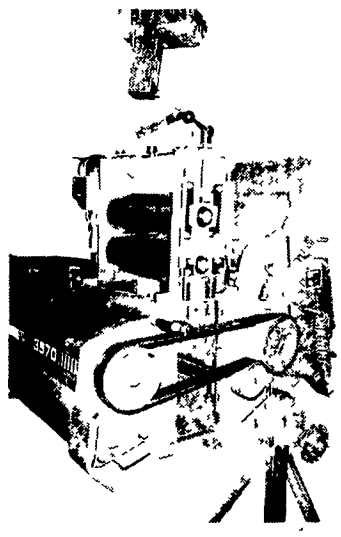
Available through local John Deere dealers, the unit is installed into a harvester, resulting in full capability to crimp high moisture corn, and crack dry corn, without loss of speed, power, or yield.

Able to supply forage that is more digestible, the retrofit will quickly pay for itself by reducing feed waste and increasing milk production.

The heart of the retrofit, an inset with two 9-inch x 24-inch machine grooved rolls turning at different speeds, moves processed silage quickly through to the auger assembly of the harvester. Its power center, a system of sprockets, pulleys, and belts, runs smoothly and quietly and requires no additional horsepower.

The insert is easily removed for processing haylage by taking out four bolts on each side, along with the drive belts and replaced with a haylage chute which is included with the kit. Conversion for making haylage can take as little as 30 minutes.

Retrofits are completed by authorized shops in your area and typically cost less than one tenth the cost of self-propelled equipment designed to process silage in the field. For more information, contact your local John Deere farm equipment dealer or write to LSC Equipment, 2008 Horseshoe Road, Lancaster, PA 17601.



LSC Equipment of Lancaster, has announced the introduction of its patented Kernel Processor Retrofit Kit for John Deere models 3950 and 3970 forage harvesters.

Quadtrac Provides Extra Income For Farm

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — It's a fact that farming is getting more and more competitive. As a result, farmers are searching for ways to get greater productivity out of not only their land, but their equipment as well.

One farming operation in Lancaster County discovered a new way to make a piece of agricultural equipment more profitable without even using it on the farm.

In the summer of 1997, Phil and Roger Garber of Garber Farms, Inc. found themselves with an opportunity to get their hands on a Case IH Quadtrac prototype.

According to Phil Garber, however, there was some concern about whether the operation would get enough use out of the Quadtrac to justify the cost.

Some creative thinking was needed. And when Garber joined forces with Hoober, Inc., the local Case IH dealer, and Ken Kreider, president of BR Kreider & Son, Inc., an area excavation firm, a solution appeared.

With the help of Hoober, Inc., BR Kreider & Son reached an agreement with Garber Farms to lease the Quadtrac as needed.

"It was a great way for me to get the size tractor I wanted — a new one, instead of something less desirable," said Garber.

Kreider, meanwhile, was a bit wary of how the Quadtrac would perform, so the agreement was a good solution for his company as well.

"I was skeptical about how well a farm tractor would hold up to the constant load and abuse that our equipment puts up with everyday," said Kreider. "Not to mention the amount of hours in a day that we run a piece of equipment.

In the summer of 1997, Phil and Roger Garber of Garber Farms, Inc. found themselves with an opportunity to get their hands on a Case IH Quadtrac prototype.

"That's one of the reasons I like the agreement we came up with in terms of leasing the Quad. It is sort of a cooperative effort between ourselves, Garber and Hoober and that's appealing. It gave us a chance to see what the Quad could to in conditions we work in, how productive it would be and how durable it would be," Kreider said. "It's good for Hoober to see how their machine is running and it is good for Garber because the tractor can be running even when they're not using it."

The lease arrangement has been so successful that, according to Garber, BR Kreider & Son is using the Quadtrac around 65 percent of the time, with Garber Farms using it the remaining 35 percent.

"Once the operators from BR Kreider got on the machine, they really liked it," said Garber. "One of the reasons is the ride is better, smoother. And the cab keeps them out of the weather and it has a radio and all those type of things."

Longtime pan operator Bernell Moyer at BR Kreider & Son agrees with Garber's assessment of the Quadtrac.

"From the operator's standpoint, I'd say the ride is the best thing about the machine," said Moyer, a pan operator for over 28 years. "The ride is much smoother compared to other machines where you bounce around a lot, which can lead to backaches and other problems.

"And once I started running the Quadtrac, it didn't take long for me to know that this machine was going to help me do my job better," Moyer said. "It's much faster than other pans and it loads twice as fast."

And in the excavating business, just as in farming, production is the key. Kreider monitors the productivity of each machine, and he likes what he's seen.

"From what we're seeing, the Quadtrac is moving twice the dirt that we move with the TS-14s. For good dirt, top soil and good fill we can really move a lot of dirt with that machine," Kreider said. "Basically, the Quadtrac is moving 34 cubic yards of dirt with one man versus 17 cubic yards of dirt on our other pans.

"Plus, with the traction you get with the Quadtrac, you're able to work in conditions that are a little too wet to work with a conventional pan," Kreider said. "So that's a definite advantage as well."

Rockingham Mill Signs Dealer Agreement With Pennfield

HARRISONBURG, Va. — Rockingham Mill, a Shenandoah Valley livestock feed manufacturer, has been selected as the exclusive dealer in Virginia for Pennfield Feeds.

Under this agreement, Rockingham Mill, which markets feeds under the Rockingham and the "Big R" brands, can incorporate Pennfield ingredients and technology in its products plus offer other products under the Pennfield Feeds brand.

"Pennfield is an industry leader in dairy nutrition," said Steve Bird, vice president and division manager of Rockingham Mill. "Pennfield's patented process of steam rolling grains such as corn, soybeans and barley, SuperFlake (TM), greatly increases rumen digestibility and is on the leading edge of technology. We plan to incorporate SuperFlake grains into our Rockingham dairy rations which will be a real plus for our customers here in the Valley and throughout the state."

"We are very pleased to become a working partner with Rockingham Mill," said Bob Buehler, vice president of Pennfield's Ag Products Division. "Farmers in the Central Shenandoah Valley have relied on Rockingham Mill for almost 80 years. Both of our companies are focused on providing the finest quality dairy feed. Together, we can offer dairy producers products that will boost milk production and improve their bottom line."

Founded in 1919 in Harrisonburg, Virginia, as a flour and feed milling company, Rockingham Mill is now a division of RMC, Inc., which also operates Rocking R Hardware retail stores and Ram Plumbing Supply primarily serving Rockingham, Augusta, Shenandoah, and surrounding counties.

Kuhn Helps Break World Plowing Record

VERNON, N.Y. — On March 4, Kuhn, in conjunction with John Deere and Kleber, smashed the world record for the number of acres plowed in 24 hours.

Maurice Donval, a farmer from Finistere, France, plowed a total of 445.7 acres in 24 hours. This record far exceeds the previous record of 315.5 acres set in Germany in September 1995.

This record was achieved using a Kuhn-Huard Challenger, 15 bottom, semi-mounted, roll-over plow. The plow covered 25 feet of ground in one pass and was fitted with a Kuhn-Huard H4 Helicoidal Triplex™ Mouldboards set a 20 inches and ZXE skimmers. The plow was pulled in furrow by a John Deere 9400 tractor fitted with 4 - Kleber 710/70 R38 tires.

Maurice Donval plowed nonstop for 24 hours with refueling taking place on the move. The volume of soil turned over is calculated at 588,600 cubic yards, or more than 1.28 billion pounds of soil (average working depth for the plow as 9.8 inches). Four-hundred-eighty gallons of fuel were consumed during the 24-hour period for an average consumption of 1.077 gal./acre.

Maurice Donval is no stranger to the field of world championship plowing. In 1989 Donval won the French plowing championship and in 1992 he won the world 24 hour record with a record of 212.5 acres. Since then, the record was raised to 269.3 acres in 1993 and 315.5 acres in 1995.

This record is confirmed and will be cited in the Guiness Book of World Records.

BASF To Participate In Preferred Customer Program

PARSIPPANY, N.J. — American Cyanamid and the BASF, two of the leading marketers of crop protection products in the United States, announce that they have formed an agreement where BASF will participate in American Cyanamid's Harvest Partners® preferred customer program.

The Harvest Partners program, launched by American Cyanamid in 1993, is a customer loyalty program that rewards eligible, participating growers and retailers for the purchase of selected products.

Although American Cyanamid and BASF both intend to offer the program, each company will have separate promotions for grower participation and product eligibility.

The agreement between American Cyanamid and BASF will give participating growers increased opportunities to earn Harvest Points® award credits for valuable redemption items. Many BASF products are eligible. For retailers, participation in the industry's first and only preferred customer program means they will be able to fulfill Cyanamid and BASF product promotions quickly and efficiently through a single fulfillment mechanism. Earlier this year, Cyanamid and Novartis Crop Protection, Inc. formed an agreement to include select Novartis products in the program.

The Harvest Partners® program has awarded Harvest Points® award credits to growers who purchase Cyanamid crop protection products. Beginning this year, growers will earn points for the purchase of proven Cyanamid crop protection products, and select Novartis and BASF products. Cyanamid AgriCenter™ dealers will continue to earn points for the sale of Cyanamid products.

Introducing The New 2300 Series Axial-Flow® Combines.

The three new 2300 Series combines are equipped with a high-visibility operator environment so revolutionary, everything else is history.

Wider, amazingly comfortable and designed with convenient cab-forward controls and instrumentation, this cab literally conforms to its occupant. An engineering landmark – Focalized Cab Mounting – minimizes motion for a smooth, steady ride. A multi-function propulsion lever puts most operations right in the palm of your hand. And an all-new right-hand console moves in tandem with your seat.

At the heart of the 2300 Series remains the strength of the Axial-Flow combine – the exclusive, patented rotor. And the recent addition of the Cross Flow™ cleaning fan provides a remarkably uniform, powerful airflow throughout the entire sieve area.

Why not stop by and see the new Case IH 2300 Series for yourself? We'll help you discover a better way of looking at your harvest.

Dr. Edward Mills
Associate Professor of Dairy and Animal Science
Penn State University

American consumers are continually changing Population trends include, among others, increasing numbers of teenagers, elderly/retired, single parent house holds and meals consumed away from home

In the last election campaign the term "Soccer Mom" came to represent demands and desires of today's families During a match last week the "Soccer Moms" talked about capital gains taxes, Joey's shin guards, retirement, the loud soccer coach, hiring a new department manager, what's for supper, raffle tickets, violin lessons and the player on the other team who "must be too old for this league" Meal planning didn't get much coverage

As American demographics change so does the way we eat More than 1/3 of all meals are now consumed away from home with restaurant and food service meals accounting for over 52% of all food sales

Microwave ovens in minivans give a whole new meaning to the term "fast food" Even meals at home are frequently consumed in shifts as some family members leave early or return late Many of the changes in the way we eat are driven by the need to fit food into a busy schedule Nevertheless, as lives become more hectic, the desire for a traditional eating experience seems to be increasing

A traditional meal with family members sitting around the table can require considerable planning and foresight With very little time allocated to such planning, the challenge for the food industry is to find ways to provide for convenient at-home and away-from-home dining experiences Food marketers are beginning to think about consumer needs in terms of "Meal Solutions". A meal solution might be thought of as a combination of foods and services which fulfill consumer desires for a particular meal.

Variety is the unifying principle for providing meal solutions. Convenient meal solutions include ready-to-eat, ready-to-heat and ready-to-cook foods Ready-to-eat items (hot or cold) are consumed on the spot or taken home, often for immediate use Since most meal planning occurs less than 1 hour before the meal, retail displays are often designed to suggest whole meal solutions.

At the prepared foods deli a shopper might pick up a rotisserie roasted broiler along with the salad and side dishes needed for a family dinner. Ready-to-heat foods are partially prepared, precooked and chilled or frozen so the shopper will heat and serve the meal at home. Roasted turkey breast or chicken nuggets might form the center of a ready-to-heat meal which can be picked up on the way home from work and prepared in less than 15 minutes.

Ready-to-cook items give the cook an opportunity to be fully involved in food preparation without much preplanning. When merchandising ready-to-cook items the retailer may add seasonings, marinades or stuffing to provide a distinctive flavor or presentation Ready-to-cook chicken breast roulade, Cajun marinated turkey tenderloins and others may be offered in either refrigerated or frozen form

Adjacent display space may be used for bagged lettuce salad, fresh green beans, prepared sauces and other ingredients or condiments By offering a wide range of meal solutions the retailer is able to match his service to the varied lifestyles of his customers

Until recently the focus on "meal solutions" was mainly at the retail level However, as this market category grows major poultry processors such as Tyson and Perdue and many smaller companies have begun to offer new products.

Retailers and food service operators now have a wide selection of seasoned, marinated, formed, glazed, breaded, stuffed or cooked poultry products from which to choose. Hardly a week goes by without the release of a new prepared poultry product designed to be part of a meal solution.

And this may be just the beginning In a recent presentation to a food industry group Bernie McGorry, Food Service Business Manager for Hershey Foods, suggested that all food industry growth in the next 7-10 years will occur in food service (including supermarket prepared foods). If that is true, it means even bigger changes lie ahead for the poultry industry.

Do Your Homework When Hiring Environmental Professional

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — If consumers or developers are in the market to purchase farmland or a former industrial site, hiring an environmental professional to inspect the site should be a high priority, according to experts in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"If you are about to purchase property that has not been used as a residential area in the past, you should make sure there are no environmental problems or financial liabilities associated with the land," said Jim Garthe, instructor in agricultural and biological engineering. "By spending money now to assess any possible problems, the buyer can save a lot ot time, money, and legal fees down the road."

In most cases, buyers should hire an environmental professional to perform a Phase I site assessment, which includes a site tour; descriptions of all buildings, tanks, drums, ponds, pits or disposal systems; and a report of significant environmental liabilities. It also entails a background history of the property; a records search for state, local, and federal violations; a title search; and environmental liens and evidence of past use.

"The safest route is to have an assessment done even if you feel the property is clean," said Jennifer Shufran, research technologist in agricultural and biological engineering. "No one should go into a large purchase with blilnders on."

Garthe and Shufran suggest a few guidelines to heed if consumers plan to hire an environmental professional.

• What is an environmental professional? This is a person who has credentials and experience in environmental science and works with environmental management, planning, impact assessment, environmental protection, or compliance. Shufran says environmental experts can have varied scientific and educational backgrounds. She suggests checking telephone listings under "Geologists," "Engineers — Environmental Pollution Control" or "Environmental and Ecological Services."

• Estimates. Contact at least two or three firms or consultants for estimates. Expect to pay between $800 and $1,000 for an inspection.

• Ask for a statement of qualifications. Each company should provide a professional resume that includes education of owners and employees, relevant work experience, projects the firm has recently completed, references from past clients, preferably on similar projects, and professional memberships. Garthe said look for membership in the Institute of Professional Environmental Practice, American Academy of Environmental Engineers, or the National Association of Environmental Professionals. Also, ask for a history of the company and listing of employees and their specializations.

• Make a preliminary phone call. "Describe in detail what you need," Shufran said. "The company can tell you if your project is smaller than their typical assignment or much larger than they can handle."

• Ask about other experts. Garthe said clients should aks if the company or consultant employs or has existing professional relationships with specialized environmental professionals such as hydrogeologists, water quality analysts, or environmental soil chemists.

• Ask for a written proposal. "The document should be a step-by-step description of what the company is going to do. It should include some rought estimates of costs as well," Shufran said, "If you receive an estimate that is well above other estimates, be sure to ask what services are included to warrant the higher price," Shufran says. "If those services are important to your project, it might be smart to go with the higher estimate."

• Ask for detailed documentation after the assessment is done. Garthe said the report should include a summary of each procedure the firm performed and a detailed explanation of the company's findings. "You don't want a report that says 'we walked over the property and found nothing'," Garthe said. "It should tell exactly what the environmental professional did during the assessment of the site."

Underground Fuel Tank Deadlines Approaching

EDGEWATER, Md. — Farmers who want to utilize the Maryland Department of the Environment's (MDE) Underground Storage Tank (UST) Upgrade and Replacement Loan Program must submit a completed application before the June 30, 1998 deadline.

The UST Upgrade and Replacement Fund was established in 1991 to assist tank owners in financing the upgrade, replacement, or removal of their motor fuel USTs in order to comply with federal requirements.

Owners of farm storage tanks with a capacity more than 1,100 gallons, located on a farm and devoted to the production of crops or raising animals, and have been registered since July 1991, are eligible to borrow up to $50,000 per site. The term is for a maximum of 15 years.

Farm tanks with a capacity of 1,100 gallons or less are exempt from all technical regulations, federal, and state. However, if an oil release occurs, MDE must be notified at (410) 974-3551 within two hours after the discovery.

"Storing fuel on the farm is just not a necessity but also a liability. Although there are costs with meeting fuel storage requirements for underground tanks, contaminating someone's water supply could cost even more," said Melvin Baile Jr., president of the Maryland Grain Producers Association.

Maryland has been delegated to administer the federal Resource Conservation & Recovery Act Program for the US Environmental Protection Agency. The Department of the Environment is now strictly enforcing the federal standards for leak detection and insurance requirements.

After December 22, 1998, MDE will also be enforcing federal standards for corrosion protection and spill and overfill protection for UST systems. The Department calculates that about 80 percent of the owners of the approximately 35,000 tanks have complied with the requirements.

For more information about the UST Loan Program or to obtain a "compliance outline," farmers should contact the Maryland Department of the Environment, Oil Control Program, (410) 631-3386.

Christmas Tree Growers To Meet

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — Christmas tree growers and individuals interested in growing Christmas trees are invited to a program sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension. Registration is required to attend this afternoon meeting.

Dr. Larry Kuhns and Tracey Harpster, Penn State University, Horticulture Department will discuss round-up herbicide plot, trickle irrigation, and sprayer calibration. Dr. Paul Heller, Penn State University Entomology Department, will discuss insect problems found in 1998.

Rayanne Lehman, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture will discuss how to control scale on Christmas trees.

The meeting will be held Tuesday, June 23, from 12:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. at Whispering Pines Tree Farm, Breingsville. This meeting will qualify for credits toward pesticide recertification.

For more information, contact George P. Perry Jr., extension agent/horticulture, (717) 622-4225.

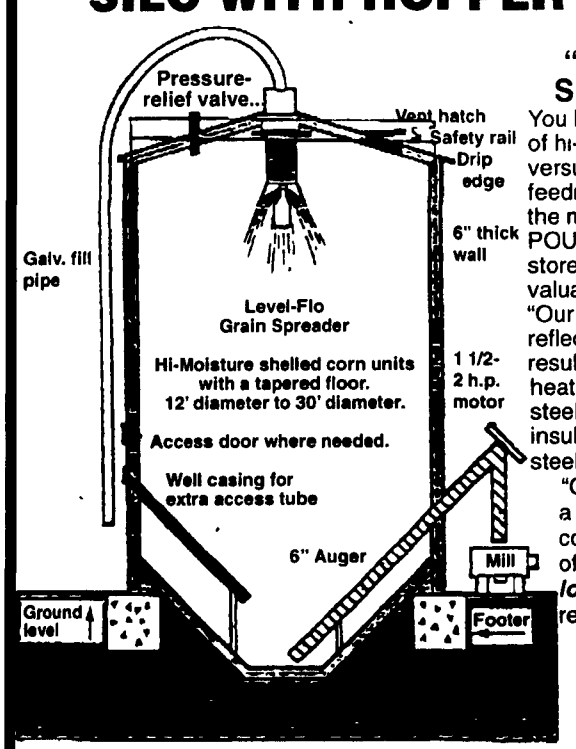
HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN SILO WITH HOPPER FLOOR



"Hi-Moisture Shelled Corn"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to prefab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before . The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

After . . The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

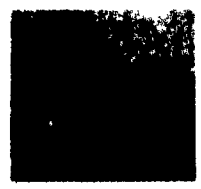
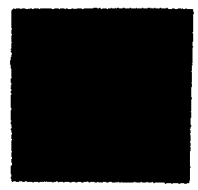
After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use.

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made. quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before . The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

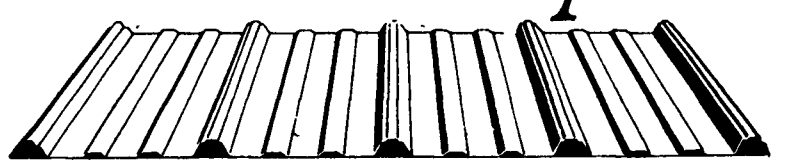
Rural Economy


Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.
Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

WHEN CHOOSING A HOOF TRIMMER CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING:

EXPERIENCE

KNOWLEDGE
Of today's hoof care problems as well as corrective measures.

DEPENDABILITY

REALISTIC
I can't do 100 head a day, but I can do 20-25 a day correctly at competitive prices.

I WOULD LIKE TO HELP YOU IMPROVE YOUR HERD!

When agriculture is your life, the equipment choice is Eby

EBY is the leading manufacturer of aluminum bodies and trailers for agri-transportation. Our products are designed for superior strength, reduced weight for greater payload capacity, minimum maintenance and higher resale value. In addition to premium standard features, we offer full custom options built to your specs.

EBY's complete line includes models for every requirement:

- Gooseneck Trailers- lengths 14' - 32'; widths 7', 7'6", 8' and 8'6"
- Bumper Hitch Trailers- lengths 12' - 18'
- Grain Bodies- lengths to 24', plus landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'
- Flatbed Bodies- lengths to 32' in 5 widths
- Landscape Bodies- lengths to 12'

For quality equipment and customer service that works as hard as you do, nobody offers more than EBY.

KUHN

We Put A Spin On Farming

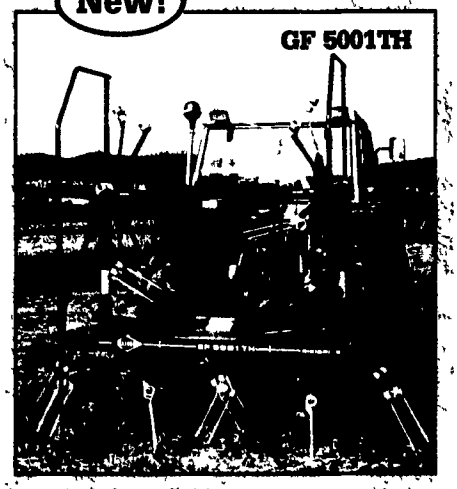
Spin Dry.

Kuhn Gyrotedders are easy to use and gentle on your crop.

New!

GF 7501MH—
A new high-capacity tedder with 6 rotors, this 26' 7" 3-point mounted model features the Kuhn Digidrive® coupler for long life and easy folding and unfolding. (Featured left)

New!



GF 5001TH—
To make it easy to switch from field to transport and back, this model features vertical hydraulic folding capacity. (Featured above)

Reduce the costs of wet weather on your valuable hay crop. The use of a Kuhn Gyrotedder can reduce drying time to help beat the rain and preserve the value and quality of the crop. Kuhn offers top quality Gyrotedders that last year after year. Kuhn is the leading manufacturer of rotary tedders in North America and the World!

For the ultimate in reliability and ease-of-use, all folding models* are equipped with Kuhn's exclusive Digidrive® coupling. This provides a constant velocity drive in all rotor positions with the ability to fold and operate at nearly 180°! The bottom line compact transport and storage, longer service life and no more damage caused by operator error!

Perfect Windrows. Perfectly.

New!

The gentle, clean raking action of a Kuhn Gyrorake makes superbly-formed fluffy windrows without tedding. These windrows dry faster with less leaf loss, and will feed into a baler or forage chopper better than the windrows produced by other types of raking systems. The use of a PTO drive instead of a ground drive lets the rotor speed be adjusted to optimally match the ground speed, ensuring the highest productivity in all conditions. This feature also means that large amounts of hay, even wet hay for silage, can be merged into one windrow that best meets the capacity of today's large balers and forage choppers. Kuhn's advanced raking design minimizes risk of dirt or stones in the windrow.

The heart of the Kuhn Gyrorake is the gearbox. The design of the gearbox, tine arms and tines means cleaner, gentler raking and a higher operating speed for fluffier windrows. The enclosed gearbox ensures trouble-free operation.

The Kuhn Cutterbars.

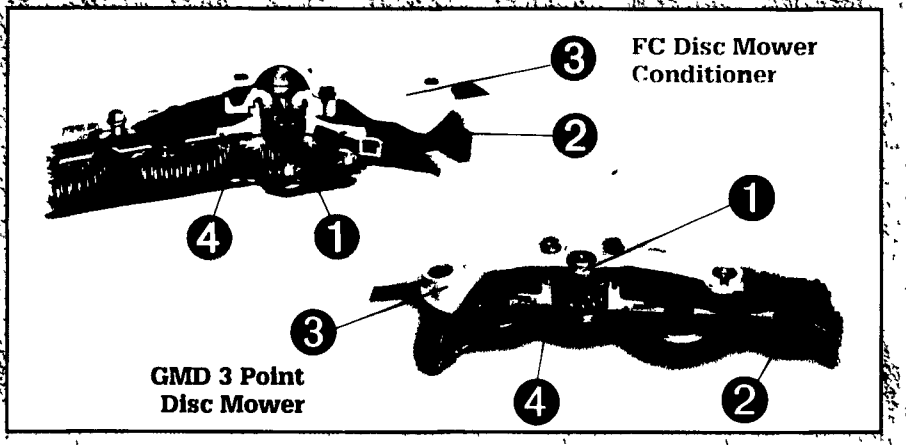
Kuhn cutterbars offer no compromises. Unlike some of the competition, Kuhn has designed and manufactures two types of cutterbars: a GMD Disc Mower bar and a FC Disc Mower Conditioner bar. Each one is engineered and built specifically for the requirements of the machine in which it operates. Some companies try to get by with a "one size fits all" design.



Cutterbar Features

1 Protectadrive® A specially-designed and patented disc mounting system that normally protects the cutterbar should a major obstacle be struck in the field. The Protectadrive® disc mounting station can also easily be serviced in the field without removing or disassembling the cutterbar.

2 Lightweight A precision formed, high strength, steel reinforced casing holds the drive components. Some competitive cutterbars are made of heavy cast iron, adding weight which will reduce the response of the flotation, thus increasing crop damage and wear on the machine.

3 Low profile The proven gear-to-gear drive allows for the lowest possible cutterbar profile. The crop is cut cleanly and evenly with the least amount of disruption.

4 Long life The large gears of the Kuhn bar turn at about half the speed and with lower tooth loads compared to shaft drive bars. This means longer life and less downtime. All moving parts are lubricated—competitive shaft bars operate drive splines at very high speeds without any lubrication.

Easy maintenance Servicing the bar is quick and easy, with only one drain and one fill opening. Most modular bars require service at each individual module. Internal repairs can also be performed quickly without the need for special tools.

170 Years of Producing Quality Farm Machinery!

A blacksmith, Joseph Kuhn began producing his first agricultural implements in 1828. In the 1960s, Kuhn first started distributing machinery in North America. In 1976, Kuhn Farm Machinery was incorporated, with its headquarters in the historic dairy community of Vernon, New York. Today, Kuhn equipment is available through dealers across the U.S., with seven machine and parts distribution warehouses for fast, timely delivery of replacement parts. Kuhn's 170 years of experience and quality have earned the company worldwide recognition.

In an age where most agricultural firms are consolidating, offering fewer products, and getting smaller, Kuhn Farm Machinery is growing. 1997 saw the completion of a new regional warehouse in Columbia, Tennessee. To provide even
